This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

‡ Document not obtainable.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including indices. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and $\frac{1}{2}$c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Mines Bureau Bulletin 59, Investigations of detonators and electric detonators, is another of the somewhat numerous publications which the Mines Bureau has issued in the good cause of lessening the perils of the miner's hazardous occupation. The term "detonator" is used by the Mines Bureau to designate what miners call a "blasting cap," being a copper capsule containing a small quantity of some detonating explosive compound to be ignited by a fuse, such ignition producing a minor explosion which causes a major explosion of the whole blasting charge of dynamite or other high explosive. An "electric detonator" is like the other except that it is fired by an electric wire instead of a fuse. The tests made indicate that there is no advantage in using an extra detonator in the dynamite, and also that the practice of using combination charges in coal mines offers no advantage and threatens many dangers. 10 cents.

Mineral resources of the United States for the calendar year 1912 is not yet published, but the chapter on the Cement industry has been separately printed in an advance pamphlet in which the growth of the industry is sketched not only for 1912 but for a series of years. The production of Portland cement has risen from 42,000 barrels in 1880 to 2,438,096 barrels in 1912. The growth has been constant, every year of the 33 showing an increase over the preceding year. On the other hand the production of natural cement, which reached its high record of 9,868,179 barrels in 1899 has fallen off till it is now rated as "unimportant." 5 cents.

Interesting reading is supplied in Proceedings of the national park conference held at the Yosemite National Park, Oct. 14–16, 1912. This was the second conference of the kind, the first having been held in 1911. The members of the conferences have been mainly officials of the national parks and of the various railroads which carry tourists to them, though many others who feel an interest in these great and wonderful scenic preserves were also present. The discussions were informal and racy and showed a warm and intelligent feeling for further improvement of the parks and for increased effort to bring their attractions to the knowledge of the vacation-taking part of the American people. 15 cents.

A useful and much-needed manual just issued by the Ordnance Department of the Army, and entered in this catalogue under Watertown Arsenal, is an Index to reports of tests of metals and other materials, 1881–1912. Cloth, 35 cents.

A Congressional report of unusual interest is Senate report 73, 63d Congress, 1st session, brought in by Senator Owen from the Committee on the Library. Its subject is a proposed legislative reference bureau in the Library of Congress. The idea of such a bureau was first conceived and developed in Wisconsin, one of the most progressive of the States, by Dr. Charles McCarthy, who is now at the head of the Wisconsin Bureau. The function of a legislative reference bureau is to supply expert information to the lawmakers. If they are incubating a project of legislation, the bureau informs them where and when other laws on like subjects have been enacted, how they have succeeded, and what weaknesses they have developed that a new law should avoid. When the purposes of a proposed law have been decided upon, it is the function of the legislative bureau to supply an expert draft, expressing its true meaning in language so exact that it cannot be misconceived or perverted. With such a bureau in operation no coach-and-four can be driven through any future Congressional laws. Nowhere is there more need for such an expert bureau than in Washington, where the volume of legislation is so great and so important. And nowhere is there a better place for such a bureau than in the Library of Congress, where one of the world's greatest collections of books is at command. Report 73 demonstrates that those best qualified to judge agree that Congress needs and must soon have the added facility of a legislative reference bureau.

Mines Bureau Bulletin 56, First series of coal-dust explosion tests in the experimental mine, records the ingenious attempts which have been made to solve scientifically one of the most difficult problems in the great coal-mining industry. Explosions have been artificially brought about in an experimental mine created for the purpose, and the results have been carefully studied and reported. The liberally illustrated pamphlet is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 10 cents.

Mines Bureau Bulletin 61, Abstract of current decisions on mines and mining, Oct. 1912–Mar. 1913, is a new departure in the publications of this Bureau. It comes up from the mines to the law courts, giving the decisions of all the Federal and State courts of last resort on mining questions. This action is prompted by the knowledge that there is no other medium by which this information is conveyed directly to miners and mine owners. Should this first publication be received with favor by those for whom it is published, the Bureau will issue like bulletins often enough to keep the court information reasonably current. 10 cents.

Public 6, 63d Congress, is the official designation of the new arbitration act, approved July 15, 1913, which supersedes the Erdman act of 1898. Copies of the new law can be supplied at 5 cents each.

The edition for the calendar year 1912 of the Geological Survey's annual report entitled Mineral resources of the United States will contain a chapter on Commercial qualities of the slates of the United States and their localities. This chapter has been separately issued in an advance pamphlet. It shows not only where the different kinds of slate are quarried, but describes them and states their uses and value for various purposes. 5 cents.

Public Roads Office Circular 99 (5 cents) is Progress reports of experiments in dust prevention and road preservation during the year 1912. It is on the whole an exhibit that must be encouraging to all friends of good roads—and this classification necessarily includes all good people, for road improvement is now recognized as one of the most important economic and social reforms of this reforming age.

Labor Statistics Bureau Bulletin 116 is also no. 1 in the Women in industries series, and has a subtitle of its own, Hours, earnings, and duration of employment of wage-earning women in selected industries in the District of Columbia. This publication was listed in the Monthly catalogue for June, 1913, page 682. 10 cents.

The monetary question is the subject of the latest select list of references from the chief bibliographer of the Library of Congress. Though the extent of the literature on this subject is so great that rigorous selection and exclusion were practiced, yet the new list is one of the largest of the numerous valuable reference lists that have been issued in recent years by the Library. It is not likely that anything of real importance has been overlooked or omitted. Sold by the Superintendent of Documents but not by the Library of Congress. 25 cents.

There is something new for the bold soldier boys at only 5 cents. It is Manual of the bayonet, illustrated, a regular army official publication. This is entered under Staff Corps, General.

The Philippine Islands, a report by Brig.-Gen. Frank McIntyre, chief of the Insular Affairs Bureau, to the Secretary of War, dated Mar. 1, 1913, has recently been issued in a 2d edition (10 cents). It is a 69-page review of present conditions in the islands, governmental, financial, commercial, and educational. It is a gratifying exhibit.

Water-supply paper 334, now in press, is the report of the Geological Survey on the disastrous floods of the present year in the Ohio Valley. It is to have 22 views.

Education Bureau Bulletin 28, series of 1913, is Expressions on education by American statesmen and publicists. The first authority quoted is Dr. Benjamin Franklin, the printer-philosopher, and the last is President Alderman of the University of Virginia. It will be no surprise to friends of education to note that all the authorities cited appear to be in favor of it. 5 cents.

The Locomotive Boiler Inspection Division of the Interstate Commerce Commission has issued in cloth at 15 cents a handy manual under the title, Rules and instructions for the inspection and testing of locomotive boilers and their appurtenances.

Farmers' bulletin 545, issued by the Plant Industry Bureau, is called Controlling Canada thistles, and its information is worth several thousand times its cost, which is 5 cents.

The 1913 print of the United States internal-revenue gaugers' manual is now ready. 60 cents.

Indexes to those standard publications, the Yearbooks of the Agriculture Department, have been issued during past years for the periods 1894–1900 and 1901–05, and now a new one, for the years 1906–10, has come to hand. Such helps double the value of the works to which they supply a key. 15 cents.

The civil service rules have been so amended as to permit the Public Printer to appoint one private secretary or confidential clerk without competitive examination. Heads of departments have always had the right to make two such appointments and assistant secretaries one.

Mines Bureau Technical paper 48, entered in the June Monthly catalogue, page 674, is a record of coal-mine accidents in the United States for the series of years beginning with 1896 and ending with 1912. The Bureau is also issuing monthly statistics on this subject. The publicity thus given should lend powerful aid to the efforts the Bureau is making by scientific research and experimentation to reduce the number of such accidents.

The Library of Congress has published Calendar of the papers of John Jordan Crittenden, a name not familiar to the present generation, but conspicuous in the public service for two or three preceding generations. He was born in 1787, lived in Kentucky, was a Henry Clay Whig in politics, and held many high public places. He resigned from the United States Senate in 1819, 1841, and 1848, probably holding the record as a resigning Senator. He was Attorney General in the elder Harrison's Cabinet and also in Fillmore's. He was nominated for Justice of the Supreme Court, but failed of confirmation. He was Governor of Kentucky. He was Senator from Kentucky in the years immediately preceding the war between the States, and then came most prominently before the public because of his earnest efforts to compromise the difficulties between North and South, and thus prevent civil war. When the war came two of his sons joined the armies, one on the northern and one on the southern side, both becoming generals. The Crittenden calendar, in cloth binding, is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 60 cents.

Soils Bureau Bulletin 96, Soils of the United States, edition 1913, is a very extensive work of about 800 pages, 13 folded diagrams, and 2 maps in a pocket, the whole forming, as certified by the chief of the Bureau in his letter of transmittal, "a very complete handbook of the soils of the United States." It is therefore a work of much economic importance. Copies can be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents at $1 each.

General index to Experiment station record, v. 13–25, 1901–11, fills 1159 pages. There must be much of variety and value in the 13 volumes of a magazine which require an index of such a size. $1.00 in paper.

Two recent bulletins of the Education Bureau, series of 1913, no. 26, Good roads Arbor day, and no. 27, Prison schools, are of a kind to interest readers young and old, learned and unlearned, practical and theoretical. No. 20, Illiteracy in the United States and an experiment for its elimination, is in the same class—perhaps at the very head of the class. All three are most instructively illustrated. Copies from the Superintendent of Documents, 10 cents each.

There has been considerable inquiry for a print of the Constitution of the United States with the two new amendments, the 16th, authorizing Congress to tax incomes, and the 17th, providing for the election of United States Senators by popular vote instead of by the State legislatures. Such a print has now been made. It is Senate document 12, 63d Congress, 1st session. 15 cents.

Text of the 24th annual report on the statistics of railways in the United States for the year ended June 30, 1911, has been published by the Interstate Commerce Commission and is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 10 cents. Somewhat confusingly, the table of contents for the whole report—the statistical statements, tables, appendixes, and indexes, as well as the text—is included in the pamphlet, and may lead buyers to look for material which is not to be found.

RADICAL CHANGES IN AGRICULTURAL PUBLICATIONS

New plans which have been decided upon for the publication work of the Agriculture Department, looking to wider publicity and more popular character, involve very radical changes.

In the first place, the 12 series of numbered bulletins and the same number of series of numbered circulars heretofore issued from the Animal Industry, Biological Survey, Chemistry, Entomology, Plant Industry, Soils, Statistics, and Weather Bureaus, the Experiment Stations and Public Roads Offices, the Forest Service, and the Publications Division, have all been discontinued. Fully 3000 distinct publications have been issued in these 24 series. The Crop reporter and the Foreign crops report, monthly periodicals with a combined circulation of nearly 200,000, have also been discontinued.

Now what is to take the place of these numerous publications?

First, and probably most important, is the Bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture, an entirely new series, on a new plan, in popular form, for general distribution, beginning a new set of numbers at no 1. It will be issued at irregular intervals and in irregular sizes. Each bulletin will treat on one subject and one only, and the treatment may occupy 4 pages or 60. The writers are not to be cramped by hard and fast regulations as to space. Though this series of numbered Department bulletins will supersede the 24 series of bureau bulletins and circulars, the individuality of the bureaus will be preserved by giving them credit for their contributions.

A new serial which has been determined upon is the Journal of research, a royal octavo in size, in which all the technical material contributed by the scientific bureaus, and of interest only to specialists, will be gathered. It is thought inadvisable to include in series intended for popular distribution the reports of scientific researches, which must necessarily be described in scientific terminology that is so much Greek to the layman. By keeping this sort of material in a series by itself, the interest of students and specialists will be served and no puzzles will be put in the hands of the practical people.

The Journal will be distributed free only to agricultural colleges, technical schools, and experiment stations, to the libraries of the large universities, to Government depositories, and to such institutions as make suitable exchanges with the Department. The Journal will be for sale at a fixed price per number and per volume by the Superintendent of Documents, and he will be empowered to accept subscriptions for it. The Journal will be issued at irregular intervals; 12 numbers to constitute a volume. Bureaus and personal authors will receive full credit for their contributions to the Journal.

There will also be issued a weekly letter of information and suggestion (mimeographed), which will be sent only to correspondents of the Department from whom information is received. These probably number about 50,000.

The Experiment station record, the Monthly weather review, the Monthly list of publications, and North American fauna are to be continued.

The Farmers' bulletins are to be continued, though somewhat modified with a view to making them briefer and more specific in their information and instruction for the farming interest.

The Yearbook is to be continued, but also with modification. It is hoped to make the special articles more attractive in a literary sense, more readable, more like magazine articles, while still maintaining the former standard as to practical value.

The annual reports of the bureaus are to be abbreviated and made more strictly administrative reports, narrating what the bureaus have actually accomplished. The nonadministrative matter formerly found in annual reports may be used in the Department's Bulletin series.

The entire aim of these radical changes is to secure greater publicity and popularity for the scientific work of the Department, so that its constantly growing and widening knowledge of agriculture as a science and as an art may be imparted to the largest possible number of interested persons.

The present purposes of the Department do not contemplate the reprinting of publications of which the first edition has become exhausted. As the Superintendent of Documents is authorized to reprint any documents for which there may be a sale demand, it is intended to leave that branch to him, the Department's appropriation being thus left available for the issue of a greater number of new publications.

A NEW FUNCTION OF THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT

The Office of Markets is a new division of the Department, having for its function to facilitate and cheapen the marketing of farm products. A chief for the Office has been appointed and the Civil Service Commission announces a series of examinations to be held Aug. 4 to secure lists of eligibles for several important subordinate places. There is to be a specialist in cooperative organization, at $2,500 to $3,000 a year; a specialist in transportation of farm products at the same rate of pay; a specialist in marketing perishable products at the same pay; an assistant in cooperative organization accounting, at $1,800 to $2,400 a year; an assistant in cotton marketing, at $1,800 to $2,000; and an assistant in cottonseed marketing and utilization at like compensation. The creation of these offices indicates that agricultural cooperation is to be officially fostered. There is apparently no reason why such cooperation should not be at least as successful and beneficial in this country as it has been found in others.

There was no controversy or debate over sec. 5 of the Sundry civil appropriation bill which was vetoed in the 62d Congress by President Taft, reenacted without change in the 63d Congress, approved by President Wilson June 23, 1913, and therefore now a law of the land. So quietly was sec. 5 inserted in the bill, and so quietly was it twice passed and once vetoed, that one is now at a loss to know to whom to give credit for it. Whoever did it did a good thing for the libraries which are now designated as depositories of United States public documents and also for the integrity of the printed historical records of the Government. The text of the brief section in question is this:

SEC. 5. That libraries heretofore designated by law as depositaries to receive books and other Government publications shall hereafter, during their existence, continue such receipt; and new designations may be made when libraries heretofore chosen shall cease to exist or other designations shall hereafter be authorized by law.

This evidently makes the existing depositories permanent, and takes away from Senators and Representatives the privilege which, under a comparatively recent construction of an old law, had been given them of making at the opening of each new Congress new designations of libraries to receive a free supply of public documents. This was a vicious arrangement, for, when the option was exercised, it prevented libraries from accumulating complete sets of documents. As everybody knows, fragmentary sets of such material are of little value for reference use. There can be no more depositories designated until vacancies have occurred or new legislation has been enacted. All of the important libraries in the country will approve the purpose of sec. 5.

It will be noticed that in sec. 5 the word "depositaries" is used in preference to the word "depositories" heretofore used to designate the libraries which have been chosen to receive deposits of public documents. The dictionaries give depositaries first, as the preferred word, though the meaning of the two is identical.

The foregoing is not the only crumb of information especially momentous to the depository libraries that is current this month. The other one is the fact that with the beginning of the term of the 63d Congress began also the carrying out of the letter and spirit of the joint resolution of Jan. 15, 1908 (60th Congress, 1st session; 35 Stats., p. 566), providing that annuals and serials from the Executive Departments for sending to the depository libraries shall not be numbered or bound as Congressional documents. This provision could hardly have any intent other than that duplicates of the departmental issues should go to the depository libraries, this interpretation being supported by the supplemental provision that "the departmental edition shall be printed concurrently with the 'usual number'." As the library supply comes from the "usual number," this may be taken as a rather clear indication that the intent was to send to the libraries duplicates of the departmental reports and bulletins, and not a mongrel edition made up by imposing Congressional numbers on executive publications. This intent was in part carried out, the Congressional numbers having been omitted from the annuals and serials sent to depository libraries since the passage of the resolution of Jan. 15, 1908. The intent was, however, partly defeated by the use of a new style of binding, differing from both the departmental and the Congressional bindings and virtually creating for the libraries a third edition instead of eliminating one of the two then existing editions. The present practice calls for supplying the libraries by simply printing and binding "concurrently" additional copies of the departmental issues. Whether these are published by the Departments in cloth, leather, or paper, identical duplicate copies will go to the libraries. This practice is believed to be in accordance with the law, with economy, and with good sense, and the Documents Office has good reason for believing that it is satisfactory to the libraries.

NATIONAL PARK PUBLICATIONS

The following publications, issued by the Department of the Interior, are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents:

Analyses of waters of Hot Springs of Arkansas, by J. K. Haywood; and Geological sketch of Hot Springs, Ark., by Walter Harvey Weed. 56 pages, 2 illustrations. 10 cents.

Geological history of Crater Lake, Crater Lake National Park; by Joseph S. Diller. 31 pages, 28 illustrations. 10 cents.

Geological history of Yellowstone National Park; by Arnold Hague. 24 pages, 10 illustrations. 10 cents.

Geysers; by Walter Harvey Weed. 29+[1] pages, 23 illustrations. 10 cents.

Proceedings of national park conference held at Yellowstone National Park, Sept. 11 and 12, 1911. 209 pages. 15 cents.

Proceedings of national park conference held at Yosemite National Park, Oct. 14–16, 1912. 145 pages. 15 cents.

These pamphlets contain discussions of national park problems by officers of the Government and other persons.

Secret of big trees: Yosemite, Sequoia, and General Grant national parks; by Ellsworth Huntington. 24 pages, 14 illustrations. 5 cents.

Contains an account of the climate changes indicated by the growth rings and compares climate conditions in California with those in Asia.

Sketch of Yosemite National Park and account of origin of Yosemite and Hetch Hetchy valleys; by F. E. Matthes. 47 pages, 24 illustrations. 10 cents.

Some lakes of Glacier National Park; by Morton J. Elrod. 29 pages, 19 illustrations. 10 cents.

The following may be obtained free of charge from the Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C., and are also sold by the Superintendent of Documents:

Annotated list of books, Government publications, and magazine articles on the national parks. 27 pages.

Descriptive list of pictures of park scenes exhibited at public libraries by the Department of the Interior, containing short descriptions quoted from well-known writers, but no illustrations.

Information circulars containing data regarding hotels, camps, and points of interest, lists of books and magazine articles, sketch maps, and rules and regulations regarding Yellowstone National Park, 36 pages; Yosemite National Park, 27 pages; Mount Rainier National Park, 22 pages; Crater Lake National Park, 11 pages; Mesa Verde National Park, 24 pages; Sequoia and General Grant National Parks, 24 pages; Hot Springs of Arkansas, 8 pages; and Glacier National Park, 16 pages.

RADIO STATIONS

Navigation Bureau, Commerce Department, announces for publication about the middle of August a new List of radio stations of the United States, to be sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 15 cents.

It will be in 2 parts, which in this case will not mean two separate publications as it usually does in United States public documents, though not elsewhere. It will mean, simply and correctly, that the new list will be made up of two parts or subdivisions bound in one cover.

Part 1 will be an alphabetical list of all land stations not amateur, giving for each station the call signal, wave lengths, nature of service, and by whom the station is controlled; also, a similar list of all ship stations; also, an alphabetical list of all United States call signals.

Part 2 is a list of amateur stations licensed up to June 30, 1913, giving in all cases the call signal, owner, location, and power in watts.

It will be noticed that the new list will be of United States stations only, not of the world, like the lists annually issued, 1906–09, by the Navy Department, through its Equipment Bureau, and 1910 and 1912 through its Steam Engineering Bureau, under the title Wireless telegraph stations of the world. The term "wireless telegraph" seems to have been definitely abandoned in expert usage and the term "radio" substituted.

The number of radio stations is increasing so rapidly that listing those of even one country has become a work of much magnitude. Still, there is and is to be continuously a world list. It is, however, an international work, made by cooperation of countries, and called The international list of radio stations of the world. The 3d English edition is now announced. It may be had by remitting 50 cents to the International Bureau of the Telegraphic Union (Radiotelegraphic Service), Berne, Switzerland. Supplements noting additions and changes will be issued as required.

INCREASING THE MUSSEL SUPPLY

Notes on the natural hosts of fresh-water mussels is the title of Bureau of Fisheries document 778, a reprint from Fisheries Bureau Bulletin, v. 32. It is a scientific paper having a commercial bearing, for it looks to the conservation in the western rivers of the fresh-water mussels which are the material of the important pearl-button industry.

The word "host" in natural history does not mean a multitude, but an individual which has been made a habitation by individuals of other species. The guests of natural history hosts are parasites, uninvited and unwelcome, entertained by unwilling but helpless hosts. The hosts who thus entertain, transport, and distribute the larvæ of the mussels are fishes, to whose gills the glochidia (larvæ) adhere, and are thus carried till they develop sufficiently to desert their host and begin an independent existence.

Only a small percentage of the great number of larvæ produced by the mussels succeed in securing passage on board a safe and sane host. The larger percentage, failing a host, perish undeveloped. The purpose of the investigations reported upon in Bureau of Fisheries document 778 is to ascertain which fishes are the natural hosts of the mussel larvæ, so that measures may be taken to give these hosts larger stocks of the larvæ and to secure also a greater number of hosts. The mussels produce young in enormous numbers, usually hundreds of thousands, and sometimes millions, but the percentage reaching maturity by natural means is very small. The document points out how easily this percentage may be greatly increased by giving nature a little official assistance.

ABBREVIATIONS THAT NEED A KEY

The Official register (blue book) of the officers and employees of the United States Government had some years ago grown to be two such enormous volumes that they were hardly usable. The compilation for the year 1907 (and each odd-numbered year since) was turned over to the Census Bureau, which by rigorous abbreviation greatly reduced the size of the volumes. They are, however, still substantial volumes of several hundred pages, and growing, and the abbreviations have become so drastic that it has been found necessary to publish a Key to them. The Key is a real help in using the Register, for the most ingenious puzzle-solver would find some of the abbreviations hard nuts to crack. Here are a few samples:

AmbExt&Plen for Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary; AgtScab Erad for Agent for scabies eradicator; AudPO for Auditor for the Post Office Department: BtlMtSan for Battle Mountain Sanitarium: BblStrtnr for Barrel straightener; BullnSamp for Bullion sampler; Brkwir for breakwater; BuFr SpolClms for Bureau of French Spoliation Claims; Calcr for calculator; C&A for Cheyenne and Arapaho; ChClkToClkHR for Chief clerk to the clerk of the House of Representatives; CivlnMemBdOrd&Fts for Civilian member Board of Ordnance and Fortifications; DynTndr for dynamo tender; FormnStrhses for foreman of storehouses; 1 for first; 2 for second; InsprHdstns for inspector of headstones; IRS for Internal Revenue Service; RegBuICSL for Regional Bureau of United States, International Catalogue of Scientific Literature; MesChgMls for messenger in charge of mails; NHDVS for National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers; PrivSecSec for private secretary to the secretary; Sk for skilled; SIS for Steamboat Inspection Service; USBOGN for United States Board on Geographic Names—but this one seems hardly necessary, because of the fact that as long ago as 1906 this title was changed to the simpler form Geographic Board.

It will be seen that as far as practicable the Official register follows the form of the words which are abbreviated, omitting only the vowels after the usual custom of abbreviators, but the titles of the occupations carried on by the United States Government are so numerous and varied, and often of necessity so long, that unusual forms of abbreviation must be used in many cases. There is probably no honest employment known to men or women in America that is not represented in the Government service. The diversity of employments shown by the Official register is something amazing, and both the diversity and the numbers employed increase in a surprising ratio with each successive issue.

RAILROAD SECURITIES COMMISSION HEARINGS

As inquiries are still received for the hearings before "the Hadley Commission," so-called, which is correctly the Railroad Securities Commission, President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale University chairman, it seems advisable to print a few words of information concerning them.

This Commission, of 5 members, Arthur T. Hadley, Frederick N. Judson, Walter L. Fisher, Frederick Strauss, and Balthasar H. Meyer, was appointed in Aug. 1910, and held public hearings at Washington, Nov. 28 and 29 and Dec. 1, 1910; at New York, Dec. 15–22, 1910; at Chicago, Jan. 23–27, 1911, and at New York, Mar. 6 and 7, 1911.

The evidence taken filled about 5,000 typewritten pages. A copy in typewriting was supplied to each member of the Commission and to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Indexes to these copies of the evidence were made and printed in small number at the Government Printing Office, but the evidence itself has not been printed and no action toward having it printed has ever been taken.

The Report of the Commission, embodying important conclusions and recommendations, was sent to Congress by the President, Dec. 8, 1911, and pamphlet copies are still for sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 5 cents.

THE ABRIDGMENT

Though reform printing bills have been in incubation for some years without result, still there is hope of the passage of such a measure before the dogdays come around again. When the expected does come to pass one of the sure features of it will be the discontinuance of the publication called the Abridgment, which has been issued annually for more than half a century. It contains nothing which has not been already sufficiently printed elsewhere, being wholly made up of reprints of annual reports of Department and bureau head

Annual reports are not usually thought of as attractive reading. The popular idea of their attractiveness was well expressed by Mr. Taft, as Secretary of War, in the saying, "When I have anything I want to conceal, I put it in my annual report." Of course they are invaluable as official records, but when once printed that use of them is established, and no need of printing additional copies to meet the popular demand can be sustained by proof. In fact, there is no popular demand. It cannot be said that they are sold by the Superintendent of Documents. To keep within the truth, the utmost that can be said is that he offers them for sale. To make an actual sale there must be a buyer, and he has not yet appeared.

It is conceivable, and actually occurs at prolonged intervals, that a citizen wants to buy an annual report of the War Department or of the Navy Department or of the Treasury Department, but it has not yet occurred that any citizen has wanted to buy a big volume in which the annual reports of several Departments, accompanied by their various bureau reports, are bound together in forced juxtaposition.

Of such reports, however, is the Abridgment made up. At the beginning all were contained in one volume. Then it grew to two, then to four. In those years there cannot have been much abridging. Now it is down to two volumes again, but they are rather bulky books. Often in former years they were like the world before the Creation, "without form and void." Now they are better handled, having fairly good tables of contents and index. Though such a compilation is really not worth making, yet if it must be made it is right that the work should be well done.

Part 2, the Abridgment, 1912, was issued in July, containing such incongruous bookfellows as these: Annual reports of the Secretary of the Navy, with 9 bureau reports; Secretary of the Interior, with 7 bureau reports; Secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, Postmaster General and First Assistant Postmaster General, Civil Service Commission, and Interstate Commerce Commission. The Superintendent of Documents will sell a copy at 90 cents whenever he can find a buyer, and he offers vol. 1 at 75 cents.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas (issued in Library and Field editions) and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios (either Library or Field editions), whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 34 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. LABOR DEPARTMENT

NOTE.—The act to create a Department of Labor, approved Mar. 4, 1913 (public act 426), includes the following provisions: That there is hereby created an executive department in the Government to be called the Department of Labor, with a Secretary of Labor, who shall be the head thereof, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate; * * * and the Department of Commerce and Labor shall hereafter be called the Department of Commerce, and the Secretary thereof shall be called the Secretary of Commerce, and the Act creating the said Department of Commerce and Labor is hereby amended accordingly. The purpose of the Department of Labor shall be to foster, promote, and develop the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, to improve their working conditions, and to advance their opportunities for profitable employment. * * *

SEC. 2. That there shall be in said department an Assistant Secretary of Labor, to be appointed by the President, * * * He shall perform such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or required by law. There shall also be one chief clerk and a disbursing clerk, and such other clerical assistants, inspectors, and special agents as may from time to time be provided for by Congress. * * *

SEC. 3. That the following-named offices, bureaus, divisions, and branches of the public service now and heretofore under the jurisdiction of the Department of Commerce and Labor, and all that pertains to the same, known as the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Commissioners of Immigration, the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, the Division of Information, the Division of Naturalization, and the Immigration Service at Large, the Bureau of Labor, the Children's Bureau, and the Commissioner of Labor, be, and the same hereby are, transferred from the Department of Commerce and Labor to the Department of Labor, and the same shall hereafter remain under the jurisdiction and supervision of the last-named department. The Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization is hereby divided into two bureaus, to be known hereafter as the Bureau of Immigration and the Bureau of Naturalization, and the titles Chief Division of Naturalization and Assistant Chief shall be Commissioner of Naturalization and Deputy Commissioner of Naturalization. The Commissioner of Naturalization or, in his absence, the Deputy Commissioner of Naturalization, shall be the administrative officer in charge of the Bureau of Naturalization and of the administration of the naturalization laws under the immediate direction of the Secretary of Labor, to whom he shall report directly upon all naturalization matters annually and as otherwise required, and the appointments of these two officers shall be made in the same manner as appointments to competitive classified civil-service positions. The Bureau of Labor shall hereafter be known as the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and the Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor shall hereafter be known as the Commissioner of Labor Statistics; and all the powers and duties heretofore possessed by the Commissioner of Labor shall be retained and exercised by the Commissioner of Labor Statistics; and the administration of the Act of May thirtieth, nineteen hundred and eight, granting to certain employees of the United States the right to receive from it compensation for injuries sustained in the course of their employment * * *

SEC. 7. That there shall be a solicitor of the Department of Justice for the Department of Labor. * * *

SEC. 11. That this Act shall take effect March fourth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, and all Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with this Act are hereby repealed.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1. Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2. Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3. Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

 Document for sale by Superintendent of Documents.
† Distribution by office issuing document, free if unaccompanied by a price.
‡ Document not obtainable.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Elaborate and costly documents are frequently printed on the order of and for the use of Congressional committees, and are then not available to the public through the usual sources. Copies of committee publications are not printed for sending to the depository libraries, where they would be preserved for future reference. Copies are not provided for sale to the buyers to whom more than a million public documents of other kinds are annually sold by the Superintendent of Documents. The committees sometimes have a few copies for free distribution, but by the time interested persons learn that the documents are not to be had at the customary places, and find out the name of the committee to which application must be made, the supply in most cases is exhausted. Lately there have been two rather conspicuous examples of documents which all the larger libraries and many interested individuals would wish to have were they not barred by the committee custom. One is Public road systems of foreign countries and of States, 198 pages, printed for the use of the Joint Committee on Federal Aid in the Construction of Post Roads and obtainable only from that committee. The other is the Tariff handbook, two editions, presenting elaborate comparisons between old and new tariffs, prepared for the use of the Committee on Finance, United States Senate, and obtainable only from that committee. This last was entered in the Monthly catalogue for July, 1913. The library interest and the public interest would be served by improved methods in the matter of committee publications.

The Postal guide, August supplement, announces that the Postal laws and regulations, edition of 1913, will be ready for delivery about September 1st. This new edition was directed to be prepared by the Postal appropriation act of Aug. 24, 1912, which appropriated $55,000 for the printing, binding, and wrapping of 110,000 copies, but nothing for the work of compilation, which is no small task. The Public Printer is directed to retain 5,000 copies for sale at 10 per cent. above the cost of production. This is the first edition of the Postal laws since 1902, though a couple of small supplements have been issued in the interim. The price at which the new edition of Postal laws and regulations will be sold by the Superintendent of Documents is 75 cents.

Two numbers of the Weekly news letter, the new periodical of the Agriculture Department, dated Aug. 13 and Aug. 20, were issued in an imitation typewriter print, but the following numbers, beginning with vol. 1, no. 3, Aug. 27, have been printed at the Government Printing Office. The purpose of the new periodical is to supply early and fresh information to its thousands of volunteer crop correspondents, who do much work in the public interest with little compensation. If the standard of newsiness and practicality shown in the early numbers can be maintained, the Department will not be able to limit the distribution to its own correspondents. There will be room for a large paid subscription list.

The August supplement to the Postal guide prints the amendments to the parcel post regulations, taking effect Aug. 15, 1913, by which rates are reduced, limit of weight of packages carried is increased, and a C. O. D. service is begun. Though the parcel post is but little more than half a year old, it has already begun to grow at a rate that indicates a prodigious organization in the near future. It will be a public utility of the first order, and it is most fortunate that it is in the hands of the Government, where it cannot be exploited for private gain.

The World trade directory, published by the Manufactures Bureau, now the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, and sold by the Superintendent of Documents has become a work of recognized authority and of general use by exporters and others. New editions are called for and will be supplied. But the form will be changed. Instead of covering the whole globe in one huge volume, future editions will be issued in sections. The first section will relate to the commercial and manufacturing interests of the South American countries, and should be available for distribution toward the end of the present year. As the Bureau is not equipped to handle more than one section at the same time, other sections are not expected until next year.

Typical specifications for the fabrication and erection of steel highway bridges, prepared by the Office of Public Roads, and published as Circular 100 of that Office, will be of much value to road officials throughout the country. From the Superintendent of Documents, 5 cents.

The library of the Education Bureau has compiled and published a number of brief and handy reference lists on live subjects. Some of the titles are: Secondary education in the United States; Higher education; Maria Montessori and her methods; Mothers' clubs and parent-teacher associations; Rural life and culture; Economic value of education; Home economics. These are all listed in the Monthly catalogue for July, 1913.

International conferences are becoming so numerous that it is lively work keeping track of them. The Second International Opium Conference was held at The Hague, July 1–9 of the present year, and a report made on behalf of the American delegates by Mr. Hamilton Wright is now printed as Senate document 157 of the 63d Congress, and entered in this catalogue under the State Department. As a result of the First Conference, all the world's nations but 10 have agreed to confine the trade in opium and allied narcotics strictly to medical uses, and President Wilson expresses the belief that by the end of the present year assent to this policy will be universal throughout the civilized world. Great is cooperation.

Senate document 118, 63d Congress, 1st session, is the final report of the International Waterways Commission on the proposed submerged dam or weir at the outlet of Lake Erie. This structure would cost about three millions and a half and would raise the water in all the Great Lakes except Ontario, and though the raise would be too slight to cause damage, still it would be of great benefit to navigation, and the Commission unanimously recommends that a treaty be entered into between Great Britain and the United States providing for its construction. Though the report is accompanied by maps and tables illustrating and demonstrating the Commission's findings, its price is only 5 cents. The Commission finds that the level of the Lakes has been appreciably lowered by the Chicago Drainage Canal and the Erie Canal. As the freight boats on the Lakes are built nowadays of the utmost capacity that the depth of water in the harbors will permit, and as every added inch of water means an increased capacity of 85 tons for each of the big freighters, it is evident that the question is of serious importance to the greatest system of inland navigation in the world. The total area drained by the Great Lakes is estimated as 287,688 square miles, said by the Commission to be considerably greater than the German Empire. The Commission's report adds: "Of this total, about one third is occupied by the Lakes themselves—that is, devoted to reservoir purposes. The result is a uniformity of level and a uniformity of flow which are truly wonderful—a perfection of regulation which no work of man ever did or ever will approach."

Public document Price list 51, Health and hygiene, is out of stock, but will be reissued as soon as practicable. An earlier issue, however, will be a new edition of Price list 11, Food and diet, to which will be transferred the dietary material which was listed in the 1st, 2d, and 3d editions of no. 51. Similar division will necessarily be made of other price lists as the increase of available material makes them too bulky for convenience or economy.

Miss Annie Bock of California, a woman from a woman-suffrage State, and herself formerly an active suffragist, is the author of Senate document 160, 63d Congress, 1st session, which is a lively address in opposition to woman suffrage. Price, 5 cents.

Circular 33, Standards Bureau, will probably be a quick and extensive seller. It is the United States Government specifications for Portland cement. 10 cents.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has published during the month two new documents which are marked "First issue," indicating that future issues are expected. One is: "Regulations to govern the destruction of records of carriers by water," the other, "Classification of income and profit and loss accounts for carriers by water." Each 5 cents.

Number 6, volume 15, June, 1913, is the final number of the late unlamented Crop reporter.

Farmers' bulletin 551, The cultivation of American ginseng, has been issued and can be bought for 5 cents. It does not talk very encouragingly to would-be ginseng growers. While it is true that a mature crop is exceedingly profitable, yet it takes six years to get it, and the market for it is restricted. The average exportation of the roots for 10 years past has been only 164,000 pounds, a quantity which might readily be grown on 100 acres of land.

Senate report 166, 57th Congress, 1st session, Improvement of the park system of the District of Columbia, originally published Jan. 15, 1902, has been abridged and republished as Senate document 16, 63d Congress, 1st session, with numerous illustrations. The Superintendent of Documents has a few copies for sale at 10 cents. This is the Burnham report, which has been officially declared to be "the most comprehensive plan ever provided for the development of an American city." The improvement of the national capital is a matter of interest to every American citizen.

Vol. 2 of the American Historical Association Report for 1911, now in press, will be made up of the correspondence of three famous Georgians. Robert Toombs, Alexander H. Stephens, and Howell Cobb.

The Biological Survey Bureau, Agriculture Department, has issued its 1913 directory of the game officials throughout the country, a list which interests numerous persons. Price, 5 cents.

Education Bureau Bulletin 29, series of 1913, Accredited secondary schools in the United States, is a list of such schools for the whole country. The term "accredited secondary school," as used in this bulletin, means a school which requires for graduation at least 15 units of secondary work above a standard 8-grade grammar school course. A definition of the word "unit" has been agreed to by the chief educational associations as follows: "A unit represents a year's study in any subject in a secondary school, constituting approximately a quarter of a full year's work." The present list is an extensive one because of the great increase in the number of such schools in recent years. In 1891 the number of secondary schools, public and private, was 4,885, and the students 300,000. In 1912 the schools numbered 13,268 and the students 1,246,827. Dr. Kendric C. Babcock, the author of Bulletin 29, comments thus upon the increase in this important branch of the American educational system: "The improvement during the past two decades in the number, scope, efficiency, and popular estimation of secondary schools of all kinds is unparalleled in the educational history of the United States." Price, 10 cents.

The Government Hospital for the Insane (Saint Elizabeth's) has issued Bulletin 5 in its series of scientific publications. Bulletin 5 is the only title carried on its cover or title-page, but it contains five elaborate papers by members of the medical staff of this great institution on themes connected with its specialty.

Vol. 26, Interstate Commerce Commission reports (decisions), is now ready at $1.50. The index thereto has also been issued in a separate pamphlet.

Guide to the numismatic collection of the mint of the United States at Philadelphia, Pa., (10 cents), is a handy little pamphlet of 106 pages which every one of the thousands of citizens who have bought the Catalogue of coins, tokens, and medals in the numismatic collection of the Mint will find to be a convenient and useful supplement to that larger work.

New series are starting with frequency in these days. The Revenue-Cutter Service has just issued its Bulletin no. 1, and an interesting one it is, entitled Reports of vessels on ice patrol in the north Atlantic Ocean, April, May, June, 1913. Two revenue cutters, the Seneca and the Miami, were detailed to the service of finding icebergs and warning vessels of their whereabouts. Their work was aided by the radio service, as almost all kinds of sea navigation now are. Every day at 6 p. m. the vessel on patrol sent "broadcast" for the benefit of all vessels in those waters radiograms giving the information they had obtained. Each vessel was on patrol continuously for 15 days alternately while the other was going to Halifax for fuel and other supplies, returning to relieve its consort at the end of 15 days. They saw and gave warning of bergs of many sizes and shapes. Captain Johnston of the Seneca says that the only kind of berg he did not see "is the kind popularly pictured in schoolbooks, with high, overhanging, craggy pinnacles."

The Journal of research, the new magazine of the Agriculture Department which was announced in last month's Catalogue, it has now been decided shall be called Journal of agricultural research. The first number is in press.

NEW ANNUAL OF GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

Beginning with Professional paper 85, an annual volume in the United States Geological Survey's series of Professional papers will be devoted to short papers and preliminary reports on subjects of general geologic interest and will be entitled "Contributions to general geology."

Part A of Professional paper 85 has been issued and will be followed from time to time by other parts, all to form a volume for which a title-page, a table of contents, and an index will be supplied in due season. The pagination and plate numbering of the separate parts will run continuously through the volume.

Librarians and others who receive the separate parts should preserve them, as the complete volume will not be supplied to those who have received the parts.

The completed volume will be supplied to the depository libraries.

DISCONTINUANCE OF CHARTS

The issue by the Weather Bureau of marine meteorological charts for the oceans and Great Lakes has been terminated. For the north Atlantic, north Pacific, and Indian Ocean the August issue, 1913, was the last. The quarterly charts for the south Atlantic and south Pacific terminated with the issue for June-August. For the Great Lakes the chart for September is the last.

Pilot charts will hereafter be issued only by the Hydrographic Office.

Official announcement of these changes was made by the Weather Bureau under date of Aug. 20.

STATUTES AT LARGE, VOL. 37

The new volume of the Statutes at large, containing all the legislation of the 62d Congress, besides numerous treaties and conventions, Presidential proclamations, and other documents of state, is now on sale by the Superintendent of Documents.

Vol. 37 is in two parts, each part being a large leather-bound book. The two parts are sold at $2.25 each.

Vol. 37, like its most recent predecessor, is printed on a 75 per cent. "rag paper." Such paper is much more durable than that made from the wood pulp on which nearly all printing is done nowadays. Surely, the laws of the land should be published in the most enduring form, as they now are.

A NEW SUBSCRIPTION LIST

The Superintendent of Documents, though already handling 30-odd subscription lists, welcomes all newcomers.

This month's addition is the Treasury Department's Appeals pending before United States courts in customs cases, 20 cents a year.

This is a pamphlet printed quarterly (Jan., Apr., July, Oct.) for the information of members of the customs service and supplied free only to such members. There has been always an outside demand for it, which has been supplied by the Superintendent of Documents at 5 cents for single copies. For the convenience of regular buyers it has been decided to accept yearly subscriptions, so that only one remittance will be required yearly instead of four.

AMERICAN COMMISSION ON AGRICULTURAL COOPERATION

Senators Fletcher of Florida and Gore of Oklahoma, Representative Moss of Indiana, Col. Harvie Jordan of Georgia, Dr. John Lee Coulter of the Census Bureau, Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield of Massachusetts, and Dr. Clarence J. Owens of the Southern Commercial Congress were, on Mar. 14, 1913, appointed by President Wilson as members of a commission to investigate and study rural credits and agricultural cooperative organizations in foreign countries.

The authority for the appointment of such a commission is found in the appropriation act for the Agriculture Department, approved Mar. 4, 1913 (37 Stats., pt. 1, p. 855). The members are required to serve without compensation, but $25,000 is appropriated for their expenses.

The commission, as a body, sailed for Europe April 26, 1913, though not all the members went along. It returned July 26, having visited, as a body and by subcommittees, 20 different countries, and collected a great store of information and documents. A compilation committee of five members and an advisory committee of seven members have been appointed to digest this material and write a report, which it is hoped to have ready to transmit to the 63d Congress at the opening of its 2d session, Dec. 1, 1913.

On the return voyage by the steamship Cedric the commission adopted a preliminary statement which Senator Fletcher, its chairman, incorporated in his speech made in the Senate Aug. 9, 1913. In this preliminary statement the commission adopted for itself the name of "The American Commission on Agricultural Cooperation," and this should be, and in all probability will be, its official designation instead of the much clumsier one of "Commission to Investigate and Study Rural Credits and Agricultural Organizations in European Countries," used in the Official Congressional directory, 1st edition, April, 1913, page 191.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE

An International Conference on Bills of Exchange was held at The Hague June 23–July 25, 1910, Mr. Charles A. Conant representing the United States. Mr. Conant's report was printed in 1911 as Senate document 768 of the 61st Congress, 3d session. The Conference of 1910 appointed a second conference, also to be held at The Hague, for the autumn of 1911.

For reasons which have not been made public, the second conference was postponed till the end of 1912. At this conference Mr. Conant again represented the United States. His second report was transmitted to Congress by the President August 13, and ordered to be printed as Senate document 162, 63d Congress, 1st session.

His first report filled a volume of over 500 pages (vol. 57, Senate documents, 61st Congress, 3d session). The purpose of the two conferences was to promote uniform legislation in relation to bills of exchange. The first conference was composed of about 60 delegates, representing 39 countries. Nothing has yet been officially published in this country concerning the composition or proceedings of the second conference.

REDUCED EXPRESS RATES

The Interstate Commerce Commission has published a very extensive document concerning its recent important reduction of express rates, being Opinion 2458, docket no. 4198, submitted to the Commission April 1, 1913, decided July 24, 1913, and published early in August.

It is a great quarto volume in which more than a thousand pages are filled with the tables of the new express rates. There is also a Directory of express stations for the whole country, the rules and classification—all these in addition to the Report of the Commission, written by Commissioner Marble, and the Order issued in accordance therewith.

This volume, which gives the complete official account of the express-rate cases, is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at $1.50.

GROWTH OF RADIO SERVICE

The "wireless telegraph" service has disappeared, but the "radio service", which is the same thing under a more scientific name, is coming to the very front with a rush.

The monthly Pilot chart of the north Atlantic Ocean, issued by the Hydrographic Office of the United States Navy Department, has for many years had the useful habit of printing news and notes for seafarers in plain type in the blank spaces of the charts and often on their backs as well. These prints have usually given warning of derelicts and icebergs, summaries of weather records, and so on, but latterly a change has come. The August, 1913, chart has even more than the customary amount of printing, both on the face and on the back of the sheet. But it is not the kind of printing formerly customary. By far the larger part, and the more conspicuous part, relates entirely to the radio service, which has become in our times an important part of navigation.

Some of the headings of the text printed on this chart are: Radio calls of vessels and shore stations of the United States Navy; Time signals and hydrographic information by radio; Distribution of meteorological information by Radio Service; Opening of radio stations on ships of the Navy for commercial business; Changes in radio rates applicable to United States naval radio stations opened to public business; South American radio stations; U. S. naval radio station discontinued (at Cape Henlopen, Del.); U. S. naval radio station established (at Balboa, Canal Zone); U. S. naval radio station, Mare Island, Cal., time signals.

Going below the headings, into the text, one finds many things that to many readers will seem new and curious.

Beginning July 15, 1913, the Weather Bureau is distributing "broadcast" from the most efficient radio station in the world, that at Radio, Va., in the suburbs of Washington, D. C., and also from the radio station at Key West, Fla., a daily weather bulletin. "Broadcast," as the term is used in the Radio Service, means that the message is fired out into the illimitable ether to be picked up and made use of by anybody who has the will and the apparatus to possess himself thereof. As the station at Radio, Va., has a distributing radius of 3,000 miles, the word "broadcast" gains a wider meaning than ever before. The bulletins will be sent a few minutes after 10 p. m. each day, and will give information and forecasts especially useful to navigators.

Time signals are sent by the United States Naval Radio Service daily between 11.55 and noon and between 9.55 and 10 p. m. for the determination of chronometer errors, and hence time and longitude at sea. Direct connection is made with the Naval Observatory for these time signals, which for the Atlantic Coast are the time of the 75th meridian west of Greenwich and for the Pacific Coast are of the 120th meridian. Full details of the wave lengths and symbols used are given on the chart, and mariners are advised that elaborate radio installations and skilled operators are not required in receiving these signals. Simple means for receiving are described. These time signals have been used successfully by vessels for rating their chronometers and by surveying vessels in the exact determination of longitudes. This is a remarkable development of methods in navigation. Formerly navigators had no recourse when cloudy weather prevented taking observations.

Information concerning wrecks, derelicts, icebergs, and other dangers of navigation, formerly printed monthly on the pilot charts, is now sent four times daily by radio, and shipmasters are warned that when within range of a naval radio station they should be prepared to receive these messages at 8 a. m., noon, 4 p. m., and 8 p. m., and should not themselves send radio messages at those hours, as their doing so might prevent other vessels from receiving information essential to their safety. The naval radio stations will also supply this class of information to passing vessels at other hours on request.

Naval radio stations, 23 in number, covering both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, are open to public business, at 6 cents a word "for plain ship-to-shore work."

"Practically" every vessel of the Navy that goes to sea accepts public radio business, says the chart, thus adopting the common commercial misusage of the word "practically," really meaning that the statement is not true as to all vessels but is true as to nearly all.

Much more information as to the wonderful uses made of the radio service in navigation is to be found on the chart. Remembering that radio telegraphy is one of the newest applications of science to commercial uses, and noting its great accomplishments thus far, the subject of its future development offers an unlimited and inviting field for the boldest imagination.

TOPOGRAPHY DIVISION

NOTE.—Since February, 1908, the Topography Division has been preparing rural-delivery maps of counties in which rural delivery is completely established. They are published in two forms, one giving simply the rural free delivery routes starting from a single given post office, sold at 5 cents each; the other, the rural free delivery routes in an entire county, sold at 20 cents each. A uniform scale of 1 inch to 1 mile is used. Editions are not issued, but sun-print copies are produced in response to special calls addressed to the Disbursing Clerk, Post Office Department. These maps should not be confused with the post route maps for which see Monthly catalogue for January, 1913, page 370.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

‡ Document not obtainable.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given, octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

The Disbursing Clerk of the Post Office Department announces as ready for sale maps showing the rural delivery service in sundry counties in 32 States. More than a thousand of these maps are now ready, the price being 20 cents each.

By action of the Senate, taken September 11, it was decided not to publish a second edition of the Official Congressional directory during the present session of Congress.

Senate document 171 describes the growth and culture of the Levantine grape, which is the true name of the currant of commerce. This fruit is the principal commercial export of the Kingdom of Greece. 5 cents.

Senate document 169, the printing of which has been ordered, will be a description of the works of art in the Capitol building, with biographies of the artists.

Senate document 173, of the 63d Congress, is to be a compilation of the acts, treaties, proclamations, decisions, and opinions relating to and lists of officials in the noncontiguous possessions of the United States and also in Cuba and Santo Domingo.

It is a fact which must be surprising to many readers that the United States Government does not in any form publish the proceedings of the Federal courts. The reported decisions and opinions of the Supreme Court are published through the Banks Law Publishing Company of New York and those of the other courts are published only in the Federal reporter published by the West Publishing Company of St. Paul. Just why the publications of this coordinate branch of the Government are left to private publishers is something not readily explainable. It is apparently due to accident and custom more than to any Government intention. The Supreme Court reports, known in usage as United States reports, of which there are now more than 220 volumes, were the subject of lively discussion in the Senate, September 11, as recorded in the Congressional record, pages 5087–91.

Senate document 181 of the 63d Congress is announced on its title-page as being the Constitution of the Confederate States. Readers should be careful not to be deceived by this title-page. As a matter of fact, only three small paragraphs from the Confederate Constitution are contained in the document, the remainder being extracts from laws of the Confederate Congress relating to the subject of tariff. 5 cents.

Condensed history, duties, and practical operation of the Department of Commerce and its several bureaus and offices, with laws relating specifically thereto, is the title of a pamphlet dated July 1, 1913, and issued by the Publications Division. The bureaus of the Department number nine, their titles being, Census, Coast and Geodetic Survey, Corporations, Fisheries, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Lighthouses, Navigation, Standards, and Steamboat Inspection Service. Surely an extreme variety of important and diverse interests for one Department to have in charge.

National Museum Proceedings, vol. 44, is now on sale, price $1.25.

Labor Statistics Bureau Bulletin 131, which is also no. 3 of the Wages and hours of labor series, has for specific title Union scale of wages and hours of labor, 1907–12. This is a study of much interest to many readers. The facts have been collected in 39 cities, all relating to time rate and none to piece rate. Price, 10 cents.

The seventh Digest of comments on the Pharmacopoeia of the United States of America and on the National formulary has recently been issued by the Hygienic Laboratory of the Public Health Service, and is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents for 45 cents. The authors find it necessary to explain in the preface, as they have done in the prefaces to the previous Digests, that the spelling of the English pharmacopoeial technical term "syrup" with an "i" is forced upon them unwillingly by the rules of the Government Printing Office.

Special consular reports 60, entitled Foreign markets for railway supplies and equipment, price 25 cents, shows that American exports in this class of manufactures have greatly increased in volume during recent years.

Labor Statistics Bureau Bulletin 120, which is also no. 2 of the Industrial accidents and hygiene series, is entitled Hygiene of the painters' trade. 10 cents.

The first Farmers' bulletin with the new engraved heading, distinguishing it very markedly from the previous series, the number of which in the whole series is 558, is the first one to bear the title Agricultural outlook. Its contents are present day news of the crop prospects, thus supplying the place of the former monthly Crop reporter. It is understood that this title, Agricultural outlook, will be repeated at frequent intervals, and always on one of the numbered Farmers' bulletin series.

The number of a bulletin of the Labor Statistics Bureau of even more than usual interest is 121 in the whole series and 7 in the Retail prices and cost of living series. The immediate title of this pamphlet is Sugar prices, from refiner to consumer, study made in 1911 and covering 1901, 1905, 1910, and 1912 as well. The preface states that the report shows the prices paid by the refiner for raw sugar and the prices received for refined sugar by the refiner, the jobber, and the retailer, successively. 10 cents.

Land decisions, vol. 41, and Interstate Commerce Commission Decisions, vol. 26, have been recently issued. The price of this volume of the land decisions, entered in this catalogue, is $1.75 and of the Interstate Commerce Commission Decisions, listed in the August catalogue, page 84, $1.50.

Many persons suppose that the Pension Office has issued or is about to issue a list of the living pensioners. This is an incorrect supposition, based undoubtedly upon the provision found in Statutes at large, vol. 37, page 1019, which requires the Commissioner of Pensions to keep a record of the age, residence, etc., of service pensioners of the Mexican and Civil wars and to supply this record to those desiring it for a certain fee. The limitations will make this a very incomplete list of pensioners, including but one class, and that one comparatively limited.

Nos. 1, 3, 5, 6, 8, 22, and 23 are the earliest issues of the new series entitled Bulletin of the Department of Agriculture. No. 1 is a contribution from the Bureau of Animal Industry, A. D. Melvin, chief, Sept. 17, 1913. Each of the numbers gives at the outset a similar complete credit to the Bureau from which it proceeded. The Animal Industry Bureau contribution is entitled Medical milk commissions and certified milk. It is an extensive revision of Animal Industry Bureau Bulletin 104, published in 1908. No. 22, from the Biological Survey Bureau, is a compilation of the game laws for 1913. No. 23, from the Office of Public Roads, is entitled Vitrified brick as paving material for country roads. These bulletins of the Department are often larger than the Farmers' bulletins, seem to be printed on better paper, and have a uniform engraved heading somewhat similar to that now used on the Farmers' bulletins. They are usually sold at 10 cents each, but the price is not uniform, as some smaller numbers at 5 cents have already been published. The Farmers' bulletins have been of such uniformity of size that it has been possible to keep the price at the uniform figure of 5 cents each, with the single exception of 513, Fifty common birds of farm and orchard, which, having colored plates, necessarily costs more for production, and is sold for 15 cents.

Senate document 188, 63d Congress, Training for citizenship, an article on the Winston-Salem plan, is an interesting contribution to the present movement toward a larger scope of education in civics.

'Tis sixty years since is the title of an address delivered at Columbia, S. C., Jan. 16, 1913, by Charles Francis Adams, an old-time New England abolitionist, who says that if sixty years since it had been predicted that he would ever live to express his views concerning the relations between North and South in the capital of the extremely southern State of South Carolina he would have thought that prediction beyond reasonable credence. The address which has been reprinted as Senate document 186, 63d Congress, is an interesting series of reminiscences, reflections, and prophecies by this grandson of one President and great-grandson of another and himself one of the ablest men of his generation.

The numerous contributions of the Bureau of Labor Statistics in its special field during the month included the first number of its Conciliation and arbitration series, which is also whole number 124 of the bulletins of the Bureau. Its subject is Conciliation and arbitration in the building trades of Greater New York. Price, 10 cents.

An index to Farmers' bulletins 501–525 is just out. Price, 5 cents.

An amendment to the Urgent deficiency appropriation bill, offered by Senator Fletcher of Florida, September 25th, and adopted, provides for the discontinuance of the second volume of the Official register, popularly known as the Blue book. This is the volume which has contained the names and compensation of all employees of the Post Office Department. The Department was quoted by the Senator as giving the opinion that no good purpose would be served by the further publication of this volume.

The Fine Arts Commission appointed by President Taft in 1910 is at present composed of D. C. French, sculptor, chairman, F. L. Olmsted, landscape architect, vice-chairman, Thos. Hastings and Cass Gilbert, architects, E. H. Blashfield, painter, Charles Moore and Peirce Anderson, with Col. Spencer Cosby of the Army as secretary. By direction of Congress, the Commission, acting through its chairman and vice-chairman, has been inspecting the structures of the Panama Canal with a view to recommending artistic features for its permanent structures. This report, with many illustrations, is published as Senate document 146 of the 63d Congress. It is a pamphlet of unusual interest and value. 55 cents.

North American fauna 35 is an elaborate study by Vernon Bailey of the Life zones and crop zones of New Mexico. 45 cents.

Pop corn for the home is the title of Farmers' bulletin 553, and Farmers' bulletin 554 bears the name Pop corn for the market. No. 553 praises this grain as "affording a pleasant and healthful treat for the family in the long winter evenings" and gives recipes for various pop corn confections, while no. 554 says that "the principal characteristic that serves to distinguish pop corn from other kinds is the tendency of its kernels to evert or turn inside out when heated"; also that "there does not appear to be any record of the origin or early history of pop corn"; also that "good grades of pop corn will increase in volume from 12 to 20 times on popping"; rules are also given for growing and marketing. It is not ready for market till the summer following that of its growth. It is not sold by the bushel but by the pound.

Vol. 29, Official opinions of the Attorneys General of the United States, is now ready. Price in paper, 50 cents; in sheep, $1.50.

Digest of the opinions and briefs of the Solicitor of the Treasury, Jan. 1, 1911, to Dec. 31, 1912, is now for sale. 25 cents in cloth.

Register of the commissioned and warrant officers of the naval militia of the United States, Jan. 1, 1913, is but just received. On page 5 appear corrections to June 1, 1913, and this date is apparently nearer to the actual date of publication than the one given on the title-page. Price, 10 cents.

United States National Museum Bulletin 80, A descriptive account of the building recently erected for the departments of natural history of the United States National Museum, is the unnecessarily elongated title of a clear, careful, minute, and excellently illustrated description of the new Museum building, undoubtedly one of the most important and successful museum buildings in the world. Cloth, 45 cents.

NEW SERIES

The Mines Bureau has published its Bulletin 53 as no. 1 of a new series denominated Mineral technology. This initial number, which was entered in the August catalogue, has for title Mining and treatment of feldspar and kaolin in the southern Appalachian region. It is an elaborate work of 170 pages with illustrations and map. Paper, 35 cents.

PROTECTION OF MIGRATORY BIRDS

The Superintendent of Documents has received a number of inquiries as to the new law for the protection of migratory birds. This is not a separate act. It is found in the act making appropriations for the Agriculture Department for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1913, and ending June 30, 1914. It comes under the heading Bureau of Biological Survey, at pages 847 and 848, Statutes at large, vol. 37, part 1.

It provides that migratory game and insectivorous birds "shall be deemed to be within the custody and protection of the Government" and "shall not be destroyed or taken contrary to regulations." These regulations were to be prepared by the Agriculture Department (meaning the Biological Survey Bureau of that Department), and made public for three months before their final adoption. After three months they were to be submitted to the President for approval.

This has been done, the President gave his approval October 2d, and the regulations are now in force.

Circular 92, Biological Survey Bureau, contains the regulations and the text of the law. Circular 93 of the same bureau is an explanation of the regulations. These circulars are sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 5 cents each. The entries for both circulars will be found in the Monthly catalogue for June, 1913.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON SAFETY AT SEA

Three committees of Government officials, the first on Aids and Perils to Navigation, the second on Radiotelegraphy, and the third on Efficiency of Officers and Crews, have made reports to the Secretary of Commerce for his consideration in the preparation of data for the use of the United States delegates to the International Conference on Safety at Sea, to be held in London, beginning Nov. 12, 1913.

The Hydrographic Office, the Revenue-Cutter Service, the Lighthouses Bureau, the Weather Bureau, and the Navigation Bureau of the Commerce Department, are represented on the Aids and Perils to Navigation Committee; the Navigation Bureau, the Naval Radio Service, the Army Signal Service, the Revenue-Cutter Service, and the Standards Bureau on the Radiotelegraphy Committee, and the Navigation Bureau, the Revenue-Cutter Service, the Steamboat-Inspection Service, and the Public Health Service on the Efficiency of Officers and Crews Committee. All of the committees, however, were designated by the Secretary of Commerce. The original purpose was to include in the membership of the committees expert representatives of various private organizations and companies most intimately connected with the subjects of inquiry, but failing an appropriation for this purpose circular letters of inquiry were substituted and the replies received were considered.

The report of a fourth committee, that on Construction of Hulls and Bulkheads, is now in press, and reports from the Committee on Lifeboats and Davits and the Committee on Fire Protection will follow.

The President has appointed 12 delegates to represent the United States in the London conference.

PROPOSED OFFICIAL JOURNAL AND AN ALTERNATIVE

Representative Richmond P. Hobson of Alabama introduced, September 8, a bill (H. R. 7973, 63d Congress) to provide for the publication of an Official Journal. The provisions of the bill show that the proposed publication would correspond in some measure to the Official gazettes which are issued in nearly all countries but our own. The chief difference is that Mr. Hobson provides that his official journal shall include only matters of "general public interest," while most of the official gazettes, as seen by a browser in the great collection of them in the Library of Congress, appear to be largely made up of matters interesting to the official class only.

President Roosevelt wanted a United States Official gazette, and wanted the Committee on Department Methods, usually known as the Keep Commission, to provide plans for it. The Committee turned this subject over to its Assistant Committee on the Organization of Editorial Work and an Official Gazette, and the Assistant Committee worked strenuously but unsuccessfully at the problem, calling numerous witnesses, circularizing all interested officials, and in other ways seeking information bearing on the feasibility of such a daily, triweekly, semiweekly, or weekly publication. They found such a great number of official periodical prints having equal claim to inclusion in a Gazette that the task of selection was very difficult, and they finally adopted a report which declared in effect that whether an Official gazette was or was not created, none of the existing periodical publications for the information and direction of the public service should be discontinued. These publications are now very numerous, and so divided and subdivided that in almost all instances Government officials and employees, and the public also, may receive the printed information desired on any particular subject or subdivision of a subject without the necessity of loading up with undesired matter. The chief objection to an Official gazette is that it would necessarily carry a great grist of official information, so that the person who secured it for the sake of one item of official news would be compelled to take at the same time many items that he would not care for. In small countries, with few interests, this objection is not serious, but in large countries, where governmental activities are multifarious and on a great scale, it is not only serious but overwhelming. The United States has most assuredly outgrown an Official gazette.

Mr. Hobson's proposed Official journal might perhaps escape the chief difficulties by limiting its contents to matters of general public interest. These are not so numerous as the matters of particular official interest which are now published in many orders, circulars, notices, and leaflets issued daily or at longer intervals.

House bill 7973 provides for the publication by the Public Printer "at least weekly" of the proposed Official journal. A joint committee from the House, the Senate, the Supreme Court, and the nation at large is to select a board of editors and staff necessary for making the compilation. The joint committee is also to determine the size of the Journal and the pay and tenure of office of the editors.

So far so good. But in sec. 3 the project splits on a mathematical rock. The edition is to be limited to 1,500,000 copies, from which each Senator is to be supplied with 25,000 copies and each Representative with 15,000 copies for free distribution. There are now (taking no account of temporary vacancies) 96 Senators and 435 Representatives. A brief mental computation shows that 2,400,000 copies would be required to supply the Senators alone, while the Representative quotas call for 6,525,000 more, a total of 8,925,000. Should the Journal even approximate to the size which necessity would seem to demand, the production of such an enormous edition would be beyond even the capacity of the "biggest printing office in the world," which the Government Printing Office at Washington is supposed to be.

Though the "twenty-five thousand copies" and the "fifteen thousand copies" are spelled out in the bill, it is probable that they are erroneous and that 2,500 and 1,500 were meant, making the edition to be distributed through the medium of Congress weekly, semiweekly, triweekly, or daily, as the joint committee of two Representatives, two Senators, one Supreme Court Justice, and one citizen at large may determine, 892,500, or one-tenth that to be distributed under the provisions of the bill as it now stands. The reduced distribution by hundreds instead of by thousands would leave from the edition of 1,500,000 a remainder of 607,500, which, as provided in the bill, would be distributed "under such rules and regulations as the joint committee shall prescribe." This, also, would be an enormous distribution, and the joint committee would probably find that even the general superintendence of it would involve an infinity of annoying details.

Of these two enormous distributions, if past experience furnishes a guide probably nine-tenths would go to waste. The Senators and Representatives could supply addresses to the Postmaster General, and he could send them to postmasters and rural carriers with directions to deliver the Journal to them, and the Public Printer could deliver the printed sheets in bulk, as provided in the bill, but who could guarantee that the addressees would make use of them when received? The Official journal would have no stories of local news, and the prominent features of the official proceedings of the Government would reach the local newspapers by wire even before the bundles of Journals could be put on the cars at Washington to begin their long journeys of days or weeks to their various destinations. Even could they be received as promptly as telegraph dispatches, are there many citizens who would care to have them?

Newspaper stories of important doings at Washington are certainly read by numerous citizens, but reading the official orders, proclamations, notices, reports, statistical tables, etc., etc., in endless array, from which the newspaper men have already extracted the public interest, "that is something else again."

There are of course a few students, librarians, and statisticians in every community who would use and preserve an Official journal, but in most communities they are very few, and in most instances these few already know how to get the official publications they need. Few things are easier to get than United States public documents. It happens sometimes that the popular demand is not correctly estimated, and too few are printed, such being the case, as in one instance, with the compilations of treaties and conventions of this country with other countries, for which there is a constant sale demand, and at present no supply. But usually the error is in the other direction, and thousands in excess of any possible demand are printed, and after causing (sometimes for many years) infinite annoyance and large expense in storing and keeping track of them, are finally condemned as waste paper.

Should an Official journal be freely supplied in such profusion as proposed, it is much to be feared that it would soon be contemptuously disregarded.

The Keep Commission's Assistant Committee on the Organization of Editorial Work and an Official Gazette received from an official correspondent an alternative proposal which it considered with some favor, though not making a formal recommendation for its establishment. This was an Executive gazette, to contain all official papers of the President and such other material as he might choose to have published in that form.

Because of his place at the head of the Government, every word officially spoken or written by the President is an essential part of the history of the country. There is now no one place where all of these official utterances can be found. Their publication, in fact, is made in so many forms and places that even the most industrious librarian must often be in doubt as to whether he has all of them. When the official Compilation of the messages and papers of the Presidents was made in the '90's the industrious men who hunted up the material found it in all sorts of documents, old and new, original and compiled, and a surprisingly large part of it in old newspaper files, having never been officially published at all. Despite their enterprising and industrious efforts, prolonged for years, they were compelled to add to the final volume an appendix of 120 pages made up of official papers of Presidents, from Washington to Hayes, which they had not been able to find during the progress of the work but which turned up from unexpected sources too late for consecutive publication.

If there were an official periodical in which annalists could safely depend on finding all the official utterances of the Chief Executive, that periodical certainly would be of great value and interest. Whether this is sufficiently the case to warrant the founding of such a periodical is perhaps a question worthy of consideration by the proper authorities.

TOPOGRAPHY DIVISION

NOTE.—Since February, 1908, the Topography Division has been preparing rural-delivery maps of counties in which rural delivery is completely established. They are published in two forms, one giving simply the rural free delivery routes starting from a single given post office, sold at 5 cents each; the other, the rural free delivery routes in an entire county, sold at 20 cents each. A uniform scale of 1 inch to 1 mile is used. Editions are not issued, but sun-print copies are produced in response to special calls addressed to the Disbursing Clerk, Post Office Department. These maps should not be confused with the post route maps for which see Monthly catalogue for January, 1913, p. 370.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

‡ Document not obtainable.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Compilation of the revised statutes and codes of Porto Rico, embracing certain Spanish laws still in force in Porto Rico, the acts of the Legislative Assembly of Porto Rico from Dec. 3, 1900, to Mar. 9, 1911, omitting all private, special, temporary, and local acts and laws which do not constitute a part of the general and permanent legislation of the Island of Porto Rico; together with the organic laws of the Island of Porto Rico, being the treaty of peace with Spain, and acts of Congress having special reference to Porto Rico. Compiled in the Bureau of Insular Affairs, War Department. Washington: Government Printing Office. 1913. This is not an abbreviation of the title of this large work. It is all of it, and the volume is worthy of its title. Its size is large octavo, the pages being of the same dimensions as those of the United States Statutes at large, and there are 1,682 of them, on thick paper, making a book 4½ inches through. Owing to the fact that the paper has a large proportion of rag stock, the book is not so heavy as its proportions would indicate. In paper covers it weighs only 8½ pounds and when bound about 9 pounds. Muscular persons can handle it with ease. Others will probably wish it had been bound in two volumes. It is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at $3.25 in cloth binding.

The new regulations governing the uniform of officers and employees of the Public Health Service may not be ready for distribution for a month yet.

Bureau publication 5 of the Children's Bureau is Part 1 of the Handbook of Federal statistics of children. This part is designed to answer the questions "How many children of each class are there?" and "Where are they?" Its specific title is: Number of children in the United States, with their sex, age, race, nativity, parentage, and geographic distribution. Its statistics are drawn from the returns of the 13th census, but recast in tables bringing out the features indicated by the title. Other parts are planned for future publication, relating to the proportion of children, the birth rate and infant mortality, illiteracy and school attendance, child labor, and the defective, dependent, and delinquent children. The number of persons under 15 years old, in the whole country, is 29,499,136, by the census figures, which for various reasons the Children's Bureau considers in some particulars of questionable accuracy. New York has most children, 2,488,621. Seven States have more than 1,000,000 children each. These are New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Texas, Ohio, Georgia, and Missouri. Bureau publication 5 is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 10 cents a copy.

The publications of the Children's Bureau apparently "supply a long-felt want," at any rate they are in active demand. Bureau publication 3, Baby-saving campaigns, a preliminary report on what American cities are doing to prevent infant mortality (15 cents), is already in its third edition. It includes prints in many languages of a circular on summer care of babies. Bureau publication 4, Prenatal care (5 cents) is now in its second edition. All of the publications of the Children's Bureau are on sale by the Superintendent of Documents.

The Agriculture Department's Monthly list of publications for September announces that the Farmers' bulletins entitled Agricultural outlook will be issued only three or four times a year. This is a timely announcement, for the supposition that they were to be issued monthly has somehow spread abroad. They will supersede the monthly Crop reporter in the sense that they will supply similar information, but they will not be the same in frequency of issue.

The information given in the July Monthly catalogue, that the International list of radio stations of the world could be secured by remitting 50 cents to Berne, was official, and presumably correct at the time, but is not so at present. The present price is 60 cents, and does not include postage, for which 24 cents must be added for one copy, 32 cents for two copies, and 48 cents for either three or four copies. Eighty cents more will insure receipt of the amendatory supplements postpaid for the coming year. Specify the English edition and remit by international money order to the International Bureau of the Telegraphic Union (Radio-telegraphic Service), Berne, Switzerland. An additional remittance of 36 cents to the same address will secure the International list of call letters, postpaid, and 80 cents more will bring (also postpaid) all supplements to July, 1916. These international publications make no note of amateur stations. The list of Radio stations of the United States, sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 15 cents, includes amateur as well as official stations.

The Post Office Department announces a reduction in the prices of maps of rural delivery routes from 10 cents to 5 cents, and of county maps, showing all the free delivery routes in the county, from 50 cents to 20 cents. These are substantial reductions, and really amount to something, the demand for these maps being large. They are sold by the Disbursing Clerk of the Department.

No. 178 (not 179 as stated in page 105 of the September Monthly catalogue) is the number of the Senate document of the 63d Congress describing the Levantine grape, which is better known as the currant of commerce.

The full official report of the Proceedings of the 8th International Prison Congress, held at Washington, Oct. 2–8, 1910, was not published by the Government of the United States, but has been printed in French at Berne, Switzerland, under the editorship of Dr. Guillaume, Director of the Bureau of Statistics, and formerly General Secretary of the Congress, by whom they will be distributed from Berne. The subscription of members of the Congress was $5.00, which entitles them to a full set of the Proceedings. There is also an abstract in English which may be had on application to the American Secretary, Mr. P. J. Byers, Newark, N. J., or the Treasurer, Mr. H. H. Shirer, Columbus, Ohio. Price $5.00. The substance of the proceedings is given in House document 52, 63d Congress, 1st session, a condensed report filed with the State Department in 1911 by Professor Charles Richmond Henderson, President of the Congress, but not ordered printed until May 23, 1913. Price 5 cents.

Geological Survey Bulletin 538, Geologic reconnoissance of the Circle quadrangle, Alaska, which was announced in the Survey's September list of new publications as having been issued, is not to be published till December 15.

The Mines Bureau has issued Part 2 of Bulletin 22, completing its treatment of the subject Analyses of coals in the United States, with descriptions of mine and field samples collected between July 1, 1904, and June 30, 1910. Part 1 contains the analyses, Part 2 the descriptions. The completed bulletin fills 1200 pages. The Superintendent of Documents can supply the complete Bulletin, both parts, for 85 cents.

Water-supply paper 334, United States Geological Survey, is also 63d Congress, 2d session, House document 421, the Survey print and the Congressional print coming to hand within a day or two of each other. As the 2d session of the 63d Congress will not begin till December, the Congressional number slightly anticipates the almanac, but as the subject matter is of immediate interest the small chronological discrepancy will no doubt be overlooked. The title is the Ohio Valley flood of Mar.–Apr. 1913. It is a report of decided interest and value. While it does not pretend to offer an off-hand safeguard against like disasters, it does point out many existing contributory causes which it is possible to remove, and also shows that it is the work of years to gauge the rivers and tributaries and thus ascertain their average flow and their probable storm flow, but until these data have become known it is not possible to plan all needed precautions.

Labor Statistics Bureau Bulletin 132 is also no. 10 of the Retail prices and cost of living series. It gives retail prices (which are the only prices known to the greater part of the people), 1890 to June, 1913, thus covering the periods of lowest as well as of highest prices within the experience of the present generation. The difference between the top and the bottom rates is startling when the comparison is made. Can we ever come down again from our present dizzy height?

The Mines Bureau is publishing a Monthly statement of coal-mine fatalities in the United States. The August statistics are the latest published, and show 230 deaths from coal-mine accidents against 211 for the same month in 1912. For the first eight months of 1912 the fatalities were 1,589, and for the same months in 1913 they were 1,673. It appears therefore that this terrible destruction of human life is increasing instead of decreasing. The publication of the distressing facts by the Mines Bureau should do much to convince mine-owners, legislators, and the general public of the necessity of requiring further measures of precaution, a humane work in which the United States Mines Bureau is a leader.

The Agriculture Department has published for free distribution a handy 11-page list of publications of that Department "of interest to farm women." Its alphabetical arrangement makes it easy of consultation.

The Comptroller of the Currency's 1911 edition of the National-bank act as amended and other laws relating to national banks has been reprinted as Senate document 197, 63d Congress, 1st session. Price, 15 cents.

The Annual report of the Office of Experiment Stations for the fiscal year 1912 was published Sept. 30, 1913, and is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 30 cents in paper, 45 cents in cloth.

The Department of Commerce has a wide and important field of duty, which is historically and interestingly described in a pamphlet of 63 pages recently issued under the title The Department of Commerce, July 1, 1913.

The Education Bureau Library resumed after the summer vacation its Monthly record of current educational publications with the October number. From the Superintendent of Documents, 5 cents.

The Superintendent of Documents has on sale a new print of the Constitution of the United States, including the two new amendments, Article 16, legalizing the income tax, and Article 17, providing for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people instead of by the legislatures. Price, 5 cents.

New serials which came to hand in October are Decisions of the Comptroller of the Treasury, vol. 19; Annual report, 1912, Office of Experiment Stations; Farmers' bulletin 560, which is the second issue in the Agricultural outlook series; Interstate Commerce Commission's Decisions, vol. 27.

No. 12, Bulletin of the Department of Agriculture (10 cents), a contribution from the Forest Service, is one of a series entitled Uses of commercial woods of the United States, the subtitle of this number being Beech, birches, and maples. While most of the species included under these general terms are going the way of American forest trees generally, the paper birch, known also as the canoe birch, white birch, silver birch, and large white birch, is one of the very few American species having now a stronger hold on life than when America was discovered. It is spoken of as a "fire tree" because of its habit of pushing in and occupying the vacant spaces left by forest fires. Some tracts thus taken possession of within a century or half a century cover hundreds of square miles. This is the tree which supplies material for birchbark canoes. Concerning these remarkable boats several remarkable facts are related in this bulletin. Beech, birches, and maples are the most characteristic of the American hardwoods and this account of them has a general as well as a special interest.

The National Association of Railway Commissioners held its annual convention for 1913 in Washington the last week in October. It has been the custom in previous years for the Government Printing Office to print a daily report of the proceedings of this convention, but this was not done this year, nor will the consolidated report of the proceedings for 1913 be printed by the Government. This year's volume will be issued by the American Law Reporting Company, 115 Broadway, New York.

Navigation Bureau, Commerce Department, which publishes annually a List of the radio stations in the United States, will also publish quarterly supplements to this list, thus keeping it as nearly up to date as possible. The quarterly supplements will be sold by the Superintendent of Documents.

The 1912 Annual report of the board of regents of the Smithsonian Institution is now on sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 85 cents in the familiar green cloth binding. The General appendix of scientific miscellanies seems this year to be of unusual importance and interest.

The hearings of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee on the Federal reserve act fill more than 3,000 printed pages. They have been indexed, and published in three volumes.

An index to the reports made by the House Judiciary Committee during the nine Congresses beginning with the 54th (1895) and ending with the 62d (1913) has been printed in a pamphlet of 93 pages.

The House Judiciary Committee has published an interesting hearing held on House joint resolution 15, which proposes to so amend the Constitution as to permit the President to veto separate items in appropriation bills. An appended statement shows that in thirty-five of the forty-eight States the Governors have this power, and in most of the larger States have had it for a long time—in New York twenty years, in Pennsylvania forty years, in Illinois forty-three years, in Ohio sixty years. In the States where this is the rule it is regarded as an important safeguard against log-rolling schemes and improper appropriations generally.

While the weekly edition of the Treasury decisions contains all the decisions under the internal revenue laws as well as those under the customs laws, and did contain also the decisions of the Commerce Court when there was a Commerce Court, the semiannual bound volume of customs decisions contains only decisions under the customs laws, the decisions under the internal revenue laws being published in a separate bound volume, as the Commerce Court decisions also were.

Among the manuscripts in the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau awaiting publication are Special consular reports on vehicles other than motor vehicles; also, similar reports on clocks, watches, and jewelry; also, on candy, chocolate, and cocoa products.

Miscellaneous series 10, Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, will give information as to foreign periodicals thought to be most suitable for advertising American goods. The names of the papers in South American countries will be given, with the amount of their circulation, their subscription price, and advertising rates, also general data as to the character of the fields covered by the papers listed.

A BUSINESS MEN'S MANUAL

Business men are learning the many practical uses to which the latest edition of the Street directory of the principal cities of the United States, compiled by the Post Office Department, and sold by the Superintendent of Documents at $1.00 a copy, may be put in facilitating the mail work which is nowadays so large a part of all important businesses.

The Directory contains the names of the streets, avenues, courts, places, lanes, roads, wharves, and so forth to which mail is delivered in the 1,277 principal cities of the United States. The names of the suburban places to which mail is delivered by carrier from the principal cities are also given. The lowest and highest numbers in each street are placed opposite the name of that street. The named streets, avenues, etc., are arranged in alphabetical order, as are also the cities. The numbered streets are in numerical order.

The numerous uses to which the Directory is put in locating imperfect addresses, etc., are illustrated by samples given in the Directory itself. Instances are:

An address to a number in Colyton street, no name of place given. The Directory shows that there is but one Colyton street, and that in Los Angeles, California.

An address to Woodward ave., between Grand River ave. and State, without place, was determined to belong to Detroit, because that is the only city having all three of the streets named.

A letter addressed to Cor. 9th and Almonte ave., Washington, D. C., did not belong there, because, though that city, like many others, has a 9th st., it has no Almonte ave., the only one being in Grand Forks, North Dakota.

A letter addressed to 2022 Jefferson place, without city, was determined to belong to Baltimore, because, while 11 cities have Jefferson places, no other has one with so high a number.

Many large concerns keep sets of city directories, but they do not help when the only address given is Jacob Johannis, Aloe st. The Street directory, however, shows at once that there are but two Aloe streets, one in Pittsburgh and one in Providence. One or the other of these city directories should therefore locate Mr. Johannis. Thus the Street directory serves as an index to the city directories.

Making due allowance for the percentage of changes which are going on in our growing cities, the Street directory supplies an amazing quantity of accurate information of a kind not to be obtained elsewhere in a single volume. Anybody who uses it will be certain to find the names of streets in his own town that he never heard of before. The Street directory is a large quarto volume of over 900 pages, well bound in dark green buckram.

THE DISCONTINUED AGRICULTURAL SERIES

The libraries of course know that the different bureau series of bulletins and circulars in the Agriculture Department have been or are to be discontinued, but it is necessary for them to know just where these series come to an end—that is, what are the final numbers in each series.

This information is now in most cases available, and is presented herewith.

Animal Industry Bureau—last bulletin number, 167; last circular number, 218.

Biological Survey Bureau—last bulletin, 45; last circular, 94.

Chemistry Bureau—last bulletin, 166; last circular, 115.
Entomology Bureau—has still some publications in press which are to be published. Information as to the last numbers will be given later.
Experiment Stations Office—last bulletin, 256; last circular, 118.
Forest Service—last bulletin, 127; last circular, 216.
Library—last numbered bulletin, 76; last Monthly bulletin, June, 1913.
Plant Industry Bureau—last bulletin, 285; last circular, 132.
Public Roads Office—last bulletin, 48; last circular, 100.
Publications Division—last bulletin, 10; last circular, 19.
Soils Bureau—last bulletin, 96; last circular, 79.
Statistics Bureau—last bulletin, 103; last circular, 47; last number of monthly Crop reporter, June, 1913.
Weather Bureau—last numbered bulletin, 44; last lettered bulletin, Z. Bulletins Y and Z are still in press. They relate to the floods of 1912 and 1913.

It is not to be inferred from the discontinuance of the bulletin and circular series under the names of the various agricultural bureaus that the activities of these bureaus are to cease. All of the bureaus continue to be at least as active and productive as ever. The changes that have been made are changes in the methods and forms of publication much more than in the substance or purpose of the printed output of the Department. Present indications are that agricultural research and the publication of its results are to be even more energetically and profitably prosecuted than heretofore.

A QUESTION OF EDITIONS

Immigration laws, rules of Nov. 15, 1911, was issued in January, 1912. The same publication, with amendments, 2d edition, appeared in May, 1912. A 3d edition, with amended footnotes, was published in August, 1912. Another print of this last-named publication, with amendments, and designated as 2d edition, was issued under the printed date Mar. 10, 1913, and entered in the April Monthly catalogue. The same publication, without amendment, was reprinted later in May, 1913, as 4th edition. A fifth issue, dated Sept. 9, 1913, is called 1st edition. The reason for calling this a 1st edition instead of a 5th edition is stated to be that it is the first publication of the Immigration laws made by authority of the present Commissioner General of Immigration. This seems a natural enough reason, but when it comes to be considered it will be seen that it amounts to numbering the official instead of the publication.

President Wilson did not find it necessary to start a new set of numbers for his proclamations and Executive orders. He continued the same series that had been begun by Presidents Roosevelt and Taft. President Taft's last proclamation is numbered 1236, President Wilson's first, 1237. President Taft's last Executive order is no. 1743. President Wilson's first, 1744.

The various editions of the Immigration laws are sent, by requirement of law, to nearly 500 official libraries, which must arrange the publications received in such order that they may be readily found when wanted. With two 1st editions, one published in 1912 and the other in 1913, and two 2d editions, showing the same discrepancy, with a 1st edition of a later date than the 4th edition, and a 2d edition following the 3d edition, it will be seen that the work of the librarian remote from Washington, and consequently from official explanation, is made needlessly hard and confusing.

This is the only reason why the Monthly catalogue thinks it necessary to print this note. The Catalogue is the official medium between the depository libraries and the Government publishing bureaus, and the libraries look to the Catalogue to straighten out for them those things in the public documents which on the surface appear tangled and troublesome.

HYGIENE AND DEMOGRAPHY TRANSACTIONS

Transactions of the Fifteenth International Congress on Hygiene and Demography, Washington, Sept. 23–28, 1912, has been in course of publication ever since the adjournment of the Congress, and is now nearly complete. It is in six volumes, of which vols. 2–6 are published, vol. 1 being still in press. Though the number of volumes is but six, the number of books is nine, vols. 1, 3, and 5, each being published in two parts, each part being a separate book. Vols. 2 and 4 are each in two parts, but in these cases the two parts are bound together in one volume.

The Transactions have been printed at the Government Printing Office, on the order of the State Department. The edition is 4,000 copies, the larger part having been taken up in advance of publication by the membership of the Congress. This body has supervised the publication, and is supervising the distribution, through its Secretary General, Dr. John S. Fulton, who has offices in the Maltby Building, Washington, D. C. A few sets are for sale at this address, at $5.00 a set.

The Transactions will not be sold by the Superintendent of Documents. It is believed that vol. 1 will be published in November.

IMPRINTS IN PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

Of course all librarians know, but some other readers may not, that the imprint on the title-page of a book is the modest little signboard at the very foot of the page, usually of three lines, the first line showing the place where the book was published, which is often not the place where it was printed—the second line, the name of the person or firm by which it was published; that is, the promoter and proprietor of the book, the one who supplies the manuscript to the printer and who is legally responsible for any statements that it may contain; the third line is the date of publication. This may also be the date of the printing, but often it is not. A book is not published when it is printed. It is only published when it is made accessible to the public by being put on sale or otherwise distributed.

This form and this location of the imprint are established by long custom and by almost universal usage. It is true this was not always the rule. For many years books were printed without any title-pages at all, but the present custom has prevailed for several generations, not only in this country, but also in other civilized countries. Sometimes the printer's name is given also, but not on the title-page. On the back or verso of the title-page is the usual place for the printer's bit of advertising.

The most notable example anywhere in the world of departure from the almost universal custom as to imprints is found in the public documents of the United States. The custom of taking to themselves the place of the imprint, which really belongs to the publishing bureau or department by which the contents of the books are provided and the printing ordered and paid for, was begun by the early printers, and, owing to what Dr. Chas. A. Cutter, the veteran librarian, once called "the inertia prevailing in Government offices," has been continued to the present day. Not trying to go back beyond easy verification, and therefore beginning at no. 1 of the "sheep set," of which we believe there are perhaps half a dozen complete sets besides the one in the Documents Office, we find these early Congressional printers usurping the place of the imprint for their own exploitation: 1817, E. DeKraft; 1819, Gales and Seaton; 1827, Duff Green; 1837, Blair and Rives; 1845, Ritchie and Heiss; 1848, Tippin and Streeper; 1854, Beverly Tucker. These were all Congressional printers, but there were many others who were Departmental printers, like Jonathan Elliot, Peter Force, and J. and S. Gideon, and they all took possession of the imprint place. When the Government Printing Office was established, in 1861, it simply followed the usage which it found in existence, and from that day to this the imprint on nearly all public documents has been "Washington: Government Printing Office. (date)."

In recent years the unnecessary punctuation marks have been omitted from all parts of many document title-pages, including the imprints. But in almost all cases the printer's imprint has remained in the position which in all general literature is occupied by the imprint of the publisher. To this usurpation of the imprint position is due one of the most distinguishing and disfiguring features of the public documents. This is the transfer of the imprint (and often of other matter also) of the publishing bureaus to the top of the title-page, thus committing another usurpation, that of the place belonging to the actual title by which the book must be known and identified. According to all sound principles and practice of book making, the title—the actual descriptive title of the contents of the work—is entitled to the first and most conspicuous place on the title-page. To anticipate it and obscure it by other matter is to impair the value of the work. Yet one may find an important series of public documents in which no less than seven lines on the title-pages precede the actual titles of the publications. Such title-pages are embarrassing to all readers, and are especially embarrassing to librarians, who are supposed in their printed and card catalogues to carry exact transcripts of the title-pages in order to insure absolute identification of the publications which are catalogued.

It may be laid down as an almost absolute rule, that nothing whatever should precede the real title on a title-page.

A talented editor of long experience in editing the publications of one of the most extensive publishing bureaus of the Government was once asked why he put so much "stuff" at the top of his title-pages preceding the actual title. His reply was "Because I don't know where else to put it." It was a very candid reply, but if the printer had not usurped the imprint space naturally belonging to the publishing bureau, he would have instinctively used that place for the "stuff" with which (the imprint space not being available) he burdened and disfigured the tops of his title-pages. He might much better have used the middle of the page than the top.

All of this preliminary talk has been drawn out by the "break" which the Agriculture Department has made in the cover-title of its new magazine, the Journal of agricultural research. It has reclaimed the imprint space at the foot of the page which properly belongs to it, and though it does not follow the orthodox order of an imprint (place, publisher, date), but gives the name of the publisher, Department of Agriculture, first, and the place, Washington, D. C., second, carrying the third member of the imprint, the date, away up to the top of the page, still the repossession of the imprint space is a distinct step in advance and may lead to others.

One other such step is, indeed, already in evidence. The Journal of agricultural research discards the period (called by printers "full stop") in all unnecessary places, thus coming into agreement with the usage of the Library of Congress, the Standards Bureau, and the Public Documents Office, and into very marked disagreement with the former usage of the Agriculture Department. The purpose of the period is to indicate the end of sentences. In continuous text, or, in printers' phrase, "running matter," it is of course necessary. But where the adjustment of the type, as in title-pages, running titles, chapter headings, and "center heads" of all kinds, sufficiently indicates the end of sentences, then the period is not only unnecessary but a blemish, like any other unnecessary thing in printing. This blemish is entirely absent from the Journal

PRIVATE CREDITS IN PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

A recently published document of the United States Government assigns credits to its various directors, authors, assistant authors, and editors, with more than the usual particularity. Thus we learn that the field records from which the discharge data were prepared were collected under the direction of A., district engineer, assisted by B., C., D., E., F., G., and H. The ratings were prepared by A., district engineer (previously mentioned), B., hydraulic engineer (also previously mentioned), and D., assistant engineer (also previously mentioned). The computations were made by A. and D. (both twice previously mentioned), assisted by I., J., K., and L. The rainfall maps were prepared by M., geographer. The outline and general plan of the report were made by N., under whose direction the studies were made and the completed data prepared for publication, by A. (thrice previously mentioned), and D. (also thrice previously mentioned). Finally, the patient reader is informed that the document was edited by O.

No credit is given in the publication to a certain mythical gentleman, widely known as Uncle Sam, who paid all of these good scientists for their time and trouble in making the excellent report.

This minute apportioning of credit to those Government employees who join in producing scientific reports no doubt proceeds from the kindest motives and is grateful to the feelings both of those who bestow it and those who receive it. It is an exchange of what a late lamented newspaper man once called "soul butter." It is apparently a growing custom, and there may be danger that some time in the future it will be overdone. It is a matter of course that in all literary productions there must be considerable cooperation. Walt Whitman was perhaps the only author of note who supplied the mechanical skill as well as the poetical genius in the production of his chief work, and even he no doubt had to buy his paper and hire his presswork done. Though everybody must know that there is necessarily much cooperation in all literary undertakings, one does not expect to see the names of all the cooperators announced in every volume or monograph. This is one of several peculiarities of the United States public documents which differentiate them from most unofficial publications. It is to be said, however, that scientific writings, even when unofficial, are more scrupulous in giving credit to all to whom it is thought due than is the custom in writings of other kinds. So long as it is not permitted to degenerate into personal advertising at public expense, perhaps the Government can afford to spare the time and pay the cost of space for a reasonable amount of credit-giving in its public documents.

The experience of the Documents Office as the salesman of public documents enables it to say with some confidence that these personal credits are rather thrown away on the average citizen. So far from caring which scientist made the computations or the ratings, he does not, as a rule, care even to know from which bureau the document comes. All he wants to know is that it is "a Government book." If it is that, the average citizen has confidence in it and does not care to inquire into the details of its production.

IMPORTANT NEW PERIODICAL

The sale price of the Journal of agricultural research, the new magazine of the United States Agriculture Department, has been fixed at 25 cents a number and $2.50 a volume. Twelve numbers will make a volume, but it is not promised that they will be regularly issued on any special day in the month. Order from the Superintendent of Documents. The statement appearing on page 88 of no. 1, that the price is 15 cents, is erroneous.

This Journal is the periodical in which the results of the technical researches of the scientific bureaus of the Department are to be published hereafter, thus keeping the popular bulletins free from matter which might be unintelligible to the average reader.

The first number contains three fully illustrated technical articles, under the following titles: Citrus ichangensis, a promising hardy new species from southwestern China and Assam, by Walter T. Swingle, plant physiologist; Cysticercus ovis, the cause of tapeworm cysts in mutton, by B. H. Ransom, zoologist; The serpentine leaf-miner, by F. M. Webster and T. H. Parks, entomologists.

In a one-page Foreword Dr. Galloway, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, emphasizes the belief that "further improvement in agriculture calls for continued investigation of the most accurate and thorough nature." He also intimates that the papers published in the Journal will be separately reprinted and "a liberal distribution" of them made to "interested specialists," while the Journal in its entirety will be sent to "special libraries and institutions which make suitable exchanges."

The first few numbers will contain papers from the Agriculture Department only, but later on it is hoped to include papers prepared and submitted by investigators in the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations.

TARIFF AND INCOME TAX

The Superintendent of Documents is advised by the Treasury Department that all regulations and rulings relating to the collection of the income tax and the enforcement of the new tariff law will be printed in the weekly edition of Treasury decisions, a periodical for which the Superintendent of Documents maintains a subscription list, mailing the weekly numbers to any address promptly on their publication for $1.75 a year.

The same matters will also be printed in permanent form later. For instance, a new volume of Customs regulations will appear when operations under the new law shall have become settled by official practice and precedent and judicial procedure, and the same may be said of the Internal revenue decisions. The revision of the Customs regulations is a huge task and may take a year. The new regulations will not be so long in appearing in a collected edition, however, as the semiannual bound volume of the weekly Treasury decisions will be issued in January next. But business can not wait for such permanent forms of publication. The weekly Treasury decisions will supply the earliest printed information of official action under the new statutes, and every man engaged in business operations likely to be affected would do well to arrange for receiving the Decisions as soon as printed. This will be found much more satisfactory than writing letters of inquiry to the Treasury Department or to the Superintendent of Documents, as thousands of business men in all parts of the country are now doing. These matters can not be satisfactorily attended to by correspondence. Subscribers to the weekly Treasury decisions may rest assured that they are thus getting the earliest possible official information, and all that anybody can get.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas (issued in Library and Field editions) and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios (either Library or Field editions), whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 84 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Address the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington. For topographic sheets see page 176.

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are ordinarily used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch, covering, respectively, average areas of 230, 920, and 3,700 square miles. For some areas of particular importance special large-scale maps are published. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

Nearly two-fifths of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 10c. each; but in lots of 50 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 6c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

TOPOGRAPHY DIVISION

NOTE.—Since February, 1908, the Topography Division has been preparing rural-delivery maps of counties in which rural delivery is completely established. They are published in two forms, one giving simply the rural free delivery routes starting from a single given post office, sold at 5 cents each; the other, the rural free delivery routes in an entire county, sold at 20 cents each. A uniform scale of 1 inch to 1 mile is used. Editions are not issued, but sun-print copies are produced in response to special calls addressed to the Disbursing Clerk, Post Office Department. These maps should not be confused with the post route maps for which see Monthly catalogue for January, 1913, page 370.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

‡ Document not obtainable.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 1st session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Bulletin 45, American Ethnology Bureau, Chippewa music, by Frances Densmore, was sought by many persons and aroused an active interest. This is likely to be increased by the issue of a second and final study of the same subject as Bulletin 53, cloth, price 60 cents. The melodic and rhythmic analysis of the songs, which was begun in the first work, is developed more extensively in the second, which is also illustrated by many photographic plates.

The revised regulations for the protection of migratory birds, with President Wilson's proclamation on the subject, are found in Bulletin 22 of the Agriculture Department, edition of Oct. 15, 1913, price 10 cents. The same bulletin gives a compend of the Game laws for 1913.

Nov. 11, 1913, the United States Geological Survey sent the manuscript of its Water-supply paper 337 to the Public Printer, with a request to make the printing special and "rush to the limit," subject to a 20-per-cent. extra charge. This was because of "the urgent need for prompt publication of this report," the title of which is The effect of ice on stream flow.

Bulletin 43, series of 1913, Education Bureau, Agriculture and rural life day, is now for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, at 10 cents per single copy, $7.00 a hundred, $30.00 for 500, $45.00 for a thousand copies. It is a collection of literary material suitable for use in celebrating the annual holiday commemorative of the pleasures and hopes of rural life.

The Secretary of Commerce has announced that on account of the scarcity of foxes and land otters in the Afognak Reservation, Alaska, caused largely by the recent volcanic activities in that region, it is hereby ordered that the pursuit, capture, or killing of foxes in that reservation shall be unlawful until Nov. 16, 1918, and the pursuit, capture, or killing of land otters shall be unlawful until Nov. 16, 1915. It is left open to surmise whether the volcanic convulsions killed these fur-bearing animals or merely scared them away.

The Public Health Service is printing and reprinting of late many of its popular bulletins on various diseases and their prevention. These bulletins are scientific in the sense that they are the work of trained scientific investigators, but they are popular in the sense that they are expressed in the common speech of the people and readily to be understood by everybody. Among the subjects of new publications or new editions now current are: Tuberculosis, its predisposing causes; Tuberculosis, its nature and prevention; Whooping cough; Measles; Country schools and rural sanitation; Antimalarial measures for farmhouses and plantations; What the local health officer can do in prevention of typhoid fever; Relation of climate to treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis; The citizen and the public health; Malarial fevers, prevalence and distribution in Alabama; Pellagra. All of these (and others from the same source) are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, and the price in nearly all cases is 5 cents.

Agriculture Department Bulletin 27 has for title: Bouillon cubes, their contents and food value compared with meat extracts and home-made preparations of meat. The conclusions arrived at are not favorable to the claims set up by the promoters of the cubes. 5 cents.

No. 2 of the Journal of agricultural research has been published. It contains five technical papers with illustrations.

Teachers especially will be interested in the Education Bureau's Bulletin 41, series of 1913, The reorganization of secondary schools. It is a preliminary statement by the chairmen of committees of the National Education Association. 10 cents.

Agriculture Department Bulletin 36 is the first contribution of the Markets Office to the published literature of agriculture. Its title is Studies of primary cotton market conditions in Oklahoma. 5 cents.

The decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the slip form, unbound, have formerly carried on their face the Opinion number. This has now been dropped, the last published Opinion number being 2444.

The series of Technical papers of the Mines Bureau has reached 50 numbers and is still growing rapidly. No. 50, Metallurgical coke, summarizes the history of coke-making in the United States. Price, 25 cents.

Bibliography of State participation in the Civil War, 1861–66, is a third edition, very much enlarged, of Subject catalogue no. 6 of the War Department Library, first issued in 1897 under the title Military literature in the War Department Library relating to the participation of the individual States in the War for the Union. The second edition, 1899, was issued under the same title. The first edition had 203 pages, the second, 266 pages, and an Appendix of 103 pages was issued in 1904. The third edition, now published, has 1140 pages, and comprehends all the previous prints as well as numerous titles not given before. It also presents a variety of new numberings. At the top of the title-page are these legends: War Department, Office of the Chief of Staff, War College Division, General Staff, no. 19. In the middle of the title-page: War Department Library, subject catalogue no. 6, third edition. On the back of the title-page: War Department, document no. 432, Office of the Chief of Staff. It is, however, not at all necessary for any citizen wanting the book to call for it by all these varying numbers and designations. The citizen may take his choice, with a reasonable certainty that any one of the set of names or numbers will be sufficient to identify it. Price, 75 cents, Office of Superintendent of Documents.

Many library-loving persons will be glad to know that the Library of Congress has completed and published in its Classification series a revised edition of that very important class, E-F, America. It is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 40 cents.

The Senate report on the banking and currency bill (H. 7837) was at first printed as Report 133, pts. 1, 2, and 3. Part 1 was Senator Owen's report, very brief and formal, Part 2 was the "Views" of Senators Owen, O'Gorman, Reed, Pomerene, Shafroth, and Hollis, these 2 parts with an Appendix filling 107 pages. Part 3 was Senator Hitchcock's "Views," signed also by Senators Nelson, Bristow, Crawford, McLean, and Weeks, 24 pages. There is a second print, in which all three are stitched together and paged continuously, 132 pages. The original Report number, 133, is retained.

Agriculture Department Bulletin 29, a contribution from Plant Industry Bureau, title, Crew work, costs, and returns in commercial orcharding in West Virginia, will interest many others as well as West Virginians. Though fruit growing on a commercial scale is not an old story in the mountain State, it is already of much importance. Mr. J. H. Arnold, author of Bulletin 29, says that commercial orcharding is "one of the most highly developed enterprises illustrating the principle of farm management." The orchards studied are in the mountainous section of West Virginia, in the basin of the Potomac, where during the past 10 years not less than 2,500,000 fruit trees have been set out. Probably most of these have been planted during the past four years. Very full details of methods and costs in the growing and gathering of the crop are given in the bulletin. 5 cents.

Price list 58, of the Superintendent of Documents' series, 1st edition, just issued, takes up a subject not heretofore treated in these lists. This subject is Mines and mining. The list fills 17 pages, containing about 300 titles. It is only recently that the public documents properly falling under this classification have become sufficiently numerous to warrant publishing a separate list of them. Present prospects are, however, that at no distant day Mines and mining may be one of the largest of the public documents price lists. The Mines Bureau did not begin operations until July 1, 1910, but from that date it has been an exceedingly fertile publisher.

The Annual register of the United States Naval Academy for its 69th academic year is now available in the sales stock of the Superintendent of Documents. Price, 15 cents.

The Annual report of the commissioner of patents for the calendar year 1912, carrying with it the index to the Patent Office Official gazette for the same year and making a book of nearly 1200 pages, the report filling 8 pages, the index 1164 pages, is now ready. From the Superintendent of Documents, in paper covers, $1.00; in canvas binding, $2.00.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has published the 1st issue, effective Jan. 1, 1914, of its Uniform system of accounts for telegraph and cable companies, exclusive of wireless telegraph companies. 10 cents.

Agriculture Department Bulletin 28, Experiments in bulb growing at the United States bulb garden at Bellingham, Wash., covers new ground. The results of the experiments there thus far are highly satisfactory. This is a practical matter in view of the fact that we now import from Europe flower bulbs at a cost of more than a million dollars annually. Price of the bulletin, 5 cents.

Technologic papers 16 of the Standards Bureau, entitled, Manufacture of lime, is one of the most important of recent Government publications. The need of exact information on this subject has been great. Price of the paper, 5 cents.

The Experiment station record has dropped its series of whole numbers, the last one being 1548 on the abstract number issued Sept. 2, 1913. The Publications Division, Agriculture Department, has also dropped its whole numbers. Every superfluous number dropped from a public document increases its value by making its use simpler and less difficult.

The compilation of Part 1, Metals, of Mineral resources for the calendar year 1912 has been completed and the large volume is in press.

Works of art in the United States Capitol building, including biographies of the artists, has been published as Senate document 169, 63d Congress, 1st session—and as a Senate document only, no provision having been made for extra copies, for which there will probably be considerable demand. The works listed number 209. No attempt is made at artistic valuation of them. The artists of whom brief biographies are given are 145 in number. Most of them were long since forgotten, and regain through this pamphlet of 96 pages their only—and very slender—hold on immortality. Real industry must have been employed in digging up so much information concerning persons so obscure. The number of famous artists represented in the Capitol is small indeed. This publication is entered under Capitol Building and Grounds Superintendent.

Vol. 42, Immigration Commission's Report, announced to be a general in[illegible] is not to be published.

Farmers' bulletin 563 is the 3d issue in the series entitled Agricultural outlook.

Vol. 1, American Historical Association report, 1911, has just been issued. Price in paper covers, 60 cents; in cloth binding, 75 cents.

Vol. 5 of the final reports of the thirteenth census is out of press and for sale at $1.40. Its title is: Agriculture, 1909–10, general report and analysis.

That very interesting volume issued by the Treasury Department transmitting Estimates of appropriations required for the service of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1915, was ready, as it always is, for the opening of the session of Congress, Dec. 1. No book is studied in Washington with deeper interest than this.

Special agents series 76, Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, is in press and will probably be on the market by the time this note reaches the reader. Its title is: Commerce and industries of Canada and Newfoundland. Price, 10 cents.

Erratum: Monthly catalogue of public documents, Oct. 1913, page 154, 3d paragraph from the bottom, instead of "Commerce Court" read "Court of Customs Appeals." This court is still in active operation and its decisions are all published in the weekly Treasury decisions.

A BIG UNDERTAKING

President Taft swept the whole collection of 4th-class postmasters into the classified service without inquiry as to their qualifications. Propositions were brought up to sweep them all out again. But President Wilson has adopted a middle course. He has not swept the 4th-class postmasters out, but he has required them to demonstrate their fitness to stay in by taking an examination.

As the 4th-classers number many thousands, this course puts upon the Civil Service Commission probably the largest task that has ever fallen to its lot. The Commission has published its Form 2060 in a different edition for each State, giving schedules of places where examinations will be held and lists of the post offices which are to be filled as a result of these examinations.

The work of examining will begin Jan. 10, 1914.

THIS YEAR'S BLUE BOOK

The United States Official register (blue book) is really due Dec. 1 in each odd-numbered year, but this year it has been slightly delayed because of the wish to bring it more nearly up to date. According to the precedents of the last 97 years (the first number having been issued in 1816), the statistics are those of the end of the fiscal year in which the Register is issued. For many years this has been June 30. This year the record will be improved upon by including all important changes in the public service up to Nov. 15, 1913.

This has delayed the publication, but not greatly. At the time of writing the work is well advanced, and publication before the end of December is announced as a certainty.

This year's Official register will be in one volume, Congress having ordered the discontinuance of vol. 2, which for many years past has contained the names and other particulars concerning postal officials and employees.

RURAL CREDITS AND COOPERATION

A very important work now in press is designated as Senate document 214, 63d Congress, 1st session, and will make nearly 1000 pages, royal octavo. It will contain the first part of the joint report of the United States Commission, appointed by President Wilson, and the American Commission, appointed by Governors of States and commercial bodies and assembled by the Southern Commercial Congress, both commissions having for purpose the acquirement of knowledge concerning the methods of agricultural cooperation and credit which have been successfully worked out in European practice.

This document will present the evidence gathered in Europe by the two commissions, which acted jointly. This evidence consists of reports of the hearings held by the commissions and their various subcommittees in many countries and of translations from several languages of constitutions, regulations, and other documents of the various successful cooperative associations which lent cordial assistance to the commissions during their stay abroad the past summer. It is thus a compend of first-hand knowledge on a subject in which a lively interest is felt throughout this country, but which has been much more maturely worked out in the older countries than here.

The discussion of this knowledge by the members of the two commissions and such recommendations as they may choose to make in their official reports remain to be printed later, in a separate volume which will be very much smaller than the first. Part 1 is estimated to contain 90 to 95 per cent. of the whole.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas (issued in Library and Field editions) and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios (either Library or Field editions), whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 34 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Address the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

‡ Document not obtainable.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available. but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and $\frac{1}{10}$c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

The quarterly magazine, Bulletin of Mount Weather Observatory, established in 1908, has been consolidated with the Monthly weather review, and the Mount Weather, Va., observatory has been virtually abandoned, the scientific force having been reduced to one caretaker.

Miscellaneous series 10, Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, Foreign publications for advertising American goods, is out of press. It is a list of publications (chiefly newspapers) issued in all parts of the world, with instructive notes as to character, circulation, rates, population of cities, towns, and provinces where published, commercial wants of the people, and other particulars necessary to the intelligent direction of advertising campaigns. It does not profess to be a complete directory, but only a slight inspection of it is needed to convince any business man that it is packed with valuable information. Sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 25 cents.

The November Monthly catalogue recorded the fact that on Nov. 11 the Geological Survey had sent to the Public Printer its Water-supply paper 337 under the rule which permits publishing bureaus to ask that their publications be marked "Special—rush to the limit," on condition that they shall be charged 20 per cent. above the ordinary price for printing. The publication now in question was rushed so effectively that on Dec. 24 the Survey had not only received its copies but had disposed of the whole edition and sent in an order for 1000 copies more. The title of the publication is "The effects of ice on stream flow," and this is the season when such a treatise is most timely. Perhaps some day the Documents Office will feel rich enough to mark its Monthly catalogues and price lists "Special—rush to the limit."

Geological Survey Professional paper 79, not yet out of press, treats of a new science, Fossil geography. This is an attempt by Professor Henry Shaler Williams to reconstruct the geological map of the world on the basis of the finds of fossils. The reasons for believing this undertaking to be possible are set forth in the paper. It shows that groups of animals or faunas may be driven out of a region by earth movements or other causes, and that the same animals, slightly modified perhaps, but still recognizable, may later return to the region. A study of the fossils representing these recurrent fauna may thus throw light on geographic changes.

The Official Congressional directory is the one document which contains more information than any other as to Government officials, their history, rank, duties, powers, etc. The new edition, published according to law at the opening of the regular session of Congress, Dec. 1, 1913, is now on sale by the Superintendent of Documents, in cloth, at 60 cents.

This latest edition of the Congressional directory is not to be reprinted as a numbered Congressional document, and it is the present intention that there shall be no more such superfluous and wasteful reprints. It is a useful document without such numbering, and the addition of the number gives no added value, though it does give some added cost. When the Documents Office was newly established it discovered that the official libraries (designated depositories) were getting only the numbered copies of the Directory bound in costly and worthless sheep bindings. As the "Congressional reserve" was then from two to four years in arrears, the net result was that no library received a Directory until years after its interest and value had mostly evaporated. To remedy this a successful appeal was made to the Public Printer of that day to supply cloth bound copies of the first (unnumbered) print for the libraries. So fully was the appeal responded to that not only was the 1st edition in red cloth sent, but also the 2d edition in blue cloth, and likewise the 3d edition in green cloth when there was one. This liberal treatment of the libraries made it seem wasteful to send them in addition a leather bound copy of the Directory three or four years after, but the Documents Office failed in its efforts to have this belated sending discontinued. So for some years the libraries got all the kinds of Congressional directories that were published. But of course if there are to be no more numbered copies none can be sent.

This is the season of annual reports of Government officials. It is the fashion to scoff at these documents as literary lumber, too dry for any use except feeding bonfires. The simple fact is, however, that they embody the record and the purposes of the executive branch of the Government, and nobody can understand the work done and planned by any Department, bureau, service, or office of the Government without reading the annual report of its head. Any or all of the annual reports for 1913 can be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents at the cost of paper and printing. They are numerous, for every Government organization, great or small, though it may not transmit or publish anything else, transmits an annual report, and the most of them are printed. The only exception is the State Department.

A small but important change has been made in the method of publication of the slip laws. Heretofore, during all the years of the publication of these separate prints of the laws, no indication of the Congress from which they proceeded appeared on any of them except no. 1 of each session. Any person who had such a law and wanted to know to what Congress it belonged could find the date of approval at the end, and then, if he had the necessary records at hand, could find what Congress was sitting at that date. This was his only means of getting the desired information. Beginning with the first law of the 2d session of the 63d Congress, the heading has been modified to read thus: "Public—No. 39—63d Congress." Formerly the words "63d Congress" were not included. This small and much belated change, costing nothing, will be a convenience to many good citizens.

The 1913 revised edition of the Soldiers' handbook, canvas bound, is now ready. Price, 15 cents.

The Proceedings of the 29th annual convention of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists, held at Washington, Sept. 16–18, 1912, has been published as Chemistry Bureau Bulletin 162, price 25 cents. The rumor that these proceedings were no longer to be published by the Government it seems was incorrect.

Education Bureau Bulletin 48, series of 1913, is a report of the 4th International Congress of School Hygiene, held at Buffalo last August. It was an important meeting, attended by delegates from many countries, and Bulletin 48 presents a compact and convenient report of its action. (15 cents.) The next Congress is to be held in Brussels, Belgium, in 1915.

Of all the very numerous publications of the United States Geological Survey, those for which there seems to be the most active demand, and the supply of which is soonest exhausted, are the annual collections of papers published under the title Contributions to economic geology, and receiving nonconsecutive numbers in the bulletin series. A recent issue is Bulletin 531, being Part 2 of the Contributions for the calendar year 1911, the special subject treated being Mineral fuels. Price, 45 cents.

Index to the reports of the Chief of Ordnance, Army, 1864 to 1912, is a December publication, in red cloth, which can be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents for 35 cents.

The Educational directory for 1913, published as Education Bureau Bulletin 46, series of 1913, can be supplied for 15 cents.

The State Department has published a list of the Diplomatic and consular service of the United States, corrected to Dec. 11, 1913. This list can not be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents.

Appendix 1, Report of Chief of Ordnance, Army, 1913, The Taylor system of shop management at the Watertown Arsenal, has been separately printed and is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 10 cents. It is made up of two petitions by workmen at the Arsenal, asking for the discontinuance of the Taylor system, and a reply by General Crozier, Chief of Ordnance.

Bulletin 127, Bureau of Labor Statistics, has for title: Dangers to workers from dusts and fumes and methods of protection. It is in major part made up of photographic plates illustrating the dangers and the protection. There are 62 such full-page plates. Price, 40 cents.

A pamphlet in which a good deal of interest has been shown both before and after publication is Special agents series 76 of the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau. Commerce and industries of Canada and Newfoundland is its title and 10 cents is its price.

Drs. Wilbert and Motter have prepared for the Public Health Service a Digest of laws and regulations relating to the possession, use, sale, and manufacture of poisons and habit-forming drugs enacted during 1912 and 1913, now in force in the United States, and the Superintendent of Documents is selling it for 10 cents. It is well to let those who trifle with drugs and toxins know that their practices are against the law as well as against good sense, but no law can put much sense into the heads of those who carelessly leave poisons accessible to small children, a practice whose dire consequences are reported almost daily in the newspapers.

Aviation has now been the subject of an annual naval report for two years and it can safely be predicted that it will be continued for many years to come. The reports for 1912 and 1913 have been issued as Appendix 1 to the Annual report of the Navigation Bureau, Navy Department. Of course the Signal Corps of the Army has been experimenting and reporting on this subject for a longer time.

Bulletin 26, Agriculture Department, is American medicinal flowers, fruits, and seeds, by Alice Henkel. This author's previous publications on medicinal plants, roots, and barks have had a large sale, and this latest one is likely to duplicate this record. The price is 5 cents.

Public Health Service has issued a compilation entitled Municipal ordinances, rules, and regulations pertaining to public health adopted from July 1, 1911, to Dec. 31, 1911, by cities of the United States having a population of over 10,000 in 1910. Though the period covered is limited, the document fills 226 pages. It is Reprint 121 from the weekly Public health reports.

A clever and useful manual is Bulletin 47, series of 1913, Education Bureau, Teaching material in Government publications, compiled by Frederick K. Noyes. In the small compass of 61 pages he has gathered a rather surprising amount of information. From the publications of the Commerce Department, the Treasury Department, the Immigration Commission, the Labor Department, the Interior Department, the Census Bureau, the Industrial Commission, the Senate and the House, and other Government publishing offices, especially from the Agriculture Department and its numerous scientific bureaus, he has gathered several hundred titles of public documents, every one of which contains matter worthy to be taught to scholars in one or another of the school or college grades. The finding of such material is not strange, for everybody who knows anything of the public documents knows that it exists in bountiful measure, but the arrangement of it in alphabetical order by authors under subject headings may prove generally convenient, while a smart little index rounds it out to completion. Besides all this is the further and very important feature, a most unusual feature in bibliographies, that the compiler gives his readers most minute and intelligible instructions as to how they may get the publications that are cited in his list. Price, 10 cents.

The Annual report of the Librarian of Congress, always an interesting document, is especially so in its 1913 issue, because of Appendix 4, relating to that very much alive subject, a legislative reference bureau, a great and crying need in the organization of the legislative branch of the Government.

LATEST PUBLICATIONS

Internal revenue Regulations no. 33, relative to the income tax of individuals, including all decisions and regulations, and some (perhaps all) of the forms for income returns that had been issued up to the end of the calendar year 1913 (possibly even a little later) is now in press, under the "rush to the limit" rule, and will in all probability be on sale by the Superintendent of Documents before this number of the Monthly catalogue reaches the reader. The price can not be determined till the publication is out of press. There will also be a large free distribution of Regulations no. 33 by the Treasury Department. Regulations of all later dates will be found in the weekly Treasury decisions, mailed promptly to subscribers by the Superintendent of Documents at $1.75 a year.

The State Department has issued its circular announcing that a set of the laws of the 63d Congress, 1st session, consists of Public acts 1 to 38; Public resolutions 1 to 13; Private act 1; Private resolutions 1 and 2.

Supplement 1 to the July, 1913, edition of the list of Radio stations of the United States issued by the Navigation Bureau, Commerce Department, is now on sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 10 cents. It supplies corrections in the list up to Oct. 1, 1913. Two more supplements will be published before the issue of the 1914 edition of the entire list. These three supplements, supplying quarterly corrections to the radio stations list, will be supplied for 25 cents paid in advance. By such payment, subscribers will ensure receipt of the supplements as soon as issued without the trouble of making further remittances.

MR. BOWKER'S IDEA

Mr. Richard Rogers Bowker is an American citizen who for many years has been active in literature, politics, and business. He is especially well known in the book trade and in library circles. He is the editor, publisher, and proprietor of the Publishers' weekly, organ of the book trade, and of the Library journal, organ of the American Library Association. He is the author of several books on important subjects. No man has a better right to address a letter to the President, and if his letter of Dec. 4, 1913, had reached the President's eye it would certainly have been treated with respect. But it is well known that not one in a hundred of the letters addressed to the President ever can meet his eye, and Mr. Bowker's letter, like most others of the kind, was referred by one of the President's secretaries to a lesser official for consideration. As this letter raised a question of the preparation and printing of public documents, it was appropriately referred to the Public Printer, and was by him again appropriately referred to the Superintendent of Documents.

The letter is not of a private nature, but makes suggestions of a public kind, and is sure to be of much interest to all librarians. It seems therefore, entirely appropriate that it should be printed here and followed by a few comments which it is hoped may be found equally appropriate:

141 East 25th St., New York, December 4, 1913.

To the President:

Sir: I should hesitate to add my personal mite of felicitation to the burden of congratulations on your message but that I venture to make a suggestion in the direction of informing the people and thus increasing democratic relations of governed and government.

This is—that there be printed with the message a compact summary furnished by each Department of its own operations and its recommendations, combined in a pamphlet to be had at a minimum price through the Superintendent of Documents or sold at each post-office for a few cents, or possibly furnished gratuitously at each post-office to any citizen as postal information is supplied. Possibly such a pamphlet might usefully include a schedule of receipts and expenditures of the government, compacted like the tabulation now printed on the back of New York City tax-bills; a summary of the more important legislation of the Congress directly bearing upon the people; and a select list of government publications of the year, with information as to price and method of purchasing—particularly those of the Agriculture Department, which should be better known to farmers and to the people generally.

Truly yours,

R. R. BOWKER.

The Monthly catalogue is of course not in any sense authorized to speak for the President, but there are a few things in relation to his messages to Congress so obvious that it is surprising such a veteran observer as Mr. Bowker should have failed to take note of them. President Wilson, as a historian, has probably read pretty much all the Presidential messages that were ever penned, and it is likely he has become impressed with the feeling that it is hopeless to expect the average man to read such formal, labored, detailed, statistical documents. He may even in his reading have come across the political story of half a century and more ago that the reason Lewis Cass could never be elected President was the general belief that he could not possibly write an annual message less than 49 columns long. Whatever the reason which may have inspired President Wilson's action, it is now a matter of record that he has stripped his messages of all rehashes of the annual reports of the Executive Departments and of all the usual formal introductions and spread-eagleism, and has struck at once at the heart of his subjects. By reading them himself in joint sessions of Congress he has compelled every Senator and Representative to listen to them, which few did when the messages of former Presidents were read by a reading clerk. By their remarkable brevity and pith he has virtually compelled every newspaper in the country to print them in full. He has undoubtedly secured for his official utterances a wider publicity than has ever been secured by any other President. Of course this is partly due to the fact that there are now more American citizens than were ever ruled by any other President, but it is due in still larger measure to the novel and effective methods which he has adopted for arousing and holding the public attention.

In view of this situation, to ask the President to tack to his purposely abbreviated messages an appendix made up in part of just the material used by most former Presidents (but which this President has thus far carefully excluded) and further extended by the addition of many sorts of material which no former President has ever used, is certainly a request to excite astonishment. If the President ever hears of it one may safely say it will give him a new sensation.

Of course it is desirable that all the kinds of official information specified by Mr. Bowker shall be readily accessible to every citizen, and they are so now, and in our opinion in more suitable form than that proposed by Mr. Bowker.

So multifarious are the operations of the Government that very few citizens can be interested in all of them. By the present plan of printing the official reports of the various departments and their numerous bureaus separately any citizen is enabled to get at small cost, and often at no cost at all, the special information he seeks without taking along with it a lot of material for which he has no use. Of all the drugs in the document sales market the worst is the so-called Abridgment of the messages and documents, which is a collection of all the annual reports of the Executive Departments printed together in a set of volumes. Occasionally a buyer does want an annual report, but the buyer who wants a volume of the different reports bound together is a myth.

We venture the opinion that the compact summaries of the reports of the Departments suggested by Mr. Bowker are hardly a possibility. The operations of the Departments are so varied and numerous that the confinement of the reports of these operations within a limited space is hardly practicable. The Treasury Department, for instance, has not only the great subject of the finances, with its subdivisions of customs, internal revenue, currency, and the auditing of the accounts of all the vast outlay of the whole Government, but also the great Bureau of Engraving and Printing with its four thousand employees, the Public Health Service, the Life-Saving Service, the Revenue-Cutter Service, and others besides. The Agriculture Department is carrying on original research in chemistry, entomology, road building, plant life, animal life, forestry, marketing, agricultural education, and various subdivisions and branches of these great lines of inquiry. And of all the other Departments like things may truthfully be said. It is obvious that not all of these extremely varied subjects can be adequately (or even superficially) reported upon in an appendix of small (or even of moderate) size. Some must be slighted. Who shall decide which shall be mentioned and which shall be slurred over or ignored? It would be easy to show that each one of them is of real and lasting importance to the welfare and well-being of the American people. They are now treated in separate publications, if not adequately, certainly much more nearly so than would be possible in any single publication, though it were to be made as big as Webster's Dictionary.

As to the other matters which Mr. Bowker asks to have treated in an appendix to the President's message (a schedule of receipts and expenditures, a summary of legislation, an annual list of Government publications, and information as to prices and methods of buying them), all of these matters, except a summary of legislation, which the newspapers bountifully cover, are already provided for in Government publications readily accessible to all at the cost of paper and printing without charge for authors' royalty, publishers' profit, or cost of typesetting. The Treasury Department prints a volume of the Estimates of appropriations, follows this with a Digest of appropriations, and this with a Statement of receipts and expenditures, all annual publications. The Superintendent of Documents prints a Monthly catalogue of public documents, an annual Index to the Congressional documents and reports, and a biennial Catalogue of public documents. Just what hope there may be of condensing these several catalogues into a pamphlet appendix may be estimated in view of the fact that the latest Document catalogue, now in press, covering the fiscal years 1910 and 1911, will fill about 1,800 large double-column closely-printed pages. The Superintendent of Documents annually distributes many thousand price lists, in each of which are given, along with the prices, full and explicit directions as to conditions of buying. It is quite true, as Mr. Bowker says, that the publications of the Agriculture Department should be better known, and still the Department is doing fairly well, the latest annual report of its Publications Division showing the issue of more than 30,000,000 publications during the fiscal year 1913. A considerable proportion of the million and a half of documents which the Superintendent of Documents is now annually selling are also agricultural.

On the whole, the Monthly catalogue feels constrained to say—and it does so with all respect to Mr. Bowker and his opinions—that his proposals are apparently both ill-advised and impracticable, and we feel great confidence that if the President ever considers them he will come to the same conclusion.

THE NEW PRICE LISTS

Three numbers were issued by the Superintendent of Documents in December: A 7th edition of 18, Engineering, mechanics; a 3d edition of 31, Education; a 6th edition of 46, Soils.

No. 18 no longer carries the titles of the publications of the Mines Bureau, these and related publications having become so numerous as to require a separate list, which has been published as No. 58, Mines and mining. No. 18 still lists the publications of the Standards Bureau and the Patent Office, but past and present growth indicates that the former will at no distant day require a price list all to itself. The new edition of 18 fills 50 pages and contains about 900 titles. The river and harbor documents are entered in this list, those referring to such work generally under the heading Rivers and harbors and those referring to special projects under their specific geographical names.

The new edition of 31 is of course mainly made up of publications issuing from the Education Bureau, but it includes also documents on educational topics which have been published by Congress, by the Labor Bureau, by the Smithsonian Institution, and by other public offices. Its 68 pages contain about 1200 titles.

The 6th edition of 46 is made up mostly, though not entirely, of the publications of the Soils Bureau. This bureau of the Agriculture Department has made very extensive researches and their results are of extreme importance to the farming industry and therefore to the general welfare of the country. Its 20 pages carry about 400 titles.

The price lists are the advertising mediums of the extensive sale business of the Superintendent of Documents, and are therefore supplied free of charge to all applicants. They are the only documents which he is authorized to give away. All the others must be sold at the range of prices authorized by law—namely, the cost of paper and printing, nothing being added for the compensation of authors or the cost of typesetting and electrotyping. Of course this means that the Government books and pamphlets are sold at a much lower rate than is charged for unofficial publications. The only limitation on this statement is the fact that the Government price for single copies does not go below 5 cents though some of the publications are very small—sometimes only single leaves. In these cases something is allowed for the cost of handling, wrapping, mailing, etc.

Erratum: In Price list 51, page 6, 2d entry from top, the price of the excellent publication of the Children's Bureau entitled Prenatal care is given at 15 cents. The correct price is 5 cents.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE

No. 228 DECEMBER 1913

AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT

NOTE.—Numerous changes have recently been made in the publication work of this Department; for detailed explanation see Notes of general interest, Monthly catalogue, July, 1913, page 8.

Those publications of the Department of Agriculture which are for sale will be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. The Department issues a monthly list of publications, which is mailed to all applicants, enabling them to select such reports and bulletins as interest them.

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are ordinarily used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch, covering, respectively, average areas of 230, 920, and 3,700 square miles. For some areas of particular importance special large-scale maps are published. The size, unless otherwise given, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, exclusive of the margin, the width varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

Nearly two-fifths of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 10c. each; but in lots of 50 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 6c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with these numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Education Bureau has issued a new list of its bulletins, 1906–14, indicating by an asterisk (*) those which are no longer available for free distribution but may be bought from the Superintendent of Documents at the prices given in the list and indicating by an obelisk (†) those which are "out of print." The educational bulletin record for the eight years is a record of growth—not so much, perhaps, in quality, for the standard of the Education Bureau has always been high, but in number. In 1906 but 3 bulletins were published; in 1907, 4; in 1908, 8; in 1909, 11; in 1910, 6; in 1911, 19; in 1912, 33; in 1913, 60. This last figure is a record for the Bureau. For 1914, up to the time of the compilation of the list, but 2 bulletins had been published. To all friends of education this list of 144 titles, which can be had from the Education Bureau on application, offers many points of attraction. The sale price is usually 5 cents, sometimes 10 cents, and in a few cases 15 cents, which is the highest. The Superintendent of Documents can sell not only the starred titles but also most of the others.

The Census Bureau will publish no more "special reports." This does not mean that any publications are to be discontinued, but simply that the series title "special reports" will no longer be used. The Bureau holds that as all its issues are equally authorized by law, all are "regular" reports and not properly to be characterized as "special." The use of the term special reports caused inquiry as to what are the Bureau's regular reports, and this is the answer: All of the Census reports are regular reports.

The Commerce Department intends giving extensive publicity to Tariff series 19–a, a publication of the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau which is now in press, and which has for title Commercial travelers and samples in South America. There will be no general (free) distribution of this pamphlet but it will be sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 5 cents.

The Superintendent of Documents is now prepared to supply all the numbers but no. 1 of the Foreign tariff notes, of which 10 numbers in all have been thus far published by the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau. The set of Foreign tariff notes should not be confused with the set known as Tariff series, of which 28 numbers have been published by the same bureau. The Tariff series gives the text of the tariff laws of foreign countries, but the Foreign tariff notes are budgets of tariff news drawn from the reports of United States consuls abroad, relating to tariff administration in foreign lands and giving expressions, comments, and proposals which show the drift of popular and official opinion. The various numbers also record all changes made in foreign tariffs since July, 1910. Price, 5 cents each.

Concerning the proposed withdrawal from sale of public lands known to contain ores that yield radium, a question much debated of late in official circles and the press, the Geological Survey had this to say in a recent press bulletin: "Early exhaustion of these deposits in the sense that we speak of exhaustion of other mineral resources is something which need not be feared. The radium once extracted from the ores becomes available for continued use without appreciable loss and becomes a permanent addition to the needed supply. The same radium that is placed at humanity's service today may be used by our children for many generations."

The Geological Survey is publishing advance chapters from its Professional paper 85, which will be the first number in a new series to be called Contributions to general geology, of which it is proposed to issue a volume yearly. The separate papers thus far issued are: Professional paper 85–A, Origin of colemanite deposits; 85–B, Mud lumps at mouths of the Mississippi; 85–C, Interpretation of anomalies of gravity. The importance of the papers included in this collection would justify the publication of each one as a separate Professional paper if it were longer.

The Standards Bureau has adopted a new title for some of the pamphlets reprinted from its standard periodical, the Bulletin of the Bureau of Standards. Reprints 209, 211, and 214 are entitled Scientific papers. It is the intention in the future to give this series title to all the reprints from the Bulletin.

Army regulations, 1913, a new edition, just out, is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 60 cents.

The yearly subscription price for the Monthly summary of commerce and finance has been reduced from $2.50 to $1.50. Order from Superintendent of Documents.

In the series of bulletins issued from the office of the head of the Agriculture Department, and therefore known as "Department bulletins," a new subseries has been introduced. Occasional numbers have the additional series title "Professional papers." Thus far only two such numbers have been received at the Documents Office, namely, Bulletins 19 and 59. Others are in press. The Department explains the significance of the new subtitle as follows: "Professional papers are those which deal with subjects of interest to professional fruit growers, truck growers, lumber men, mill men, paper makers, poultrymen, bakers, confectioners, etc., and which of necessity must be discussed in a more or less professional manner. They are intended for men who are specialists actively engaged in the various industries and who, while not technical men, are more or less professional and can be spoken of as professional workers."

The Mines Bureau, which had already one subseries in its bulletin set under the title Petroleum technology has introduced another, namely Mineral technology, of which numbers 1, 2, and 3 have been already issued. In the bulletin series these are numbers 53, 70, and 71.

Special consular reports 61, Russia, a handbook on commercial and industrial conditions, is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 50 cents.

Vol. 2, American Historical Association report for 1911, containing the correspondence of Robert Toombs, Alexander H. Stephens, and Howell Cobb, was received during December. Copies can be supplied in cloth binding for 65 cents, in paper covers for 50 cents.

Acting in behalf of the Indian Affairs Office, the Geological Survey has made a reconnoissance survey of the Quenilult Indian reservation in Washington State to see whether the Quenilult Indians have oil and gas prospects on their lands. The results were favorable, but not sufficient to determine whether the Quenilults will ever be as rich as the Osages, who are said to be, on a per capita basis, the richest people in the world. It may be months before the formal report of the reconnoissance will be out of press, but an advance press bulletin (mimeographed) has been issued, in which a curiosity of nature is thus described: "Near Taholah, at the mouth of Quenilult River, is a mound about 50 feet in height and 300 to 400 feet in diameter at the base, with a small opening at the apex, from which gas and wind issue. This mound, which is locally known as the Garfield gas mound, has undoubtedly been built up by mud carried up by the gas and deposited around the opening. The adjacent spruce trees indicate that the mound is hundreds of years old, some with trunks 3 or 4 feet in diameter being located within 6 or 8 feet from the top of the mound."

The 1913 Education Bureau report, now in press, will have a chapter on the educational systems of the United States Navy.

The Interior Department has in press a pamphlet entitled Origin of the scenic features of the Glacier National Park, which will be sold by the Superintendent of Documents. There will be no free distribution except to libraries and exchanges.

The Superintendent of Documents is having reprinted those volumes of the report of the National Monetary Commission (more than a dozen in number) the supply of which had become exhausted. The supply of single volumes in paper covers will soon again be complete, and later on complete sets of bound volumes will be stocked as heretofore.

The Soils Bureau, Agriculture Department, has ready for press a report by Dr. Frank K. Cameron entitled Giant kelps of the Pacific Coast as a source of potassium salts. It is to accompany, or to be accompanied by, a set of 60 working maps of the kelp beds. The kelps are gigantic sea weeds, found in profusion along the Pacific Coast of the United States. Their utilization as a means of land fertilization by increasing the supply of one of the essential elements, potash, has long been the subject of inquiry by agricultural scientists. A bill has been introduced in the Senate and three bills in the House, each one proposing the appropriation of $7,000 to pay for printing the report and maps, but at the time of writing no action had been taken on any of them.

The monthly list of the dates of sailing of steamships, which has been published by the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, is to be discontinued. The last number will be for Dec. 1914. Subscriptions cannot be taken for any later date.

The Annual report of the Isthmian Canal Commission for 1913, per set, $1.80 in paper, $2.00 in cloth.

Jan. 29, on motion of Senator Fletcher, the Senate by unanimous vote adopted a resolution to print as a document, with illustrations, the report of the Florida Everglade Engineering Commission. It will be Senate document 379, 63d Congress.

Senator Bristow introduced on Jan. 29 joint resolution 104 for reprinting as a numbered Congressional document the Documentary history of the Constitution. The resolution went to the Committee on Printing, and up to the date of this writing had not been acted on.

A notable addition to "Uncle Sam's Cookbook" is Farmers' bulletin 565, Corn meal as a food and ways of using it. Professor Langworthy and Caroline L. Hunt are the authors and they have done a real public service in collecting or inventing so many excellent recipes for making the use of corn-meal foods even more general and popular than now. 5 cents.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT

Parts 1 and 2 of the report of the United States Commission to investigate and study in European countries cooperative land-mortgage banks, cooperative rural credit unions, etc., are to be published as Senate document 380, 63d Congress.

Senator Fletcher, Chairman of the Commission, secured the passage of the order in the Senate, Jan. 29.

Parts 1 and 2 relate to land-mortgage or long-term credit. Part 3, relating to personal or short-term credit, will be submitted to Congress at an early day. With Parts 1 and 2 the Commission submitted a draft of a bill to provide for the establishment, operation, and supervision of a national farm-land bank system in the United States and for other related purposes. The bill has been printed under Senate number 4246.

The Commission anticipates a large demand for Senate document 380. Under the limitation of $500 which one branch of Congress may spend for printing without the cooperation of the other branch the Senate will be able to get about 22,000 copies.

Parts 1 and 2, with the accompanying bill, are printed at length in the Congressional record of Jan. 29 (vol. 51, no. 36), price 11 cents.

The same number of the Record carries also a speech made by Senator Fletcher, Jan. 14, 1914, in which he gives a historical sketch of the present rural-credit movement, in which he has been the leading spirit. He describes the formation of the two commissions (American and United States), of each of which he was president, tells what they have done and what they purpose doing, tells of the cooperation of President Wilson with the commissions, and on the whole gives the most authoritative and lucid account of the entire movement that has been printed.

House document 679, 63d Congress, is an interpretation and review of the bill, which has been introduced in the House by Representative Moss of Indiana, a member of the United States Commission. The House print of the bill is numbered 12585.

NEW LAW VOLUME

The paper-covered edition of the Statutes of the United States (usually known as session laws or pamphlet laws) for the 1st session of the 63d Congress is now on sale by the Superintendent of Documents at $1.00.

BRANCH OFFICES

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has established branch offices at 315 Customhouse, New York City; 629 Federal Building, Chicago; and Association of Commerce Building, New Orleans.

These are not publishing offices and no publications should be expected from them. Their chief function is to supply and distribute correct and official information relative to trade conditions and opportunities in foreign countries.

NEW RADIO MANUAL

Circular 1, 1914, U. S. Signal Corps, entitled Radiotelegraphy, is a work too technical for the uninitiated to pass judgment on, but it is to the superficial eye a very complete manual of its subject. It is at any rate the very latest work on this wonderful art (or science) which is revolutionizing all human ideas of time and distance and the fixity of things. It is a pamphlet of 122 pages and many plates and diagrams and is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 20 cents.

NEW SUBSCRIPTION LIST

The list of subscriptions to the Bulletin of the Standards Bureau is now being made up by the Superintendent of Documents.

The sendings will begin with vol. 10, no. 1. Each volume contains 4 numbers and the subscription price is $1.00. None of the numbers of vol. 10 has yet been issued, but all are to be issued during the year 1914.

The high rank of the Bulletin as a manual of technology is known to all American technicians and to many in foreign lands.

IMPORTANT NEW WORK

Mr. Nathan B. Williams of the Arkansas Bar, employed as an expert by the House Judiciary Committee, has compiled for that committee an important work entitled Laws on trusts and monopolies, domestic and foreign, with authorities.

In the December Monthly catalogue this was entered under the heading Congress and the subheading Judiciary Committee, and being a Congressional committee publication the usual course was followed of appending a symbol (double dagger) indicating that the work was not procurable.

This was the situation in December. It is now quite different. The Judiciary Committee has in press a revised and enlarged edition of the Trust laws compilation and has provided for the Superintendent of Documents a supply of copies for sale.

The new print will be a pamphlet of 480 pages and its price will be 40 cents. It will in all probability be in stock by the time this Catalogue is in the hands of the reader.

WEATHER MAP OF NORTHERN HEMISPHERE

On Jan. 1, 1914, the United States Weather Bureau began the publication at Washington of a weather map of the Northern Hemisphere. Hereafter this map will be printed on the reverse side of the morning weather map of the United States. A similar map of the Northern Hemisphere has been prepared in manuscript daily for several years past in the Weather Bureau, and has proved of great value to the forecasters in predicting general changes of the weather, and especially in extending the periods for which such forecasts can be successfully made. Although the number of reports available for the construction of the map is limited at present, and the times of observation are not all strictly simultaneous, nevertheless the essential features of the atmospheric circulation over the Northern Hemisphere are fairly well depicted.

In a circular announcement Chief Marvin states that "in beginning this important publication it seemed advisable not to retain the arbitrary and irrational units ordinarily employed for measuring pressure and temperature of the atmosphere, but to adopt the more scientific and rational units of the C. G. S. system. Accordingly, the reported pressures are all expressed in dynamic units in which a pressure of 750.06 mm. of mercury corresponds to a force of 1,000,000 dynes. Following the suggestion of Bjerknes, this absolute unit of pressure is called 1 bar=1,000 millibars. The reported temperatures have all been reduced to the absolute scale (Centigrade) on which the temperature of melting ice is 273°. Mathematical and dynamic studies of the motions of the atmosphere are possible only when the data are given in rational units of the kind described. It is hoped the publication of this map of the Northern Hemisphere will facilitate and promote the serious scientific study of the great and complex problems of the general circulation of the atmosphere."

NUMBERING THROUGH THE CONGRESS

Formerly there was confusion resulting from the fact that of the rather numerous sets of numbered publications emanating from Congress, some began a new set of numbers with each new session, while others began only with each new Congress. This has now been changed so that all the sets of numbers run through the full term of a Congress.

This new, correct, and convenient change has been gradually made, first one and then another set accepting it.

Chemistry Bureau has been discontinued. The final circular is no. 173. At the time of closing the compilation of the list Part 2 of 127 was the latest publication in the bulletin series, but some others are yet to appear. This new list fills 23 pages, of which 5 are indexical. The number of titles exceeds 500.

No. 43, 5th edition, Forestry publications of the United States Government, is not simply a list of the publications of the Forest Service. Publications relating to the science of forestry and to forest conservation have been found in the Congressional record, in the numbered Congressional documents, in the reports and papers of the Geological Survey, in the Agricultural yearbook, in the consular reports, in the Entomology bulletins and circulars, and elsewhere, and wherever found they have been (if duplicate copies remained in stock) entered in the new Forestry list. Notwithstanding the fact that titles were drawn from so many sources, the majority are still publications of the Forest Service. The list is of the alphabetical subject kind, giving, however, lists in numerical order of the Bulletins and Circulars of the Forest Service, including the last bulletin (no. 127) and the last circular (no. 216). The 31 pages of the list carry 800 or 900 titles.

No. 47, 5th edition, Crop statistics, is a small list of 8 pages, cataloguing in numerical order the publications of the Statistics Bureau of the Agriculture Department. The number of titles is about 200.

The Price-list Section has now in press a 7th edition of List 15, Geological Survey; a 4th edition of List 53, Maps; a 2d edition of List 56, Smithsonian Institution; and a 1st edition of List 59, a new list given up entirely to the publications of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas (issued in Library and Field editions) and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios (either Library or Field editions), whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 34 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are ordinarily used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch, covering, respectively, average areas of 230, 920, and 3,700 square miles. For some areas of particular importance special large-scale maps are published. The usual size, exclusive of the margin is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, the latter varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

Nearly two-fifths of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 10c. each; but in lots of 50 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 6c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

TOPOGRAPHY DIVISION

NOTE.—Post route maps corrected to the 1st of those months are distributed in April, July, October, and January to the postal service. For a list of the maps composing the set, with prices, see below. Orders for the maps should be addressed to the Disbursing Clerk, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C., and money orders should be made payable to him.

Since February, 1908, the Topography Division has been preparing rural-delivery maps of counties in which rural-delivery is completely established. They are published in two forms, one giving simply the rural free delivery routes starting from a single given post office, sold at 5 cents each; the other, the rural free delivery routes in an entire county, sold at 20 cents each. A uniform scale of 1 inch to 1 mile is used. Editions are not issued, but sun-print copies are produced in response to special calls addressed to the Disbursing Clerk, Post Office Department. These maps should not be confused with the post route maps described in the preceding paragraph.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each addi tional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

It is the unexpected that happens. Of all the things one has heard said of the routine annual reports of the United States Executive Departments which form so conspicuous a feature of the public printing during the closing months of every year, no person can be identified who ever recommended the reprinting of any one of them as a popular feature of a great magazine. Yet this is what has been done, and those who see it with its accompaniment of 32 of the superb illustrations which have made the National geographic magazine famous will recognize at once the fitness of its selection, while those who read it cannot fail to be impressed by its brilliant diction as well as by the vast importance of its subject. The title given to it by the editors of the Geographic magazine is "The nation's undeveloped resources." Under this significant title and in the attractive setting which the magazine has given it, it must secure a wide reading and it would even seem possible that every Senator and Representative might be induced to read it. Should this other unexpected incident occur, the effect upon the present legislation and the future development of the country could not fail to be most salutary. The official title of the striking magazine article in question is: Report of the Secretary of the Interior for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1913.

Vol. 1, in 2 parts, of the Transactions of the 15th International Congress on Hygiene and Demography, held in Washington in September, 1912, was issued in February, 1914, this completing the set, vols. 2–6 having been previously issued. As the readers of the Monthly catalogue have already been informed, this report is not a public document of the United States, though by an unusual arrangement it was printed at the Government Printing Office.

Income tax regulations, from the beginning to Jan. 5, have been collected in an indexed pamphlet of 127 pages, officially designated as series 7, no. 33, of the Regulations of the Internal Revenue Commissioner, which is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 15 cents for single copies, 10 cents each for 5 or more copies up to 100, $35.00 for 500 copies, and $65.00 for 1000 copies, and any larger number at the same rate. Yearly subscribers to the weekly Treasury decisions have received the same material as a Supplement to no. 7 of vol. 26 (Feb. 12, 1914). Its number as a Treasury decision is 1944.

The Agriculture Department has adopted the very sensible and useful plan of appending to the titles of the publications as given in its Monthly list of publications brief notes explaining the purpose of the particular publication annotated and naming the classes of readers to whom it will be most useful. These notes will also be used in the publications themselves, appearing as footnotes on the first page of the text. They will also be used by the Superintendent of Documents in his price lists.

The latest edition of the Ships' data book now in stock is that of 1912, but a new edition is in preparation by the Construction and Repair Bureau, Navy Department, and will be published in the near future.

Farmers' bulletin 575, another number bearing the title Agricultural outlook, is a statistical treatise on the important subject, Live stock of the United States, prepared in the Statistics Bureau. A footnote on the first page announces that the next regular report of that Bureau will relate to corn, wheat, oats, and barley, and will be issued at 2.15 p. m., Mar. 7, 1914.

House document 469, 63d Congress, 2d session, fills 127 pages with a minute account of the Expenditures for travel during the fiscal year 1913, by officials and employees of the Agriculture Department. The total outlay stated on this account was $207,513.04, but this does not include the work of special agents, inspectors, or employees "who in the discharge of their regular duties are required to travel constantly." We can only conjecture the amount of travel by these exceptional ones who were on the wing all the time. As to those named in Document 469, all details are set forth in full—the names of the travelers, where they went, and what for. A glance through the pages gives one a new and broader idea of the incessant and wide-spread activities of this great department of more than 14,000 persons. Its agents penetrate to every nook and corner of the republic and everywhere they spread enlightenment and expert knowledge. The immediate results are no doubt many and salutary, but the future and collateral results may be greater still.

The Superintendent of Documents has found that the continued demand for copies of the report of the Commissioner of Corporations on the development of water-power requires a reprint of that important document, the first supply of which is now nearly exhausted. As, however, the number reprinted will be much less than the original edition, the cost will be proportionately greater, requiring an advance of the retail price to 75 cents a copy.

The Agriculture Department is giving "separates" from the Journal of agricultural research a wide distribution and has adopted for use in these prints a system of symbols for the purpose of identifying the "separates" with the bureaus by which they were prepared. A "separate," be it known, is a separate print of a chapter or other excerpt from a larger work. Each separate from the Journal of agricultural research carries in the lower right-hand margin of its first page a symbol like this: "A—10." This means that the publication is the 10th contribution from the Bureau of Animal Industry to the Journal of agricultural research. A similar symbol substituting a "B" for the "A" would mean that the contribution came from the Experiment Stations Office. Following out the scheme, we find that C stands for Weather Bureau, D for Public Roads Office, E for Chemistry Bureau, F for Forest Service, G for Plant Industry Bureau, H for Soils Bureau, K for Entomology Bureau, L for Statistics Bureau, M for Biological Survey Bureau, N for Markets Office, and O for Rural Organization Service.

The United States Geological Survey has begun the issue, in parts, of an annual volume which will have the general title Contributions to the hydrology of the United States, and will also have the series title Water-supply paper and a number in that series, while each one of the parts will have a subject title of its own. This is a somewhat complicated layout, but no more so than the Survey has had for some years in its popular annual volume in the bulletin series having the general title Contributions to economic geology, with also a bulletin number and a set of separates, with distinct subject titles for each. Recently the Survey has started another series within a series on the same plan, but called Contributions to general geology. Having "got away" with these two, of course the way seems clear for introducing a similar set in the Water-supply paper series. The Water-supply number of the 1914 Contributions to hydrology is 345. But one separate has thus far been issued. It is numbered 345—A and has for subject title: A preliminary report on ground water for irrigation in the vicinity of Wichita, Kans.

Both volumes of Mineral resources for 1912 are now for sale. Pt. 1 at 90 cents; pt. 2, $1.00.

Index-catalogue of the library of the Surgeon General's Office, Army, 2d series, has now reached the 18th volume, in which are found the titles from Tetamore to Tzschirner. Sold by the Superintendent of Documents at $2.00.

The complete report of the Dillingham Immigration Commission is in 41 volumes and its cost is too great for many who would like to have it. This objection, however, is largely met by the fact that vols. 1 and 2 are made up of abstracts of the larger volumes, so that in these two volumes the reader may get the most vital parts of the whole 41. Naturally, these volumes have sold more rapidly than the remaining 39 and the stock of them has become exhausted, though the demand continues. To meet this demand, vols. 1 and 2 have been reprinted and are on sale at $1.25 a volume.

The session laws of the first session of the Alaska Territorial Legislature have been printed by the Bailey Empire Print of Juneau, Alaska, and issued in law sheep binding.

A revision of Chemistry Bureau Bulletin 107, Methods of analysis, is in contemplation, but it may be a year before it will be accomplished. Chemistry bulletins 122, 132, 137, 152, and 162 all relate to methods of analysis described in 107. Pending the expected revision, the Superintendent of Documents is making another reprint of Bulletin 107. 20 cents.

The Board of Food and Drug Inspection, Agriculture Department, has been abolished and its authority transferred to Dr. Alsberg, Dr. Wiley's successor as Chief of the Chemistry Bureau.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has published Specifications for maps and profiles as prescribed by the Commission, first issue, effective Feb. 1, 1914. Price 15 cents.

Education Bureau Bulletin 59, series of 1913, is Bibliography of education, 1910–11. Price 15 cents.

A publication of very unusual interest, due both to its subject-matter and to its authorship, is entitled: Facts of interest concerning the military resources and policy of the United States, issued by Major-General Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff, U. S. Army. The Superintendent of Documents can supply copies at 5 cents.

The Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau has in press Special agents series 79, Commercial organizations in southern and western cities.

Professional paper 90, United States Geological Survey, will be Contributions to general geology, 1914. It will be made up of several short papers, each of which will also have a separate publication. The first, now in press, is Geology of the pitchblende ores of Colorado. These separate prints cannot be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents, but he will have on sale Professional paper 90 when issued as a complete publication.

The latest issue of the Census Bureau's decennial report on Wealth, debt, and taxation was for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1903, and was published in 1907. The next issue in this series will embody the statistics of the fiscal year 1912–13 and the Bureau hopes to issue it complete early in the calendar year 1915. Advance sheets will be issued as the statistics become available. The one on Debt will probably be out early next summer.

THE NEW PRICE LISTS

The Superintendent of Documents received from the printers, during February, four new price lists, a liberal number of thousands of copies of each. The Price lists are the only documents he gives away and he is glad to have a liberal supply.

The new ones are:

A 7th edition of no. 15, Publications of the United States Geological Survey. This is one of the most popular and most called for lists in the whole series.

A 2d edition of no. 56, Smithsonian Institution reports. The Annual report is really the only publication of the Smithsonian Institution proper that is a public document of the United States, the others, including the two important series, Contributions to knowledge and Miscellaneous collections, being printed and published at the charge of the Institution's private endowment. The general appendix to the Annual report is made up of the most essential and notable published scientific papers of the year at home and abroad. These are all first published as separate pamphlets, known as "authors' editions." The Superintendent of Documents is not able to supply many of these prints, but the titles of all of them are brought out in the new list and the dates and prices of the volumes of the Reports in which they are to be found are given.

A 4th edition of no. 53, Maps published by the Government. This list is not so full as formerly, the Geological Survey having withdrawn its maps and folios from the Superintendent of Documents and taken to selling them itself. The Superintendent still offers the United States wall maps and the maps of the several States issued by the General Land Office. These in themselves are almost enough to stock a map shop. There are, however, other series of maps, from the Office of the Chief of Engineers of the Army, from the Hayden, Wheeler, and other western surveys, the atlases accompanying the big series entitled Official records of the Union and Confederate armies, the maps of the Forest Service, and many others advertised in Price list 53, as well as many books relating to maps. Still, it is far from being a complete list of Government maps. The three great Government map publishers are the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Hydrographic Office, and the Geological Survey, though the Post-Office Department has become a strong competitor since the development of the rural free delivery and parcel post systems. All of these prefer to sell their own maps. It is believed that the United States Government, collectively, is the largest map publisher in the world.

A first edition of Price list 59, Interstate Commerce Commission publications. The Commission has become a profuse publisher and its documents of course enlist the intense attention of the transportation interests which are affected by them. The Commission, it is to be presumed, makes considerable free distribution, but notwithstanding this the Superintendent of Documents sells its publications by thousands. A separate list of these important documents has become a necessity. Some other bureaus, which are also active publishers, will soon be made the subject of similar lists.

The new Price lists now in press are: A 5th edition of no. 38, Animal Industry; a 6th edition of no. 44, Plant life; and a 2d edition of no. 54, Miscellaneous, a list which covers a variety of subjects, including pretty much everything that is not found in any of the other lists of the Document series.

New editions of no. 25, Transportation, no. 32, Noncontiguous territory, and no. 36, Government periodicals, are in course of preparation.

ADVERSE REPORT FROM PRINTING COMMITTEE

Feb. 4, instant, Senator Fletcher, chairman of the Committee on Printing, submitted an adverse report on Senate joint resolution 194, which if passed would provide for the reprinting of the Documentary history of the Constitution as a numbered Senate document. This work is in 5 volumes. Vols. 1-3 were printed as a Congressional document in the 56th Congress (House document 529) and 6000 sets were distributed by Senators and Representatives who were members of that Congress and 1000 sets by the State Department. Vols. 4 and 5 were issued several years later and had no Congressional edition.

The compilation was made in the Bureau of Rolls and Library, State Department. It is a literal reproduction, so far as possible in type, of many ancient manuscripts, including Madison's report of the proceedings of the Constitutional Convention of 1788 by which the Constitution was framed. Madison, it is said, was the only delegate who attended every session of the Convention during the 4 months of its existence, and also the only one who made a contemporaneous report of the debates. As the Convention sat with closed doors and had no official reporters, of course the historical value of Madison's notes is inestimable. The Journals of the Convention are also reproduced, but, like all journals, they give only the skeleton of the action taken.

The adverse report of the Printing Committee was based in part on the fact that the Superintendent of Documents has still on hand for sale about 300 sets of vols. 1–3 and has also authority of law to reprint vols. 4 and 5 should the demand for those volumes justify doing so. The question of reprinting is still under consideration and a list is being kept of inquiries for vols. 4 and 5 as a basis for decision. The sale price of vols. 1–3 is $3.50.

The original cost of printing this work was large, owing in great part to the intricate and tedious work of showing in type all the erasures and interlineations of the original manuscripts. Reprinting would be cheaper, for an equal number, as the electrotype plates have been preserved and the slow and costly typesetting need not be repeated. The Committee found that 7,000 sets of vols. 1–3 printed in the 56th Congress cost $24,592, being a fraction more than a dollar for each of the 21,000 books.

This, however, was not the first print. The Congressional print was not made till 1902 and was made from plates. The first print was made by the State Department in the years 1894 to 1900 in parts published as appendixes to Bulletins 1, 3, 5, 7, and 9 of the Rolls and Library Bureau. It was for these prints that the unusual and costly typesetting was done. If the Printing Committee were to look up the bills for these first prints it would probably find a considerable increase to add to its statement of the cost of the work.

The Committee report closes with this sentence: "Owing to the large expense involved, the committee does not believe there should be any further free distribution of the publication."

At the date of writing, resolution 194 was still "laid over" without action.

NEW SUBSCRIPTION LISTS OF THE MONTH

In February, the Superintendent of Documents added to his 30-odd lists of subscribers to an equal number of Government periodicals quite a string of new ones. Perhaps the most important of these—certainly the one for which the greatest number of subscribers is expected—is the Daily consular and trade reports, issued by the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, Commerce Department. This daily summary of business news from foreign countries, mostly supplied by the United States consuls in all parts of the world, is much sought for by manufacturers and distributers who have or hope to have an export trade. The method of distribution heretofore has been gratuitous, and the publishing bureau has tried to keep it within reasonable bounds by confining the list to "approved applicants." Notwithstanding the care exercised in this direction, the list has constantly been overrunning the limit to which the edition is confined by law and many times has been arbitrarily trimmed down. This trimming is not an agreeable task, for it is practically impossible to determine which names on the list are best entitled to copies because making the best use of them. After much unsatisfactory experimenting with the free system it has at last been decided to apply the only infallible test, namely, distribution by sale. If a man buys and pays for a periodical (or anything else) we then know to a certainty that he wants it and values it and will try to make such use of it as to justify the outlay, whereas he may ask for a free publication out of mere curiosity, or merely because it costs nothing, for there are many who like to get something for nothing even though they may have no use at all for the something. These are not the only reasons going to show that the gratuitous distribution of public documents is both wasteful and ineffective and therefore one of those things foreign to the spirit of the times and sure to be outgrown and abandoned at no distant day.

The rate for yearly subscriptions to the Daily consular and trade reports to residents of the United States and its outlying possessions and of Canada, Cuba, Mexico, and Shanghai, is $2.50, and to residents of other countries, to which postage must be paid, the rate is $5.00 a year. Subscriptions begin immediately on receipt of remittance, and cannot be taken for a less term than one year. Back numbers cannot be supplied. The only free distribution hereafter will be to trade organizations, libraries, and like agencies of publicity.

The first number received of the new series of Service and regulatory announcements to be issued by the several bureaus of the Agriculture Department is that of the Animal Industry Bureau for the month of January, 1914, the date of issue being February 10. It supersedes the former Service announcements issued by this Bureau. It contains all that the former series did and considerably more. Service and regulatory announcements will be distributed free to the members of the Bureau and a few others and will be sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 5 cents a single copy and 50 cents for a yearly subscription. It is presumed that the terms will be the same for the monthly Service and regulatory announcements of each of the other agricultural bureaus. This first issue from the Animal Industry Bureau contains statistics of the slaughtering of cattle, calves, sheep, goats, and swine back to July, 1910; lists of convictions under the quarantine law, the 28-hour law, and the meat-inspection law; a list of the December, 1913, and January, 1914, publications of the Bureau, and other like material, amounting to a complete history of the meat-inspection service for the month of January.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas (issued in Library and Field editions) and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios (either Library or Field editions), whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever 24 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Address the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington. For topographic sheets see next page.

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are ordinarily used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch, covering, respectively, average areas of 230, 920, and 3,700 square miles. For some areas of particular importance special large-scale maps are published. The usual size, exclusive of the margin is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, the latter varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

Nearly two-fifths of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 10c. each; but in lots of 50 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 6c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [ ] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and $\frac{1}{2}$c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, or to Canada, Cuba, or Mexico. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

House document 1491, 62d Congress, 3d session, is entitled Laws of the United States relating to the improvement of rivers and harbors from Aug. 11, 1790, to Mar. 4, 1913; in three volumes, volume 3. Because the compilation of vol. 3 was completed first it was first published. Volumes 1 and 2 will be published in due season. Two volumes of a compilation under the same title were published in 1907 as a War Department document and also as a Congressional document (House document 425, 58th Congress, 3d session). These volumes are, however, considered obsolete and will not form any part of the new compilation, which will be reconstructed from the beginning.

The same act which authorized the compilation of river and harbor laws authorized also the printing of a general index to the Annual reports of the Engineer Department, U. S. A. Of such a work 3 volumes were issued in 1902–03, but these also it is said are not to be considered, and an entirely new index is to be published.

The same act authorized also the publication of a statistical compilation of the preliminary examinations and surveys of rivers and harbors, appropriations for such works, etc. A similar compilation was published in 1903 as House document 421, 57th Congress, 2d session, but the new document will cover the whole field in this direction as though no previous publication had been made. All of these three new sets of Engineer publications it is said are well advanced toward publication. They have been sent to the Public Printer and some proofs are already out.

The idea of the Commerce Department in limiting the free distribution of the Daily consular and trade reports, it states, is "in order to permit the indefinite development of the circulation of the Reports without constantly increasing the cost to the Government." It adds, in its "Announcement" in the Daily for March 3d, that "the commercial interests of the country have in many ways expressed approval of plans to place the distribution of such public documents on the basis of subscription and sale." This has been done in the case in hand by authorizing the Superintendent of Documents to create a subscription list for the Daily consular and trade reports at $2.50 a year in this country and $5.00 to residents of those countries to which postage must be prepaid. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, representing over five hundred commercial organizations in every part of the United States, recently formally approved this action. The Superintendent of Documents now maintains about fifty subscription lists for various Government periodicals. A printed list of the titles and prices of these will be sent free on request.

Workmen's compensation laws of the United States and foreign countries, compiled by the Commissioner of Labor Statistics, is a very comprehensive publication on a subject of live popular interest. It includes the laws of the several States as well as of the United States, and also those of all the foreign countries which have enacted such laws. Its official designation is 63d Congress, 2d session, Senate document 336. Price, in paper covers, 35 cents.

The salmon is still the king of fishes, but it is no longer the food of aristocracy and nobility alone. American enterprise has brought the king to the tables of all the people, and it tastes just as good and is just as wholesome to the average family as it ever was to exclusive sets. Some idea of the magnitude of the Alaska salmon fishing industry may be gained from the statement given in Economic circular 11 of the Fisheries Bureau that the pack of 1913, equivalent to 387,000,000 1-pound cans, consumed more than 100,000,000 fishes weighing from three pounds to twenty-five pounds each. The same circular estimates that 12½ cents invested in canned salmon will produce bone, muscle, blood, and brain-building material and body fuel equal to that produced by 36 cents invested in eggs, 33 cents in beefsteak, 32 cents in mutton, 21½ cents in chicken, or 13¼ cents in pork ham. The chief importance of Economic circular 11, however, is due to the fifty tested recipes which it contains for preparing fifty appetizing dishes out of canned salmon. As a contribution to the effort to reduce the cost of living it certainly has merit. Price of the circular, 5 cents.

Compulsory school attendance is the subject of Education Bureau Bulletin 2, series of 1914. From it we learn that more than four-fifths of the States and Nations accounted civilized and progressive have school attendance laws, yet half a dozen States of the American Union are still without them. The bulletin is an effective document in behalf of more attendance laws and more enforcement of existing laws of the kind. Price, 15 cents.

In the course of establishing a subscription list for that standard technological periodical, the Bulletin of the Bureau of Standards, the Superintendent of Documents has issued an advertising circular which embodies a description of the contents of the 9 volumes heretofore issued. It appears from this statement that the 9 volumes have contained 203 scientific papers, of which 99 have been upon electrical subjects, 17 on photometry, 28 on heat measurements, 39 on optics, 4 on weights and measures, and 15 in chemistry. These papers report the results of extensive researches made by the scientists connected with the Standards Bureau. The back numbers as well as the forthcoming numbers can be supplied.

Agriculture Department Bulletin 13, just issued, is a contribution from the Forest Service, having for subject White pine under forest management. Few need to be told what a bountiful supply of this very useful and versatile wood this country has had, nor with what prodigality it has been used, until now it approaches exhaustion. There must, however, be many to whom this statement of the bulletin will be unfamiliar: "Of all the trees of eastern North America white pine best combines the qualities of utility, rapid growth, heavy yield, and ease of management." Beside historical matter, the chief stress of the bulletin is upon management which will not only tend to the preservation of existing stands of pine trees but also to the production of others from seed. It is a very thoroughgoing consideration of the whole subject. Copies from the Superintendent of Documents, 15 cents.

The current edition of the Land Office Manual of surveying instructions was first issued in 1902 and is now in part out of harmony with the present practice of the Office. A revised edition is in course of preparation and it is confidently promised that it will be published before the close of the present year. This Manual is a standard work and in great demand. A revised edition will be welcomed by all who are interested in surveying.

Senate document 440, 63d Congress, 2d session, is a collection of addresses made at the Southern Commercial Congress in Mobile last October. It includes, of course, the very notable address by President Wilson with which Congress was opened. This is perhaps the most remarkable of all the very remarkable series of public utterances with which the President has illuminated the official literature of the country during his first year in office. In it he predicts that the Panama Canal will so deflect the great tides of energy and enterprise from the east and west channels north of the equator which they have so long followed, to the southward, as to shift the world's commercial center of gravity. Document 440 includes also a letter from Secretary Bryan and addresses by the diplomatic representatives of Costa Rica, Bolivia, Peru, Panama, and Brazil.

The Education Bureau's Monthly record of current educational publications for March, 1914, is on sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 5 cents. Its 28 pages of titles of new educational publications not only cover the American field but also make inroads on the European.

Last month the first number of the Service and regulatory announcements of the Animal Industry Bureau was noted. Since then three more bureaus of the Agriculture Department have started their series. The newcomers are the Chemistry Bureau, the Insecticide and Fungicide Board, and the Federal Horticultural Board. The four named will probably make regular monthly issues of their Announcements. Other Agriculture bureaus will publish similar Announcements, but perhaps not so frequently. The monthly Announcements bring together in one convenient pamphlet the different notices, orders, etc., which have been hitherto published in separate sheets.

The Civil Service Commission has ascertained that the examination of 4th class postmasters, for the purpose of ascertaining their fitness for office, costs about $2.00 per post office. This seems cheap enough—but there are a good many 4th class post offices.

The 1913 Report of the Commission of Fine Arts (63d Congress, 2d session, House document 461) shows that the Commission is not a merely ornamental branch of the Government. During the year it considered and disposed of 56 projects that were officially submitted to it. The Commission's Report is handsomely illustrated with views of the Memorial fountain in McMillan Park (the filtration plant); the Millet and Butt fountain (south of the White House grounds); design for the Lincoln memorial; tablet made from the wreck of the Maine; and of the medal presented to Capt. Rostron of the Carpathia.

Part 3, Personal or short-term credit, completing the report of the United States commission to investigate in European countries cooperation and credit in farming communities, has been published as Senate document 380, pt. 3, 63d Congress, 2d session. It is a document of 32 pages, embodying important conclusions and recommendations, notably one for the creation of national rural banks with capital less than $25,000, that sum being now the minimum limit.

The 19th annual Document index, listing the documents and committee reports of the 62d Congress, 3d session, Dec. 2, 1912–Mar. 4, 1913, is one of this month's publications. The similar index for the 63d Congress, 1st session, is in type and will soon be published as no. 20 in the series.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has out a new edition of the Act to regulate commerce (Sherman act), revised to Jan. 1, 1914. In the same pamphlet are included the district court jurisdiction act, the compulsory testimony act, the immunity of witnesses act, the Elkins act, the expediting act, the Government-aided railroad and telegraph act, the Lake Erie and Ohio River Ship Canal act, and the parcel post act. From the Superintendent of Documents, 10 cents.

List of references on Federal control of commerce and corporations, special aspects and applications, is the title of a new bibliography of more than 100 pages from the Library of Congress. Price 15 cents.

A most interesting and valuable contribution to one of the subjects now uppermost in the popular mind is Education Bureau Bulletin 4, series of 1914, The school and the start in life, a study of the relation between school and employment in England, Scotland, and Germany. Price 15 cents.

Another Education Bureau Bulletin, relating more directly to agricultural education, is no. 5, series of 1914, entitled The folk high schools of Denmark. The author, L. L. Friend, says in his introduction that "the founders of these schools and those who developed them have broken completely away from ancient historical traditions, and having faithfully interpreted the educational needs of their people have sought to meet them in the most direct and practical way possible."

Though dated July, 1913, Public health bulletin 62 was not published till March, 1914. It is an exhaustive treatise of 699 pages entitled Communicable diseases, an analysis of the laws and regulations for the control thereof in force in the United States. The authors say in their introduction "Theoretically speaking, all communicable diseases are preventable. An epidemic is but a chain of infection. If we except the few diseases common to the lower animals, it takes a sick person to make a well person sick. Could we make absolutely impossible direct or indirect communication between the sick and the well, the infecting chain could not be established and communicable diseases would be prevented." Sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 50 cents.

The feelings of numerous persons who have asked for the Trade directory of South America and couldn't get it because it had not yet been printed are now relieved, the book having been printed and delivered to those who had filed advance orders. The Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, by which the Directory has been carefully prepared, announces that it is "for the promotion of American export trade," and that it will be a valuable aid in that direction is evident. From statements made in the Introduction it appears that the trade of the United States with the South American nations has been making a good growth without waiting for the opening of the Panama Canal. In 1893 exports to South America were valued at $34,000,000; in 1903, at $46,000,000; in 1913, at $145,000,000. Of course the Canal will raise these figures rapidly. The price of the new Directory is $1.00.

Bulletin Z, the final lettered bulletin of the Weather Bureau, has been received. Its title is: The floods of 1913 in the rivers of the Ohio and lower Mississippi valleys. It is a finely-illustrated quarto, sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 40 cents. Both the numbered and lettered series of Bulletins and Circulars of the Weather Bureau have now been concluded and discontinued. The contributions from the Bureau will hereafter take the same course as the contributions from the other bureaus of the Agriculture Department and be printed as bulletins of the Department instead of the Bureau.

A new Senate document, no. 456, is a compilation containing reprints of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, the Senate proceedings on the treaty of 1900, the treaty of 1901, the ratification of the treaty of 1901, a statement by Secretary Hay, the Hay-Herrán treaty with Colombia, and the Hay-Bunau-Varilla treaty with Panama.

The Librarian of Congress is asking an appropriation of $30,000 for the establishment at the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco next year of a branch office under the joint direction of the Commissioner of Patents and the Register of Copyrights, the object being to protect, by registration and certification, the owners of patented and copyrighted exhibits at the Exposition from having their exhibits copied and duplicated unlawfully. Such a branch office is provided for by section 2 of public act 14 of the 63d Congress.

The Republic of Panama announces a national exposition commemorative of the discovery of the South Sea by Balboa. The Exposition is to open Nov. 8, 1914, and close Apr. 30, 1915. This Government is invited to contribute, and President Wilson recommends an appropriation of $100,000 to enable it to do so (63d Congress, 2d session, House document 840).

It appears by House report 416, 63d Congress, 2d session, that a third Hague Conference is due next year, the interval between conferences being understood to be eight years and the first and second Conferences having been held in 1899 and 1907, respectively. Some of the signatory powers have indicated a wish to postpone the Conference, but the United States Government favors its being held.

Senate document 214 of the current Congress, which the Superintendent of Documents is selling at $1.25, has now a second part, which is a bibliography of the publications collected and consulted by the American Commission and the United States Commission in their investigation of agricultural cooperation and rural credits in Europe. 15 cents.

A MAGAZINE OF MANY NUMBERS

The Experiment station record, a most useful and popular periodical, has for a long time been issuing eighteen numbers a year, divided into two volumes, each volume containing six monthly numbers, two special or "abstract" numbers, and an index number. Now it has raised the number to twenty.

The size of numbers is limited by law to one hundred pages. When the Record was a monthly it found it impossible within the compass of twelve such numbers to discharge its function of presenting abstracts of the entire world's agricultural literature. Accordingly some years ago it began issuing extra numbers. When these became regular quarterly issues, making, with the index numbers, eighteen in the year, the yearly volume was divided into two semi-yearly volumes and the price was made $1.00 for each half-yearly volume instead of the $1.50 before charged for the one yearly volume.

Recently, it was found necessary, in order fully to cover the magazine's world-wide field, to issue a special number every two months instead of every three months. This plan has now been made permanent, so that the regular issues of the Experiment station record now number twenty in the year.

But there has not been any increase in the subscription price.

APPRECIATIONS

The Monthly catalogue is not the only magazine that appreciates and praises public documents. The March number of the Library journal prints a three-page letter from Mr. W. R. Reinick on "Public documents as a commercial factor," the last paragraph of which reads thus:

"To-day, the library which had the foresight to collect documents when they were (as they still are by some) looked upon as 'junk' and were easily obtainable, can now see the difficulty which the libraries (and especially some of the special libraries) are having, sometimes paying quite large sums to complete their sets, and often failing, can look with pride upon its own collections, complete sets obtained with little money and now ready to be made of value to the commercial world, a value which will further increase with the growth of commerce with South America when the Panama Canal is completed."

The Documents Office is familiar with these belated applications for numbers to fill up broken sets. Many sets that were intact a few years ago are now broken.

The following is a sample of many like expressions from buyers of public documents: "I want to thank you for the bulletins received. I appreciate them, as they are right to the point and one does not have to read 400 or 500 pages to get the meat."

AN IMPORTANT MUSICAL WORK

Catalogue of opera librettos printed before 1800; prepared by Oscar George Theodore Sonneck, chief of the Division of Music, Library of Congress. Volume 1, Title catalogue.

This is the title of volume 1 of a work of great interest to students of musical history. The title of Volume 2 is the same, except that instead of the words "Title catalogue," the words "Author list, composer list, and aria index" form the subtitle. The two volumes fill 1674 royal octavo pages.

The work will be sold by the Superintendent of Documents in sets only. Price $2.00.

WHY A FOOD AND DRUGS ACT IS NEEDED

One instance going to show the need of the food and drugs act, which is an act prohibiting the sale of alleged remedies under misleading claims and labels, is given in Circular 78 from the Office of the Solicitor of the Agriculture Department.

It is the case of an alleged "lithia water" offered as a remedy for a variety of serious ailments. The chief part of the circular is the opinion of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in the case brought by the United States to condemn a consignment of this alleged lithia water on the ground that the bottles were misbranded in violation of the law of June 30, 1906.

The Court cites the Government analysis of the alleged lithia water, the accuracy of which was not questioned by the defendant. This analysis showed that there was about one grain of lithium in 10,000 gallons of the alleged lithia water. As the average dose of this remedy as a uric acid solvent is from five to seven and one-half grains three times a day, the Court found that for a person to obtain a therapeutic dose of lithium by drinking this alleged lithia water he would have to drink from 150,000 to 225,000 gallons a day. It was also shown by uncontradicted evidence that Potomac River water contains five times as much lithium per gallon as the alleged lithia water. There is more condemnatory matter in the Court's opinion but it can not be quoted here.

Of course, the sale of such an alleged remedy is a fraudulent transaction, and demonstrates beyond question the need for such a law as the food and drugs act.

THE MARCH PRICE LISTS

The March crop of new price lists included a sixth edition of no. 44, Plant life. This is a large list, containing more than 1,500 titles and filling 64 pages. It covers a wide range, giving references to everything now available in the public documents of the United States relating to cereal crops, forage, fruits, medicinal plants, root crops, and in fact all sorts of plant life except that which comes under the heading Forestry, for which there is a separate list.

In March came also a second edition of no. 54, formerly called Political economy, but now more appropriately named Miscellaneous, because of the great variety of its contents. It carries lists on many subjects of much importance but not having a sufficiently large number of publications to require separate lists. Among these subjects are the publications of the Census Bureau, those on Chinese exclusion and city statistics, documents relating to the District of Columbia, publications of the Economy and Efficiency Commission, direct election of Senators, immigration, report of the Immigration Commission, initiative, referendum, and recall, juvenile courts, legislative reference bureaus, liquor question, trusts, water power, white slave traffic, woman suffrage, and many other subjects of living popular interest. This also is a large list of 62 pages and fully 1,500 titles.

March brought also a new edition, the fifth, of Price list 38, Animal industry. This is made up of United States public documents relating to various phases of animal husbandry, including the poultry and dairy industries. There are so many of these that this mere list of their titles fills 56 large pages and numbers over 1100. This is four pages more than were in the fourth edition, which was published in August, 1913. Yet many titles which were in the fourth edition have been sold out and have been dropped from the fifth edition. There are, however, always more new publications coming in than there are old publications being sold out, so that the price lists constantly grow larger and probably will continue to do so indefinitely. When they become too bulky for convenient and economical use it is necessary to divide them and issue two smaller ones in place of each overlarge one. This has already been done in several cases.

The fourth price list to drop in during March is a supplement or list of Additions to Price list 16, 7th edition. This Price list 16 is the one absolutely essential and indispensable list in the whole set. It includes the Farmers' bulletins, the separate prints of the articles in the Yearbooks of agriculture, the complete Yearbooks and annual reports, and other publications of the Agriculture Department for which there is an incessant and insatiable demand. The Documents Office simply couldn't keep house a day without Price list 16. Now it has so happened that the work and correspondence of the Office, which always shows an increase, has in the last few months increased more rapidly than ever before, and more rapidly than it has been found possible to make adequate provision for. To state it plainly and truthfully, the Office is simply overwhelmed with its work. The daily count of its correspondence is beginning to be made by thousands of letters instead of by hundreds. An increase of correspondence means an increased draft on the stock of price lists, for a large percentage of the letter-writers ask for price lists, and a large percentage of those who ask call for no. 16. Also we send price lists to many who do not directly ask for them but whose letters indicate that they need them and will make good use of them. The upshot of the matter is, that Price list 16 ran out of stock sooner than had been expected and sooner than it was practicable to provide a complete new edition. Something, however, had to be done, and done quickly. What was done was this. From the electrotype plates, which fortunately had been preserved, a few thousands more of the old list—not so very old, either, for the first print of it was made in June, 1913—were printed, to tide over till a complete new list could be compiled, and the old list was also freshened up by printing a list of Additions to be sent out with it. This supplementary list of nine pages of titles of new documents relating to agriculture which have been issued since June, 1913 (about 225 of them in all), is more important than lists of Additions usually are, because of the extensive changes which the Agriculture Department has made in the form of its publications. In this list of Additions the new series which have been created in the Agriculture Department since last June are all shown, and the numbers issued in each series are noted with their titles and prices. It is the first appearance of these important new publications in the price lists. The first announcement of the discontinuance of many familiar series of long standing is also made in this list of Additions, which will hereafter be included in all sendings of Price list 16, 7th edition.

The fifth price list published during March is a third edition of no. 36, Government periodicals. The Superintendent of Documents now maintains subscription lists for more than fifty periodicals, five of which are daily issues, one triweekly, six weekly, eighteen monthly, eight quarterly, and four issued at irregular intervals. Besides these forty-two, subscriptions are accepted for the forty-four separate monthly sections of Climatological data and for the sixty-five separate issues of the daily Weather map. The new list of periodicals carries numerous explanatory notes, giving the reader an idea of the character of the contents of each periodical.

TOPOGRAPHY DIVISION

NOTE.—Since February, 1908, the Topography Division has been preparing rural-delivery maps of counties in which rural delivery is completely established. They are published in two forms, one giving simply the rural free delivery routes starting from a single given post office, sold at 5 cents each; the other, the rural free delivery routes in an entire county, sold at 20 cents each. A uniform scale of 1 inch to 1 mile is used. Editions are not issued, but sun-print copies are produced in response to special calls addressed to the Disbursing Clerk, Post Office Department. These maps should not be confused with the post route maps for which see Monthly catalogue for January, 1914, page 367.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

General Information

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

Monthly Catalogue Distribution

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

Library of Congress Cards

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Alaska, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, Samoa, or to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, or Shanghai. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

The new bulletin of the Mines Bureau (no. 67) on Electric furnaces for making iron and steel, by Dorsey A. Lyon and Robert M. Keeney, is generously illustrated and treats the subject circumstantially in a pamphlet of 142 pages, in which we find these somewhat remarkable statements: "About five thousand six hundred tons of standard electric steel rails from electric-furnace steel have been in service in the United States for the past two years. These rails have been subjected to all sorts of weather and to temperatures as low as 52 degrees below zero. No steel rails made by the basic electric process in service in this country have yet broken."

This is the day of reprints. The House has ordered 60,000 copies of "The care of the baby," to be distributed through the folding room, which means that the copies will be equally apportioned among the Members. If the copies were to be sent to the document room it would mean that the distribution would be by the rule "first come first served." From the title one might judge this to be a publication of the Children's Bureau. It was, however, issued by the Public Health Service, being no. 10 in the series of Supplements to the weekly Public health reports published by the Service.

The American ephemeris and nautical almanac for 1916 is the first number to be issued under the international agreement resulting from the Congrès International des Éphémérides Astronomiques held in Paris, Oct. 1911. Under this agreement different nations may exchange astronomical data for the purpose of preventing duplication of work and also for enlarging the amount of material available for publication in the annual volume. The Superintendent of Documents sells the Ephemeris for $1.00.

The Panama Canal and our relations with Colombia is the title of Senate document 471, 63d Congress, 2d session, received too late for mention in the new price list of Canal and Canal Zone documents (no. 61) just sent to press. It is a compilation of papers designed to show that the Republic of Colombia has no just ground for reprisal against the United States because of action taken in connection with the construction of the Canal.

The Senate has ordered reprinted as Senate document 474, 63d Congress, 2d session, a compilation including a report from Secretary of State Bryan in relation to the negotiation and application of certain Canal treaties; the messages of President Roosevelt, dated Nov. 18 and Dec. 18, 1903, and Jan. 18, 1904, with accompanying papers; also certain letters of the Minister of Colombia, included in House document 611, 57th Congress, 1st session. These documents, except the Report of the present Secretary of State, were printed as documents of the 57th and 58th Congresses. All relate to Colombia and the Canal.

Agriculture Department Bulletin 103, entitled Alum in foods, has a footnote saying that "Aluminum is a synonym for aluminium," which is equivalent to saying that while aluminium is the scientific name, popular usage has shortened it to aluminum, eliminating not only one letter but one syllable. The bulletin is a contribution from the Referee Board of Consulting Scientifi cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and $\frac{1}{2}$c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Alaska, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, Samoa, or to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, or Shanghai. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

Notes of General Interest

Experts, the Board reporting as its unanimous conclusion that alum baking powders are no more harmful than any other baking powders, but that it is wise to be moderate in the use of foods leavened with any baking powder.

The daily Congressional record that broke the record was the number for Apr. 6, 1914, vol. 51, no. 94. It contained twenty-four signatures and 186 pages. This is the largest number issued during the more than forty years of the Record's existence. Price of this number, 24 cents.

Nos. 1 and 2 of vol. 10, Bulletin of the Bureau of Standards, have been published and sent to subscribers.

An authenticated copy of the international convention relating to safety of life at sea is a part of the title of Senate document 463, 63d Congress, and the convention spoken of is the one signed at London, Jan. 20, 1914, by the representatives of fourteen of the principal maritime nations. If ratified by the governments participating, the convention will become operative July 1, 1915. Ratifications must be deposited at London on or before Dec. 31, 1914. The American delegates are agreed that the standards for safety at sea proposed to be established are higher than those of any nation now in force, and the ratification of the convention will secure by the joint action of the powers benefits that could not be secured by any nation acting singly. It should be said of this document as now published that it has no index and only an imperfect table of contents. The finding of any special matter in it is thus made difficult and time-wasting.

The Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, Commerce Department, has in press a bulletin that will be of unusual interest to a large number of American manufacturers. Its title is South America as an export field, and its designation is Special agents series 81. As soon as ready it will be for sale by the Superintendent of Documents for 25 cents.

There is a commendable wish apparent in the newspapers of late to bring together the public documents and those for whose benefit they have been published. Sometimes zeal in this direction is not backed by accurate information. For instance, Domestic engineering, in its issue of Apr. 11, makes eulogistic mention of Agriculture Department Bulletin 57, which it calls a free bulletin, and adds that "requests for this bulletin should be sent to the Superintendent of Documents." This must lead to disappointments, because the Superintendent of Documents does not supply anything free and sells Department Bulletin 57 for 10 cents. Applications for free copies should in all cases go to the publishing department or office; remittances for purchase should go to the Superintendent of Documents. The title of Department Bulletin 57 is: Water supply, plumbing, and sewage disposal for country homes. It was published in February last and is popular.

Citizens interested in postal matters are now more or less familiar with the 1913 edition of Postal laws and regulations (816 pages, 75 cents). Now we have a new one containing only the Postal laws and regulations applicable to post office clerks and carriers. (170 pages, 20 cents.)

The Annual report of the Director of the Mint for the fiscal year 1913, just out of press, carries as a 2d part, bound in the same volume, a Report on the production of the precious metals in the United States during the calendar year 1912. Price of the volume, cloth bound, 35 cents.

House resolution 458 directs the reprinting, in one document, of House document 35, 17th Congress, 2d session (1822); House executive document 20, 32d Congress, 1st session (1852); and Senate executive document 8, 40th Congress, 1st session (1867). All are engineer reports on the control of floods in the Mississippi.

The first supplement to Postal laws and regulations of 1913 is in press. It contains the amendments made since Oct. 1, 1913. It is the intention of the Department to issue the amendments in quarterly supplements hereafter.

ONE OF THE FINE THINGS WE GOT WITH HAWAII

That interesting fruit, the papaya, or tree melon, receives its first celebration in the public documents by Bulletin 32, of the Hawaii Agricultural Experiment Station, dated Mar. 26, 1914, and catalogued in regular course in the March number of the Monthly, page 462.

According to this authority, whose reliability may be accepted without cavil, the papaya is the almost universal breakfast fruit in Hawaii, enjoyed alike by rich and poor. It grows readily, with little care, with no serious diseases or insect pests. So far, Bulletin 32. Next comes the Quarantine notice of the Secretary of Agriculture, dated Mar. 23, 1914, and becoming effective May 1, 1914, prohibiting the movement from the Territory of Hawaii into or through any other State, Territory, or District of the United States of any fruit or vegetable upon which the Mediterranean fruit fly or melon fly breeds, and giving a list of the prohibited fruits, among them the papaya. There is, then, an insect pest, or two of them, real or suspected.

The official quarantine will, however, make little difference as to the use of the papaya in the States. It is effectually quarantined by the fact that it will not bear long transportation. By careful packing it has been sent to San Francisco, but has not yet crossed the continent. To enjoy it, one must go where it is.

In the meantime we must satisfy our longings as best we may by reading the description given by the horticulturists of the Hawaiian Experiment Station. They say that the taste for the papaya seldom needs to be acquired, although appreciation for it increases with familiarity and there are few fruits which can be eaten so regularly without wearying the taste. The tree occupies little space, matures quickly, and is found in almost every dooryard and garden in Hawaii.

It has several uses, medicinal and other, but the most common use, except for food, is that of making tough meat tender. This is effected by rubbing the meat with a slice of the green fruit or by wrapping it in papaya leaves overnight. The ripe fruit is a cosmetic. The green fruit and the leaves are used as soap. The roots are a nerve tonic. The seeds are anthelmintic, emmenagogic, and carminative, and are eaten as a delicacy and a thirst-quencher. The ripe fruit is an ingredient in sirups and elixirs said to be expectorant, sedative, and tonic.

More important still is the milky juice, which is used to dissolve the false membrane in diphtheria and to remove eczema, warts, ulcers, and intestinal worms.

These various effects of the fruit are due to the presence in its juice of a principle known as "papain." It is preserved in the dried juice, and, as Bulletin 32 says, "is now well known to possess the power of digesting proteids." Travelers have told marvelous stories of its efficacy in aiding digestion. Papain can be and is isolated in commercial quantities and exported for medicinal use.

Surely a remarkable fruit is the papaya.

Bulletin 32, with several photographic illustrations, is on sale at 15 cents.

A MONUMENTAL WORK

Catalogue of the public documents of the 61st Congress and of all departments of the Government of the United States for the period from July 1, 1909, to June 30, 1911. Prepared under the supervision of the Superintendent of Documents.

This is the 10th in the series of document catalogues authorized by the law of Jan. 12, 1895. The work of compilation was completed several months ago, but the task of seeing a work of such magnitude through the press is one that can not be "rushed." The first completed copies were received from the binders this month. The 1791 double-column, royal-octavo pages of this number of the Catalogue contain about 45,000 entries, and make a complete record of the publishing work of the United States Government for the two fiscal years 1910 and 1911. As this publishing work is the official embodiment of the history of the country, and as this Catalogue is the only systematic record of these publications, nothing more need be said to demonstrate the importance of the work. There is no dissent of authorities as to the accuracy and skill with which the cataloguing has been done. The ten big volumes composing the series may fitly be styled a monumental work.

The 11th volume, covering the two fiscal years 1912 and 1913 and the work of the 62d Congress, is well under way.

But one error has thus far been discovered in the printed copies of the 10th number. The report of the Immigration Commission was first announced to be in 42 volumes and was so entered in the Catalogue in two places, on page 760 under the general heading Immigration and emigration, and on page 764 under the special heading Immigration Commission. Later, it was decided not to print vol. 42, the index volume. The proper correction was marked in the final proofs, and was properly made in page 764 by the bracketed sentence "[Will not be printed.]" following the entry for vol. 42, but in page 760 the important word "not" is omitted, making the Catalogue say that vol. 42 "will be printed."

WHAT IS AN "EDITION"?

Some of the Government publishing bureaus are making a bit of trouble for the Documents Office and for some of its customers by a faulty use of the word "edition."

When they have the plates of a publication again sent to press and a few thousand more copies printed, which are exactly like the former copies, they call the new lot another "edition," 2d, 3d, or 4th, as the case may be.

The Documents Office has many customers who want to get the latest that has been published in the lines in which they are especially interested. They write that they have so and so, and want to get anything later that may have been issued. If a 2d or 3d "edition" is sent to them and they find that it is exactly like the 1st edition, which they already have, they very naturally feel offended, and they have a right to feel so, because a new "edition" implies that something additional to the old edition is to be supplied, and the man who buys a "new" edition and finds that it gives him nothing new feels that he has been made the victim of a misrepresentation.

Of course the publishing offices do not intentionally mislead. They are only making unintentional use of a word out of its real and proper meaning.

What that meaning is, we quote from the latest and best authority, the new edition of the Standard Dictionary, as follows:

Edition. A published form of a literary work, or a copy of the form so published, peculiar as to the subject matter, as to the typography, or as to the time and place of publication. When the second or succeeding imprints are produced unchanged from the original type or plates, they are usually called "impressions."

The Register of Copyrights has been calling the reprints of his publications from the same plates without change "impressions." He does not use the word "edition" when material changes are not made in the text. The July, 1912, print of his Bulletin 14, which contains the full text of the Copyright law, is the "15th impression" and so inscribed on the title-page. But the very latest method of the Copyright Office is to omit even the word "impression" and simplify its notices down to this brief form, which is found on the title-page of the 16th printing of Bulletin 14: "(5,000, January 1913)." The word "reprint," used by some Government offices instead of "edition" or "impression," is not objectionable.

One other suggestion may be thought pertinent in the case of public documents. Private publishers, who are usually looking out for anything that will advertise their publications, may sometimes use the words "edition" and "impression" to cause it to be believed that the book on which these terms are placed is so popular that numerous editions or impressions must be printed to meet the popular demand. If they can create such a belief of course the sale of the book is stimulated, because human beings are imitative creatures and everybody wants to read the book that he thinks everybody else is reading. So far has this kind of misleading advertising been carried in past times that stories have been told of unscrupulous publishers said to have had the words "Tenth Edition" printed on the title-pages of the very first copies that came off the press.

The publishers of public documents have no reason to resort to such expedients. So long as the document is unchanged, it is of no importance to the reader to know whether the copy he has was printed the first time or the tenth time the plates were put on the press.

When material changes are made in a work it is essential that the title-page shall show that it is a new edition. When no change is made, there is no real reason why the title-page should carry the number of either "edition," or "impression," or "reprint."

A. L. A.

The American Library Association, which made its small beginnings in Philadelphia during the Centennial Exposition of 1876 and has held an annual Conference ever since with the exception of 1878, 1880, and 1884, has made Washington the chief seat of its gathering but once, in 1881, when seventy members were in attendance. In 1892 the Conference was an excursion, starting May 12 at Lakewood, N. J., continuing at Baltimore, and ending at Washington, May 21. By that time the attendance had grown to 260.

This year Washington is to be the sole seat of the five-days Conference, May 25–31, and an attendance of 1200 is looked for.

A full programme has been prepared, and though parts of it would be to the man in the street as "caviare to the general," those are just the parts most palatable to the librarians themselves. Librarianship is a profession—and growing to be a very important profession—and it has a literature, a code, and a terminology of its own.

Besides the general sessions of the Conference, to be held in the evening at D. A. R. Hall, there are various meetings of sections which, with a little sight-seeing on the side, will fill up the days.

The one of these which has most interest for the workers in the Documents Office is the Public Documents Round Table, appointed for Friday morning, the date, however, being subject to change.

The visiting librarians will of course be warmly welcomed at the official and other libraries in Washington.

WEATHER BUREAU

NOTE.—Beginning with Jan. 1914, the Climatological data, formerly issued as a part of the Monthly weather review, are issued for each month from 44 section centers throughout the United States. With the inauguration of these State summaries, the Monthly weather review and the Bulletin of Mount Weather Observatory have been merged into a single publication bearing the former title. This Review does not contain the matter for the 12 large climatological districts which has appeared during the past 4 years, but still contains the general summary table for the full reporting stations, about 200 in number.

The Climatological data can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents at the following rates: 5c. single copy, 50c. a yr. for each section; 35c. complete monthly number, $4.00 a yr.

Atmospheric transparency for radiation [with list of references and notes]; by F. E. Fowle. [1914.] p. 2–4, 4° [From Monthly weather review, Jan. 1914.] †

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are ordinarily used, 1 : 62,500, 1 : 125,000, and 1 : 250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch, covering, respectively, average areas of 230, 920, and 3,700 square miles. For some areas of particular importance special large-scale maps are published. The usual size, exclusive of the margin is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, the latter varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

Nearly two-fifths of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 10c. each; but in lots of 50 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 6c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds of their requests, as the institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The volumes of Contributions to knowledge and of Miscellaneous collections are distributed only to public libraries and to learned societies and institutions in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Alaska, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, Samoa, or to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, or Shanghai. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

Notes of General Interest

Which reader can most promptly and correctly tell where, when, and what for was the battle of Plattsburg? Was it fought by land or water, who were the combatants, and who the victors? Why is it more notable than many other battles in which more blood was shed? It is desirable to know the answers to these questions, because the centennial of this battle is to be commemorated with elaborate ceremonies during the present year. The answers are all in Senate report 471 of the current Congressional session. In skeleton they are: The battle was fought by both land and water; the scene was the village of Plattsburg, N. Y., on the shore of Lake Champlain; the date was Sunday, Sept. 11, 1814; the combatants were English and Americans; the victors were the Americans and their victory was complete; General Macomb was the American commander on land, Commodore Macdonough on water; it was the decisive battle of the second war with England; finally, it was (let us hope) the last naval battle between English-speaking peoples—certainly it is the latest one, and this is the hundredth year of peace. Is there not plentiful reason for giving the centennial a rousing celebration? A permanent memorial is to be constructed also.

Vol. 14 of the Reports on the Harriman Alaska Expedition has been published by the Smithsonian Institution, and is held for sale at $6 a copy. It is in two volumes, one of text and one of plates, and is a fine sample of good bookmaking. For an account of this series de luxe, see Monthly catalogue of public documents, May, 1911, page 652.

May 9th the House voted to print as a separate document 3,000 copies of Chapter 15 of Upton's Military policy of the United States (House document 972, 63d Congress). This is the chapter relating to the War with Mexico of 1845–48. Legislators and soldiers of the present day who read it may not find many things to imitate, but they will find several things to avoid. Of the 3,000 copies, 1,000 are to go to the folding room and 2,000 to the document room of the House. This means two widely differing plans of distribution, as explained in last month's Monthly catalogue.

The Naval appropriation act of Aug. 22, 1912, provided for a survey and testing of coal from the Alaskan fields with a view to its availability for use by the ships of the U. S. Navy. The report resulting has been printed as House document 876, 63d Congress. It is unfavorable to the use of Alaskan coal under existing conditions. The elaborate report fills a pamphlet of 123 pages illustrated by many plates and maps.

Senate report 505, 63d Congress, gives a table of total amounts appropriated for the Navy, beginning with 1883, the year usually understood to be that of the starting of "the new Navy." In 1883 the amount appropriated was a little less than 15 million dollars; for 1913 it was 140 millions. The growth has been continuous and constant and has not yet come to an end. The figures emphasize the changed conditions of national defense. For nations with extended sea coasts the Navy has superseded the Army as the chief military arm. From the foundation of the Government until very recent years the outlay for the Army was much greater than that for the Navy. In 1904, for the first time, the cost of the Navy exceeded that of the Army. The difference has since be continually growing until now the Army costs only about two-thirds as much the Navy.

The Congressional record has broken the record again. No. 127 of vol. 5 dated May 12, 1914, is published in 2 parts, the first instance of the kind. Pa 1, which was issued on the 13th, has 72 pages, and Part 2, which was issued the 14th, has 366 pages, the total for no. 127 complete being 438 pages, a containing reading matter equivalent to about a score of ordinary $1.50 v umes. The great amount of matter which so swelled this number of the Reco consists mainly of letters, telegrams, editorials, bulletins, etc., which Senat La Follette submitted in support of his contention that an organized campaig has been made to induce the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant th request of the railroads for a 5 per cent. increase in freight rates. If no. 12 should hereafter be printed as a numbered Congressional document, octavo, in 10-point type, it would make several thousand pages. The price of the big number in daily Record form is 9 cents for Part 1, 46 cents for Part 2, 55 cents for both.

Professor H. E. Haferkorn, Librarian of the United States Engineer School, is the compiler of a bibliography of special interest at the present time. It is entitled "The War with Mexico, 1846–48; a select bibliography on the causes, conduct, and the political aspect of the War, with a select list of books and other printed material on the resources, economic conditions, politics, and government of the Republic of Mexico and the characteristics of the Mexican people; with annotations and an index." It is issued as Supplement no. 1 to no. 26 of the bimonthly magazine known as Professional Memoirs, published unofficially by an association of U. S. Engineer officers. The Bibliography is sold at 50 cents in paper and $1 in cloth or half leather. Address Business Manager, Professional Memoirs, Washington Barracks, Washington, D. C.

The annual volume of International law topics and discussions, issued from the Naval War College, is always in active demand, and there is likely to be even more than the usual call for the 1913 issue, published in April, 1914, because of existing international complications. Price 30 cents, cloth bound.

The cloth-bound edition of Part 6 of National Museum Bulletin 50, Ridgway's Birds, was issued during the month of April. The number of bird lovers who have parts 1–5 and are keeping a sharp lookout for the succeeding parts is apparently about sufficient to take up each new part soon after it comes from the press. Part 1 was published in 1901 and the author had been at work on it for years before that. The intention is to complete the work in 8 parts, but some years will be required for the compilation and publication of the two remaining parts. The interval between the publication of Part 5 and Part 6 was several months over 2 years.

The Annual report of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury for 1913, recently published in a volume of 419 pages, and entered in the Monthly catalogue for April, page 570, shows that Uncle Sam is a liberal patron of the building trades. The expenditure of the Architect's Office for sites, construction of buildings, and care of buildings in use is about $22,000,000 a year. The Supervising Architect has the care of over 800 "going" post offices, customhouses, and marine hospitals scattered from one end of the country to the other, which have cost over $175,000,000, and he employs about 4,000 janitors, engineers, charwomen, etc., as assistants in the work. He has 356 technical assistants in his office and in the field. Eighty-four buildings and 11 extensions of buildings were completed during 1913, 63 buildings and 16 extensions were placed under contract, and 113 buildings and 19 extensions were under construction at the close of the year. Contract liabilities at that time amounted to more than $15,000,000. Buildings authorized by law but not yet under contract were 508. Extensions (which usually mean enlargements equivalent to new buildings), 61. Total buildings and extensions completed, under contract, or authorized, 1545, all under the supervision and direction of the Supervising Architect. In view of these figures, one need have no hesitation in believing the Architect's statement that he is overburdened with detail and has no opportunity for original work.

Diplomatic history of the Panama Canal is the title of a timely Senate document, no. 474, 63d Congress, 2d session. Its 602 pages contain not only reprints of many public documents, but also "a copious selection of unrecorded personal letters bearing upon the provisions" of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which were exchanged between the then Secretary of State and the negotiators, but have not previously been printed.

Nathaniel Bowditch was born in Massachusetts in 1773, published the 1st edition of his New American practical navigator in 1802, and died in 1838. But his book still lives. After his death it was continued by his son, J. Ingersoll Bowditch, and by other publishers until 1866, when the Government bought the copyright and plates from E. and G. W. Blunt of New York, and it has since been an official publication. For many years annual editions have been issued by the Hydrographic Office, Navy Department. Revisions were made in 1880 and again in 1903, and still again in 1914, but the title American practical navigator and Bowditch's name as author are retained, though in the 1914 edition the words "Originally by" Nathaniel Bowditch, and "re-edited and published in the United States Hydrographic Office" appear for the first time.

Copies still remain in stock and for sale of Agriculture Department Reports 88 and 89. The first is the extensive report by Professors Chittenden, Long, and Herter on Influence of sodium benzoate on nutrition and health of man. This is the report reversing Dr. Wiley, which was adopted and published by the Referee Board of Consulting Scientific Experts. It fills 784 pages of text and has several charts and tables. Price $1. Department Report 89 is the practical and useful one on Durability and economy in papers for permanent records. It was made by Dr. H. W. Wiley and C. Hart Merriam, and includes also a full set of Paper specifications by F. P. Veitch.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has moved its 4,000 employees into the new palace under construction for several years past. The former bureau building has been remodeled and from July 1 will be occupied by several of the auditors of the Treasury and by the General Supply Committee with their thousands of employees. By direction of the Treasury Department the old Bureau building will hereafter be officially known and designated as "The Auditors' Building."

The Regulations of the Public Health Service governing uniforms of officers and employees is in press.

The Geological Survey has in press a directory of the Useful minerals of the United States. It will be Bulletin 585 and is to be published in June. The minerals listed number over 400. Their locations and characteristics are given. The bulletin fills 250 pages. Samuel Sanford and Ralph W. Stone are the authors.

The Weather Bureau began June 1 the issue broadcast from the great naval radio station at Radio, Va., of a daily weather bulletin for the Great Lakes. It is cast into the ether a few minutes after 10 p. m., immediately after the bulletins for the North Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico.

Agriculture Department Bulletin 68, Pasture and grain crops for hogs in the Pacific Northwest, will shortly be reissued, with some changes, as Farmers' bulletin 599.

Miscellaneous series 15, Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, having for title Trade of the United States with the world, 1912–13, was formerly Table 19 in Foreign commerce and navigation of United States. It is now put in octavo pamphlet form for the convenience of those who use it. It shows in detail the imports and exports of merchandise into and from the United States, by countries and principal articles, during the years ending June 30, 1912 and 1913. Price 15 cents.

House document 101, 61st Congress, 2d session, issued just in time to get into this number of the Monthly catalogue, is Foreign relations for the year 1909. The State Department "exercises a large discretion," as former Secretary Foster says in his "A century of American diplomacy," not only as to what shall be printed in the annual volume of diplomatic correspondence known as "Foreign relations," but also as to when it shall be printed.

Standards Bureau has published in handsome style, with illustrations, a very full report of the Eighth annual conference on weights and measures, held May, 1913, with, as an appendix, the text of a model State law for the regulation of weights and measures, which was drafted by the Standards Bureau and endorsed by the conference. For sale by the Superintendent of Documents at 35 cents.

Another publication for which a considerable part of the business public has been waiting has been issued by the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau as Special agents series 81, the title being South America as an export field, and Mr. Otto Wilson, commercial agent, the personal author. It gives information as to the character, extent, resources, and trade of the South American countries. Sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 25 cents.

By virtue of a provision in the Army appropriation act for 1915 (Public 91, 63d Congress), the title of "Chief, Quartermaster Corps," has been changed to "Quartermaster General of the Army."

The Yearbook of the Department of Agriculture, 1913, is now ready. It is no longer necessary to say anything about the value of this book. It is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 75 cents. For several years past the price has been $1.

Yearbook separate 629, The South American meat industry, with 8 pages of illustrations, is on sale at 5 cents.

The 1914 edition of the Comptroller of the Currency's Instructions relative to the organization, etc., of national banks is on sale at 5 cents.

A. L. A. CONFERENCE OF 1914

The Washington meeting of the American Library Association, held May 25–29, was a pronounced success in point both of attendance and of interest. There was an unusual zest and brilliancy in most of the papers and discussions, and numerous social reunions delighted their participants.

Of course the principal interest for the Documents Office people centered in the Public Documents Round Table on Friday morning, which was largely attended and in its course uncovered an appreciation of public documents for library use most gratifying to those whose duty and pleasure it is to serve the libraries with this plain and practical class of brain-food.

During the week the Documents Office found both pleasure and profit in the visits of hosts of library friends who find the public documents one of the mainstays of their library service. It was particularly gratifying to learn from many of them that the document Price lists, issued in great numbers but only as advertising matter and without thought of adaptation to library use, are found to be library tools of real value.

CENSUS OF THE BIRDIES

If there is one thing more than another that must seem preposterous to the unscientific mind it is the proposal that a census be taken of the bird population of the country. At first thought it would seem that one might as well undertake a census of the sunbeams or of the motes that dance in the beams. Of all the kinds of living things that will not hold still to be counted, the birds are the most conspicuous and the most typical.

The United States Biological Survey of the Agriculture Department knows the characteristics of the birdies better than most of us, and with a confidence born of its knowledge it has undertaken a census which to the ordinary comprehension seems impossible.

The only publication yet issued concerning it is a preliminary circular calling on all birdlovers to help, and giving outlines of the methods to be followed.

The correspondents have been advised that the census of the birds should be taken over some area that fairly represents the average character of the country in the immediate neighborhood. It is desired to take a census of the pairs of birds actually nesting within the selected area. Birds visiting the area for feeding only should not be counted. A plan which has been used with advantage is to begin at daylight some morning the last of May, or the first week in June, and zigzag back and forth across the area, counting the male birds of each species. Early in the morning at that season every male bird should be in full song and easily counted. After the migration is over and the birds are settled in their summer quarters, it is safe to consider that each male represents a breeding pair.

The final results of the census should be sent to the Biological Survey, Washington, D. C., about June 30, and should be accompanied by a statement of the exact boundaries of the selected area, defined so explicitly that it will be possible 25 years hence to have the census repeated and comparisons made showing increases or decreases in the bird population.

A second census desired is one of some isolated piece of woodland comprising from 10 to 20 acres. Still a third census to be taken is that of some definite area forming part of a much larger tract of timber. The Department also will be glad to have information concerning any changes noted in the bird life of any locality.

In the past, under mixed game regulations of various States, bird life has been decreasing. Now that the birds have been placed in charge of the Agriculture Department of the United States definite measures are being taken to conserve them and increase their number.

MUCH IN LITTLE

The popular idea (not quite so prevalent now as a few years ago) that a public document is a ponderous tome, terrifying by its size and still more so by its contents, has been given a hard blow by the Forest Service in its most recent document issues: (1) Our timber supply, and (2) The country's forests.

These important documents are 3 inches wide and 5 inches long, the first filling 8 and the second 14 of these pigmy pages of vestpocket size. They give important information in tabloid form.

From these little documents we learn these big facts.

The people of the United States use in a year 40,000,000,000 feet of lumber, 90,000,000 cords of firewood, 135,000,000 hewn railroad ties, 889,000,000 posts, 3,500,000 telegraph and telephone poles, 1,686,000,000 staves, 136,000,000 sets of heading, 353,000,000 barrel hoops, 3,300,000 cords of native pulpwood, 165,000,000 cubic feet of round mine timbers, and 1,250,000 cords of wood for distillation. The yearly growth of wood in our forests is estimated at not more than 12 cubic feet to the acre. We are annually taking from the forests 36 cubic feet to the acre—in other words, we are cutting them three times as fast as they grow.

The national or Government forests, 163 in number, total over 186,000,000 acres, a territory as great as that of the six New England States, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia combined. The average size of a national forest is 1,150,000 acres. National forests are set apart from the public domain, and withheld from sale, to insure a perpetual supply of timber for the use of the people and also to prevent the destruction of the forest cover which regulates the flow of streams.

The national forests contain about 600,000,000,000 feet of merchantable timber, worth at least $900,000,000. Other resources within their area are supposed to be worth $1,100,000,000 more. The forests also contain 1,175 water sheds which supply water to cities and towns, and 324 water power projects and 1,266 irrigation projects, developed or in course of development. The national forests are not locked up, but are in active use. More than $1,000,000 worth of timber was sold from them in 1913 and contracts were closed with 6,000 purchasers for the sale of 2,000,000,000 feet more at nearly $4,500,000. More than 1,550,000 cattle, horses, and swine and 7,860,000 sheep and goats were grazed in the forests last year by 27,000 stockmen. Seventy-six power plants, 800 hotels and resorts, and 1,400 stores and other business buildings were operated in them under permits from the Forest Service, Agriculture Department, which administers the forests.

Few even of the biggest documents furnish more important and interesting facts than are brought under the public eye by these least of documents.

CHANGES THAT TOUCH EVERYBODY

Food inspection decision 153, published by the Agriculture Department, signed by the Secretaries of the Treasury, of Agriculture, and of Commerce, and published May 5, 1914, orders the discontinuance of all "guarantee" labels hitherto in recent years found on packages of food or drugs.

The Board is of the opinion that such labels are misleading and deceptive, because they give rise to the belief that the articles so labeled have been examined and approved by the Government and that the Government guarantees their compliance with the law. All guaranties now on file and the serial numbers assigned to them will be canceled.

Manufacturers or wholesalers may furnish to dealers to whom they sell a guaranty that the article sold is not adulterated or misbranded, and such guaranty will relieve the retailer from responsibility. But the wholesaler's guaranty is not to be put on the label, but on the invoice he furnishes to the retailer to whom he sells.

To give all concerned due notice, Food inspection decision 153 will not become effective until May 1, 1916.

The same Board, the three Secretaries of the Treasury, Agriculture, and Commerce, published May 11 the Regulations for the carrying out of the so-called "net-weight law" which was passed Mar. 3, 1913. The Regulations take effect at once, though penalties for violations will not be exacted till September 3 next.

The Regulations require that manufacturers of foods shall plainly mark all packages, bottles, or other containers holding more than 2 ounces avoirdupois, or more than 1 fluid ounce, with the net weight or volume of the contents. The quantity stated must be the actual quantity of food exclusive of the wrappings or container. There are various explanations and tolerances provided to prevent the Regulations from being onerous and unreasonable, while ensuring to buyers the full amounts to which they are entitled.

These Regulations concerning labeling and weighing are of vital interest to every household. They may be regarded as "paternalism," but certainly it is a benevolent paternalism.

DOCUMENT PRICE LISTS

The demand for copies of the price lists of United States public documents published by the Superintendent of Documents continues brisk and the compilers are hard pushed to supply enough new lists, supplementary lists, and new editions of old lists to fill in the gaps while complete lists on new subjects are in course of compilation.

In April but two lists were published. These were a 6th edition of the list of the Weather Bureau publications and a 4th edition of the list of documents on Transportation. This edition does not include the publications of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which have become so numerous that it has been found necessary to advertise them in a separate list (no. 59).

In May, five new price lists were received from the printer. The first is a 2d supplement to the 7th edition of Price list 16, the Farmers' bulletin list. Time not serving for a recompilation of the large list, a supplement, listing all the more recent issues of agricultural publications, was issued instead. The supply of this having been exhausted, a 2d supplement, including the first one and adding the still newer titles, was published in May.

This was followed by the 1st edition of a new number (60), a list of the documents relating to the newly-created Territory of Alaska. Popular interest in this Territory has been increasing rapidly of late, owing probably to the interest shown and the documents published by Secretary Franklin Lane of the Interior Department, and to the formation of the new Territorial Government and the recent action of Congress and the President in starting a comprehensive railroad system which will do much to develop Alaskan resources. All of these great steps toward the opening of the Territory and its riches are represented in the public documents listed in no. 60.

Another new one (no. 61) also made its advent in May. For the present at least it is of more interest to the American people than no. 60. No. 61 has for its title Panama Canal and the Canal Zone. It is a guide to the public documents of the United States touching on these great subjects, including the Congressional speeches on the bill exempting American vessels in the coastwise trade from payment of tolls on the Canal and on the later bill for the repeal of such exemption.

The 4th list received in May is a 5th edition of no. 42, Agricultural experimentation, being in the main a collection of the titles of the documents relating to nutrition, agricultural education, farmers' institutes, irrigation, drainage, rural engineering, etc., published by the Experiment Stations Office, and all looking to the uplift of the rural life.

The 5th May list is Supplement to the 3d edition of Price list 19, Army and Navy, issued to meet the immediate demand for the latest editions of military manuals, for which active inquiry has sprung up since the Army and Navy of the United States occupied Vera Cruz.

A PUBLIC DOCUMENT RECORD

Among the useful documents issuing from the Government press during May is the 20th number of the Document index, published continuously by the Superintendent of Documents, beginning with the 54th Congress, 1895.

This issue follows more closely the ending of the session whose publications it indexes than has usually been found practicable. These are the publications of the first (special) session of the 63d Congress, Apr. 7–Dec. 1, 1913, and the special session of the Senate, Mar. 4–17, 1913. At these sessions 768 documents and reports were ordered printed, 133 of them having been in the numbered series of Senate committee reports, 252 Senate documents, 92 House committee reports, and 291 House documents.

All of these are indexed under their subjects, titles, and personal authors; also under the Committees from which they are reported and the individual Senators and Representatives presenting them. The 20th Index also, like its 19 predecessors, gives lists of the documents and reports in numerical order and a schedule of the volumes in which they will ultimately be bound.

JUDICIARY COMMITTEE'S PRINTING PLAN

The Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives has introduced a sort of order into its scheme of publication. It has assigned a serial number to each of the several subjects on which it has held hearings. A serial number is printed on all the committee publications. Serial 1 and Serial 2 designate the publications relating to Senate bill 485, providing for an additional United States judge for the southern district of California. There is also a print numbered both 1 and 2 and relating to the late Commerce Court. Apparently the scheme of publication had not yet begun to work smoothly when these two serial numbers were given to so many publications.

The material falling under Serials 3, 4, and 5 has not yet been printed.

Serial 6 stands for the hearings on House joint resolution 168, proposing an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the manufacture of alcoholic drinks. Parts 1 and 2 of Serial 6 have been printed.

Serial 7 is given to the Committee publications which relate to anti-trust legislation. These have been published in 35 separate parts and in several collected volumes. There is a 4-volume print of all the parts and a 2-volume print of the entire material, including an Appendix of several hundred pages, with the report of the Committee and three minority reports. This set was explained to the Public Documents Round Table of the American Library Association during its recent meeting in Washington, by Nathan B. Williams, esq., special expert employee of the Judiciary Committee. Its most novel feature is the reduced facsimile reproduction of the various prints of the anti-trust bill in "bill form," so that the proposed amendments by numbers of page and line can be at once identified in the document print. This print contains more than 2,000 pages and is entirely without indexes. No comment on this fact need be made here. All needed comment will be supplied as they go along by those who try to find things in the big volumes.

Serial 8 is the number given to the published hearings on the bills of the American Bar Association for reform in judicial procedure. Two parts have been issued under this number.

No publications have yet been received under serial numbers 9 and 10.

Serial 11 designates the hearings on woman suffrage. One part has been printed.

Serial 12 is for the hearings on a bill authorizing the National Academy of Sciences to hold trust funds. One part issued.

Serial 13 is hearings relating to the Court of Customs Appeals. Two parts.

Serial 14 is the number for the printed hearings on charges of unlawful lobbying. One part.

Serial 15 is assigned to the proceedings against Judge D. T. Wright. Two parts have been printed.

Serial 16 is the number given to the hearings on Federal employees' compensation. Two parts printed.

Serial 17 relates to terms of United States courts in West Virginia. One part.

Serial 18, United States courts in Texas. One part.

Serial 19 is the case of Judge Speer of Georgia. One volume has been printed.

The use of serial numbers to designate the different subjects of inquiry taken up by a Congressional committee is a step toward more orderly procedure in this class of printing. The numbers as now assigned will be adhered to through the 63d Congress by the House Judiciary Committee.

GOOD ADVICE FROM A GOOD AUTHORITY

The Saturday evening post of Philadelphia, which dates back to Dr. Franklin and enjoys a circulation the mere thought of which would have seemed the wildest of dreams to the good Doctor, made the Documents Office the subject of one of the pungent editorials in its issue for April 4 last. A few lines therefrom fit perfectly into the pages and the ideas of the Monthly catalogue:

"For many people the idea of favor and patronage is so closely associated with the idea of government that if they want a Government publication their first notion is to find a Senator or a Representative, or other influential person, who will procure it for them gratis. Indeed, a great many people do not know that anything of the Government's can be procured except by the exercise of some pull; but it is not worth while to bother the Senator or Representative or anybody else. The easy and simple way to get a Government publication is to send to the Superintendent of Documents and buy it at cost. You are beholden to nobody then, and the price is so low that you would probably rather pay it than ask a favor."

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NOTE.—The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of annual reports (restricted to one volume each, beginning with report for 1902), bulletins, Mineral resources, Professional papers, and Water-supply papers; and maps, Monographs, and folios of the Geologic atlas (issued in Library and Field editions) and the Topographic atlas of the United States, which are sold at prices ranging from 5c. to $11.00 each. A wholesale rate has been established for topographic and geologic folios (either Library or Field editions), whenever the sum transmitted solely for folios at the wholesale price amounts to at least $5.10; that is, a discount of 40 per cent will be given whenever $4 or more folios that sell singly for 25c., or their equivalent in higher priced folios, are ordered at one time. Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are ordinarily used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch, covering, respectively, average areas of 230, 920, and 3,700 square miles. For some areas of particular importance special large-scale maps are published. The usual size, exclusive of the margin, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, the latter varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

Nearly two-fifths of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 10c. each; but in lots of 50 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 6c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

TOPOGRAPHY DIVISION

NOTE.—Since February, 1908, the Topography Division has been preparing rural-delivery maps of counties in which rural delivery is completely established. They are published in two forms, one giving simply the rural free delivery routes starting from a single given post office, sold at 5 cents each; the other, the rural free delivery routes in an entire county, sold at 20 cents each. A uniform scale of 1 inch to 1 mile is used. Editions are not issued, but sun-print copies are produced in response to special calls addressed to the Disbursing Clerk, Post Office Department. These maps should not be confused with the post route maps for which see Monthly catalogue for January, 1914, page 367.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds for their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number, and arranged in sequence. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The Contributions to knowledge and Miscellaneous collections are distributed without charge only to public libraries, learned societies, institutions, and specialists in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.

‡ Document not obtainable.

Explanation

Words and figures inclosed in brackets [] are given for information, but do not appear on the title-pages of the publications catalogued. When size is not given octavo is to be understood. Size of maps is measured from outer edge of border, excluding margin. The dates, including day, month, and year, given with Senate and House documents and reports, are the dates on which they were ordered to be printed. Usually the printing promptly follows the ordering, but various causes sometimes make delays. When Congress and session are not given with the numbers of Senate and House documents and reports, 63d Congress, 2d session, is to be understood.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Superintendent of Documents is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not otherwise provided for.

Documents can not be supplied by this Office free to individuals nor forwarded in advance of payment.

Documents entered in this catalogue that are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., are indicated by a star (*) preceding the price named. A dagger (†) indicates that application should be made to the Department, Bureau, or Division issuing the document, a double dagger (‡) indicates that the document is not obtainable, and whenever additional information concerning the method of procuring a document seems necessary it will be found under the name of the Bureau. The Senate and House documents and reports are issued in limited editions and, unless otherwise indicated, may be obtained only through Members of Congress.

In ordering a publication from the Superintendent of Documents, give the name of the issuing Department, Bureau, or Division, and title. If publication is numbered give number also. Do not order by Library of Congress card number.

Read carefully the instructions "How to remit," found at the bottom of the next page.

The accumulation of publications in this Office amounts to several millions, of which over a million are assorted, forming the sales stock. Many rare books are included, but under the law all must be sold "at cost," regardless of their age or scarcity.

In ordering, it should be borne in mind that many of the books have been in stock some time and are apt to be shop-worn. In filling orders, however, the best copy available is sent.

No general price-list of public documents is available, but lists on special subjects will be furnished on application.

MONTHLY CATALOGUE DISTRIBUTION

The Monthly catalogue is sent to each Senator, Representative, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, and officer in Congress, to designated depositories and State and Territorial libraries, to substantially all Government authors, and to as many school, college, and public libraries as the limited edition will supply.

Subscription price to individuals, $1.10 a year, including index. Back numbers can not be supplied. Please notify the Superintendent of Documents of any change in address.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS

Numbers to be used in ordering the L. C. catalogue cards will be found at the end of the titles of the more important monographic documents. The figure following the card number (separated from it by a slanting line) indicates the number of cards required for entries suggested (title entry not included) on the cards. The price of the cards is 2c. for the first card and ½c. for each additional card for the same title ordered at the same time. Remittances should be made to the Librarian of Congress. Cards can not be furnished by the Superintendent of Documents.

INDEX

Beginning with July, 1913, an Index to the Monthly catalogue will be issued at the end of the fiscal year, June, 1914. This will contain index entries for all the numbers issued from July, 1913, to June, 1914, and can be bound with those numbers as an index for the volume. Persons desiring to bind the catalogue at the end of the year should be careful to retain the numbers received monthly, as duplicate numbers can not be supplied.

HOW TO REMIT

Remittances for the documents marked with a star (*) should be made to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., by postal money order, express order, or New York draft. Currency may be sent at sender's risk.

Postage stamps, foreign money, defaced or smooth coins will positively not be accepted.

To facilitate the payment of the cost of documents, the Superintendent of Documents will hereafter accept coupons issued by him instead of cash. Coupons of the value of 5 cents each are sold in sets of 20 for $1.00. Address order to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office.

No charge is made for postage on documents forwarded to points in United States, Alaska, Guam, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, Samoa, or to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, or Shanghai. To other countries the regular rate of postage is charged, and remittances must cover such postage.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

The new edition of Cavalry service regulations has been printed—including 1,000 copies which the Superintendent of Documents expected to sell—but after the book had been printed the authorities found it not advisable to publish it, and the edition is therefore held under lock and key, awaiting further action, which may or may not be taken. If it should finally be decided to publish the new regulations, either with or without revision, the Superintendent of Documents will have a sale stock ready. In the meantime, he has a fair supply of Tentative cavalry drill regulations, Army, Nov. 1913, a 93-page work, with illustrations, which he is selling at 10 cents a copy.

Farmers' bulletin 593, How to use farm credit, is intended to help farmers with the business side of their occupation and the counsel it gives is equally wise and suitable in all parts of the country.

Almost anybody would sooner pay the Government 5 cents for the information found in Farmers' bulletin 587 than go out and collect it for himself. The title is Economic value of North American skunks. This may at first thought seem an uninviting subject but those who read the pamphlet will find there is something to it besides perfume. The skunk benefits American trappers about $3,000,000 a year by giving up a million or more of its pelts, which bear a fur that wears well and has a luster rivaling the most costly of all furs, Russian sable. We have only three important fur-bearing animals left in this country, once so rich in many kinds of furs. Of the three survivors the skunk is second in value, the muskrat being first and the mink third. But it is not for its fur alone that the skunk is economically valuable. Thirteen States now have laws protecting skunks except for a brief open season. The new bulletin anticipates that all the States will in time have such laws, those now in force having been passed at the instance of farmers, who recognize the value of the animal as a destroyer of insect pests and destructive rats and mice, and of those who wish to conserve the fur resources of the country. The earliest legislation for the protection of skunks was instigated by the hop growers of Central New York, who had found that the animal was their best protection against grubs that were destructive to hop vines. This was in 1894. Now the States giving the skunk legal protection are Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, and Vermont. The author of the bulletin, Mr. D. E. Lantz, biologist, believes there is good prospect for profit in skunk farming, and he tells how it should be carried on. He says the fragrance of the animal may be disregarded, because it is not used unless the creatures are attacked or are badly frightened. But if the farmer wishes to be entirely on the safe side a very slight surgical operation on the young animals will make them scentless for life. In this condition they are much better mousers than cats. London is the great fur market of the world and the annual sales of North American skunk skins there have for years past exceeded a million and in 1911 exceeded two millions. They are manufactured there and come back to this country under various trade names at high prices.

Glaciers of Glacier National Park is the title of a profusely illustrated pamphlet from the Interior Department now on sale at 15 cents.

There are new prints of the Interior Department's pamphlets of general information regarding the Yellowstone, Yosemite, and Glacier national parks. They all contain travel guide maps. These pamphlets, of 48, 34, and 26 pages, respectively, are for free distribution by the Interior Department.

Miscellaneous publication 12 of the Public Health Service is a list of the publications of the Service, and a very substantial list it is of 52 pages. The Public Health Service has in recent years been doing a very valuable work in publishing numerously brief popular treatises on health, disease, and sanitation. These are also listed in Documents Office Price list 51, supplied free by the Superintendent of Documents.

A set of 12 pamphlets, each one giving a list of the member banks in one of the 12 Federal reserve districts, has been published by the Reserve Bank Organization Committee.

Senate document 214, 63d Congress, 1st session, has now been continued by the publication of Part 3, the American evidence concerning agricultural cooperation and rural credit. All three parts are published in quarto form.

Ships' data, U. S. naval vessels, Jan. 1, 1914. This is a very minute description of the vessels and their equipment, including not only the armed vessels but the coal barges, the garbage lighters, the floating workshops, the mud scows, and all the other menial craft that wait upon and serve the loyal Navy. 15 cents.

Senate document 522, 63d Congress, 2d session, is a History of the guaranty of bank deposits in Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, and South Dakota, 1908–14, by George H. Shibley, Director of the American Bureau of Political Research, who argues that such guaranty has become a demonstrated success.

The Interior Department has a new pamphlet of 36 pages for free distribution entitled General information regarding Alaska.

Smithsonian miscellaneous collections, vol. 63, no. 1, Atmospheric air in relation to tuberculosis, is a prize essay by Guy Hinsdale, M. D., Hot Springs, Va., handsomely printed with 93 full page illustrations. A prize of $1,500 was offered by the Institution for the best treatise on this subject to be presented in connection with the International Congress on Tuberculosis which sat in Washington in 1908. Nearly 100 essays were submitted to the committee of award, which divided the prize between Dr. Hinsdale and Dr. S. Adolphus Knopf of New York. By request of the Institution, Dr. Hinsdale has revised his essay to indicate the advances made in the investigation of tuberculosis during the five years following the offer of the prize. As the Miscellaneous collections are published at the expense of the private funds of the Institution, they are not public documents of the United States and therefore can not be supplied by the Superintendent of Documents; nevertheless, this is too notable a publication to be passed over without notice in the Monthly catalogue. This particular number of the Miscellaneous collections is one of the Hodgkins Fund publications and, like all the other publications printed at the cost of that fund, carries the words Hodgkins Fund in conspicuous type on its title-page. These words have sometimes been mistaken for the title of the publication. The late Mr. Rhees, for so many years chief clerk of the Institution, used to tell of having received a letter from a lady thanking the Institution for sending her its Hodgkins Fund.

The Chief Signal Officer of the War Department has issued Manual 2–A, Regulations governing commercial radio service between ship and shore stations, U.S.A. The taking of commercial business by the official radio stations must be a considerable public convenience. 50 cents.

Special agents series 84, Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, is issued in two parts, the general title being Cottonseed products and their competitors in northern Europe. Part 1, already issued, and priced at 20 cents, relates to cake and meal. Part 2, which is to follow, will deal with oils.

Bulletin 14, series of 1914, Education Bureau, contains the formal papers presented at the conference of the National Vocational Guidance Association held in Oct. 1913, at Grand Rapids. It is a new society, with a mission which is quite fully set forth in the Bulletin. 10 cents.

No. 15 in the 1914 series of Education bulletins is an index for the year 1913 to the Monthly record of current educational publications. This Monthly record takes the place of the annual Bibliography of education previously issued.

The Library Division of the Education Bureau has prepared for free distribution a List of references on mothers' clubs and parent-teacher associations. This leaflet is not in any numbered series and is not a list of public documents.

The Bulletin of the Pan American Union, English edition, for June, 1914, completing volume 38, and published also as House document 300, pt. 12, 63d Congress, 2d session, is an extraordinarily attractive number of this very beautiful magazine. The Bulletin, which is printed at the Government Printing Office, has but one rival in the matter of illustrations, and that is another Washington publication, the National geographic magazine.

The Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau has lately published Special consular reports 64, on Utilization of potatoes in Europe. The pamphlet gives some rather surprising information. Germany, with about two thirds of our population and one fifteenth of our area grows more than four times as many potatoes as we do. It is an exceptional year when our potato crop amounts to four hundred million bushels and we never grow as many as we eat, always importing some and in occasional years tens of millions of bushels. The German crop is about 1,800,000,000 bushels. The German people are the greatest potato eaters in the world, the average per capita consumption being 440 pounds a year. Besides the human food demand, great quantities are fed in the raw state and in various prepared forms to horses and cattle and the quantities used in the manufacture of alcohol and starch are very large. American potato growers and potato users may learn much of interest from this collection of reports of American consuls in the Germanic states.

The act repealing the tolls exemption provision of the Panama Canal act is Public 113 of the 63d Congress, price 5 cents.

Public land decisions, vol. 42, is now in stock. Bound in the famous 666 buckram, price $1.75.

Interstate Commerce Commission Reports (Decisions), vol. 28, is out of press. Bound in 666, price $1.50.

Foreign commerce and navigation, 1913, is now available. $1.00.

The Census Bureau has published Financial statistics of American cities having population of over 30,000. These are the statistics for 1912 and are the latest that have been compiled. Sold by the Superintendent of Documents at 75 cents.

Executive orders relating to the Panama Canal and the Canal Zone that have been promulgated by the President from Mar. 4, 1913, to Apr. 16, 1914, have been collected and published in a pamphlet which the Superintendent of Documents can supply at 10 cents.

Vol. 26, Official records of the Union and Confederate navies, is one of the June issues of the Government press. 75 cents.

The publication of Advance sheets of the Monthly summary of commerce and finance has been discontinued. The April issue was the last. This takes one periodical off the list announced by the Superintendent of Documents in his Price list 36. There are, however, fully 50 left for which subscription lists are maintained and for which additional names of subscribers are solicited.

Mines Bureau Bulletin 82 is a full report of the proceedings of the first International Conference of Mine-Experiment Stations, held at Pittsburgh, Sept. 14 to 21, 1912.

The Mines Bureau is prosecuting with great faithfulness and completeness its task of recording and preventing so far as possible the accidents in mining and related industries which in the past have made and are now making a bloody page in the country's industrial history. The Bureau's Technical paper 73, just issued, is a compilation of quarry accidents in the United States for the calendar year 1912.

Necessity of greater care in making laws is the title of a paper written for the Independent more than five years ago by Senator Sutherland of Utah and now printed as a Senate document. In it are given several surprising instances of not only gross carelessness but of absolute contradictions and impossibilities in certain Congressional enactments. Yet the years have passed without any steps being taken toward creating for the assistance of Congress an expert legislative commission similar to those which have been found of great value in several States.

Tariff series 29, Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau, is Foreign import duties on office appliances. Information of this kind has become essential, because the United States is far in advance of all other countries in the invention, manufacture, and exportation of this class of labor-saving devices. The value of such exportations now runs into many millions annually, and is increasing rapidly. As no. 29 puts it: "The distribution of these exports from the United States is general, and few countries of the world are without American typewriters, adding machines, and cash registers. . . . With the continual widening demand for office appliances, American exporters are coming to feel keenly the need of accurate information concerning the import duties to which their goods will be subject on entering new markets. To supply this information as fully as practicable is the object of the present report."

Vol. 1, no. 1, Official bulletin, Office of the Chief of Staff, U. S. A., bearing date Apr. 4, 1914, is the first issue of a series to be published at irregular intervals as circumstances may seem to require.

Binding the Catalogue

The Documents Office will soon issue an index to all entries in the twelve numbers of the Monthly catalogue, July, 1913, to June, 1914. A title-page for the twelve numbers of the catalogue will accompany the index. Duplicate numbers of the Monthly catalogue can not be supplied.

Maps

Missouri. State of. Scale 1:500,000. [Washington] Geological Survey, 1914, 41.4×46.9 in. † 35c.

Topographic sheets

NOTE.—The Geological Survey is making a topographic map of the United States. The sheets of which it is composed are projected without reference to political divisions, and are designated by some prominent town or natural feature found on them. Three scales are ordinarily used, 1:62,500, 1:125,000, and 1:250,000. These correspond, approximately, to 1 mile, 2 miles, and 4 miles to 1 linear inch, covering, respectively, average areas of 230, 920, and 3,700 square miles. For some areas of particular importance special large-scale maps are published. The usual size, exclusive of the margin, is about 17.5 inches in height by 11.5 to 16 inches in width, the latter varying with the latitude. A description of the topographic map is printed on the reverse of each sheet.

Nearly two-fifths of the area of the country, excluding outlying possessions, has been mapped, every State being represented. Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia are completely mapped. Sheets of the regular size are sold by the Survey at 10c. each; but in lots of 50 or more copies, whether of the same sheet or of different sheets, the price is 6c. each. In no case can orders be filled at the wholesale rate unless the sum remitted solely for topographic maps amounts to at least $3.00.

TOPOGRAPHY DIVISION

NOTE.—Since February, 1908, the Topography Division has been preparing rural-delivery maps of counties in which rural delivery is completely established. They are published in two forms, one giving simply the rural free delivery routes starting from a single given post office, sold at 5 cents each; the other, the rural free delivery routes in an entire county, sold at 20 cents each. A uniform scale of 1 inch to 1 mile is used. Editions are not issued, but sun-print copies are produced in response to special calls addressed to the Disbursing Clerk, Post Office Department. These maps should not be confused with the post route maps for which see Monthly catalogue for January, 1914, page 367.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

NOTE.—In its latest price-list the Smithsonian Institution publishes this notice: "Applicants for these publications are requested to state the grounds for their requests, as the Institution is able to supply papers only as an aid to the researches or studies in which applicants are especially interested. The papers included in this list are distributed gratis, except as otherwise indicated. Publications should be ordered by the publication number, and arranged in sequence. The serial publications of the Smithsonian Institution are as follows: 1, Smithsonian contributions to knowledge; 2, Smithsonian miscellaneous collections; 3, Smithsonian reports. No sets of these are for sale or distribution, as most of the volumes are out of print. The Contributions to knowledge and Miscellaneous collections are distributed without charge only to public libraries, learned societies, institutions, and specialists in this country and abroad. The Smithsonian reports are regularly distributed by the Institution to libraries throughout the world, and only a limited number of the volumes remain to supply other demands. No general mailing-list of individuals is maintained. The reports can be purchased from the Super tendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Remittances for publications not distributed gratuitously should be made payable to the 'Smithsonian Institution.' Applications from libraries should be accompanied by a statement of the number of volumes which they contain and the date of their establishment, and should have the endorsement of a Member of Congress." The annual reports are the only Smithsonian publications that are regularly issued as public documents. All the others are paid for from the private funds of the Institution.
